Gregory Peck Idolizes But Doubts If He'll Ever Play Abraham Lincoln

By Gene Handsaker

HOLLYWOOD — You won't catch Gregory Peck playing Abraham Lincoln, even though the Civil War President is his idol. And even if, with a beard, Greg looks an awful lot like Abe. "Sure, I'm tall and skinny and grow a beard," Peck admitted, "but I don't think that's enough qualification. I think I'm too fond of him to play him realistically. And there's nothing more horrible than idealizing some character out of history."

"Besides, there's no element of surprise left. Lincoln's been done 'Unless' — and here the brown Jack eyes brightened speculatively — 'unless there could be a story about the strain and tension of his home life. It's only been hinted at.' With which Greg, in his home-grown beard, went back to playing Russian novelist Dostoyevsky in 'The Great Sinner' — but looking more like Lincoln.

Hey! yells Diana Lynn. Who put out that malarkey on the radio about her broken arm not healing properly so she may not play the piano again? (She busted it in the bathtub.) It's healing perfectly, she told me, and she'll even thump the ivories in her current picture. Her co-star in "Bitter Victory" is Robert Cummings, who must

Lions Club Eye Clinic Opens This Morning

The Morehead City Lions club eye clinic will begin at 9 this morning, in the local health department offices in cooperation with the county welfare department, State Blind commission, and the county health department. Dr. J. B. Hawes, Washington, N. C., prominent eye specialist of the state, will conduct the clinic and Mrs. Louise Carter Bullock, representative of the State Blind commission, will supervise it.

The clinic is for service to under privileged persons, especially school children. The patients are selected by the health department nurses, but must be approved by the local welfare department.

The health officer, Dr. N. T. Ennett, commended the Morehead City Lions club for their fine work in conserving the eyesight of school children who could not afford private treatment. He said he doubted if there were another piece of welfare work being done in the county equal to that being done by the Lions club. D. B. Webb is president of the organization.

Smoke Without Fire Discovered at School

The familiar adage, "Where there's smoke there's fire," may be true, and all that, but officials at the Beaufort Negro school were relieved to find no fire after seeing smoke rising from the attic Wednesday at 10:45 a.m.

Two fire trucks answered an alarm and went to the school, but thorough investigation of the attic failed to uncover even a single spark of fire. It was believed that the smoke came from the school chimney.

School children, who had formed orderly lines outside the building under the supervision of their teachers, were permitted to return to their work at 11:10.
