pany has let a contract for their new building to house office and mechanical equipment for the publishing of THE NEWS-TIMES.

Ground was broken the past week on the two 50-foot frontage lots on Arendell street west of the Tidewater Power company plant. This is the former site of the old ice plant which was torn down a few years past.

The building will be of concrete and steel construction, so arranged fire proof as possible. So near the various operations in the makeup and printing of the paper from office to delivery room will be of the least effort and lost motion.

Modern ideas in newspaper publishing will be embodied in all departments, combined with new labor saving equipment. A Wilmington concern has the contract for the construction of the building which is expected to be completed and ready for occupancy about the first of the year.

Out of the sum of $3,400,000 allotted last week by the Rural Electrification Administration for the extension of electrical service to farming areas, the Carteret-Craven Electric Membership Corporation has been given a loan of $450,000. The national average of southern states having rural electrification is 66.6 with North Carolina leading the South with an average of 68.3.

Following a heavy downpour of rain Monday night of last week, the wind shifting from north east around to southeast and southwest piled up the water in Bogue Sound causing one of the highest tides in causing one of the highest tides in front to oldtimers along the water front.

Water covered a large area on Shepard street in the vicinity of 10th street extending over halfway up that street to Evans. Debris and small crafts were carried to high ground by the excessive tide. In spite of the water-piling job done on the basement walls of the City Hospital the past summer, water seeped in an inch or more, causing plenty of mess. Rain and seepage has filled the excavation made for the basement of the new telephone building under construction on 9th street, bringing this work to a standstill.

The Sinclair Oil bulk plant on the waterfront operated by T. T. Potter has completed the installation of a 25,000 gallon storage tank which is said to hold the contents of two rail tank cars. This added storage should give this plant an almost inexhaustible supply of fuel oil.
