Beaufort firemen were called out at 7:30 a.m. Wednesday to a fire at the Oyster Bar, located at the foot of the North River bridge, only to find that it had completely burned to the ground by the time they reached the scene.

The firefighters remained to protect the bridge and to prevent the fire from reaching a gas pump which had been filled the afternoon before and which contained 250 gallons of gasoline.

It is believed that the fire originated from a stove explosion.

COURT

liquor discovered. Jackson then reached for his pistol, which was in his pocket, and M. V. Hooper, state trooper who was placing Jackson under arrest, knocked the gun out of Jackson's hand.

The defendants, testifying before presiding Judge Lambert R. Morris, offered contradictory testimony. Mollie Green said Alexander bought the liquor and Alexander said it was the other way around. The liquor was bought from an illegal establishment in North Harlowe, where all the defendants reside, police said.

All agreed, however, that the white man paid for the liquor, and Neal Jackson, after being arrested, said they had "chipped the pot" in order to purchase it.

Mollie Green has been in court before on the same charges and was described in court as having a reputation as a bootlegger.

William C. (Pink) Smith, charged with assault with a deadly weapon and inflicting serious injury, received a two-year suspended sentence, was placed on five years' good behavior, and ordered to pay $25 and costs.

The prosecuting witness in the case, Dick Willis, said that Smith cut him with a knife during a row at Atlantic Beach, causing him serious injury and loss of four weeks' work.

Willis said he was willing to drop the charges since Smith offered to pay his doctor's bills, but Judge Morris refused to do so without a hearing because he believed that an offense against the state "should not be ignored."

Robert Adams pleaded guilty to a charge of driving drunk and paid a fine of $100 and costs. Other charges preferred against Adams, including reckless and careless driving and failing to yield the right-of-way, causing a wreck, will be continued upon request of the defendant.

Although a string of witnesses provided an alibi for Alexander Kuchinsky, Jr. Vanceboro, Judge Morris found him guilty of driving drunk, speeding at 80 miles per hour, and driving without a license. He was sentenced to six months in jail, suspended upon payment of $150 and costs.

Patrolman Hooper, who made the arrest, said Kuchinsky escaped when he overtook the car speeding on route 70. Kuchinsky, with the aid of witnesses, claimed that another man, who resembled Kuchinsky, was driving the car and that Kuchinsky, under the influence of liquor, was left stranded on the road miles away from the scene, and had no part in it at all.

Kuchinsky gave notice of appeal to superior court and posted $300 R. D. (Dick) Ricks, convicted on charges of public drunkenness and disorderly conduct, was sentenced to three months in jail, suspended for two years and pays $10 and court expenses.

Cases were dismissed against C. E. McCotter, speeding 70 miles per hour, and Wardell Daniels, Sr., assaulting, kicking, and "stomping" a man while he was on the ground and being held by several others.

The McCotter case was dismissed because of a defective warrant.

Before hearing the Daniels case, Judge Morris warned both Daniels and the prosecuting witness, Wilson Davis, that he was a spectator to the fray in question and that he would disqualify himself if either party requested it. Both agreed to let Judge Morris hear them.

The alleged altercation took place at a recent ball game and Davis, a player for Harkers Island-Straits, charged that Daniels, a spectator, ran out on the field and attacked him. Judge Morris ruled, however, that Davis was as much to blame as anyone else and disallowed his claims with a warning to both parties that they should not abuse the spirit of sportsmanship in future ball games.

The state will not prosecute in the cases of Rose Brown and Herbert Gites, cohabiting; Howard H. Zozrodsky, disorderly in public and using profane language; Belle Mills, no driver's license in possession.

Also, Bosworth Newsome, breaking down the door to the bedroom of a man and his wife, destroying the door, value $25, using loud, boisterous, and profane language, entering said bedroom and assaulting with a deadly weapon, breaking the peace, etc.

Other cases disposed of Tuesday were W. H. Benson, no driver's license, fined $25 and costs; Mrs. C. L. Taylor, no driver's license, costs; Ida Fitzgerald, speeding, costs; Robert Jackson, Jr., speeding, $10 and costs.

Fred Cannon, public drunkenness, costs; Paul Ray Crook, no license, costs; Richard V. Swindell, no driver's license, costs; Robert Earl Jones, no driver's license and parking on the highway, causing an accident, costs.

John Alfred Wetherington, Jr., speeding, $25 and costs; John Leslie Sharpe, speeding, costs.

Cases were continued against David Phillip Sellers, speeding; Garland Grey Gillikin, reckless and careless driving; George Allen Wooten, driving drunk and careless driving; John Edward Pittard, Jr., speeding.

Wiley Thomas Rose, driving with license plates improperly displayed; Willie L. Royster, speeding; Lloyd Gilbert Gonya, no driver's license; Harry Robert Taylor, speeding; Johnnie R. Parries, no driver's license; and Glenn B. Ritchey, speeding.

Bonds were forfeited by William H. Windor and James Carson Gardner, no driver's license. Court adjourned at 4:15 p.m.
