Home Hints

Misuse of kerosene, or coal oil, particularly in rural areas, causes hundreds of deaths each year.

One common and dangerous practice is the use of kerosene to speed up a slow fire. Kerosene vaporizes when poured into a warm stove, and this vapor may explode, igniting clothing and furniture in the room. Kerosene should never be used to start fires.

Kerosene as well as other fuels is often used in portable open-flame heaters. They must be cleaned frequently, handled with care, and repaired promptly when defects become apparent. They should never be filled indoors or placed where there is danger of knocking them over. They should never be used in tightly-closed rooms and under no circumstances should they be left burning in bedrooms after you have retired.

Breads offer a chance for variety in your meals. The modern homemaker who is keeping up with the newer knowledge of nutrition is making sure that all bread and rolls she serves are enriched or whole wheat. In making biscuits loaf bread, pancakes, waffles, cookies, gingerbread, and cakes, she uses whole wheat or enriched white flour. Oatmeal is an excellent food that adds to the variety and food value of cookies.

Use prunes in cookies, cereals and puddings. They are a good source of iron, vitamin A, and niacin.

Molasses—the blacker, the better. Use in cookies, cakes, puddings, bread, and on pancakes. It is high in calcium, iron, and niacin.
