Palms and baskets of flowers decorated the altar for the rites.

The bride was attired in a gown of white chiffon over tulle, styled with a round neckline, shirred bodice and a full skirt. Tiny satin bows trimmed the front of the bodice and skirt. She wore a single strand of pearls and long white mitts. Her fingertip veil edged with lace, was held in place by a tiara of seed pearls. She carried a cascade bouquet of white roses, gladioli and baby mums.

Her maid of honor, Joyce Larson of Iowa, was gowned in ice blue satin, fashioned with round neckline, fitted bodice and full skirt with bustle effect. She wore a matching headpiece and carried a bouquet of bronze mums and roses.

For her son's wedding, Mrs. Redman chose a blue crepe dress with a corsage of gardenias and red roses.

The bride's parents were unable to attend, but they telephoned the couple preceding the ceremony.

Following the rites, the newlyweds greeted their guests at the home of the bridegroom's parents. Bouquets of mixed flowers decorated the Redman home. A three tiered wedding cake, ice cream, punch and coffee were served by cousins of the bridegroom.
