Norfolk Southern Establishes Program Calling for Expenditure of $14,000

Raleigh—Establishment of a fellowship and scholarship program, calling for the expenditure of $14,000 during the next four years, by the Norfolk Southern Railway Company at N. C. State college and at the Woman's college in Greensboro was announced here today by Major J. T. Kingsley, president of the company.

President Kingsley said that the awards will go to five high school graduates who are interested in studying mechanical engineering, civil engineering, and agriculture at State college and home economics at the Woman's college. He said that each scholarship will be valued at $500 annually.

In addition, the company will establish a fellowship in Diesel engineering for graduate students valued at $1,000 for each year during the period. The fellowship will be created at State College and will be open to students throughout the country.

Recipients of scholarships, Kingsley said, must be either children of Norfolk Southern Railway employees or high school graduates living in communities served by the railroad.

Dean J. H. Lampe of the school of Engineering at State college said that the fellowship in Diesel engineering will provide one student with full-time graduate study and that appointments will be made on a one-year term.

The fellowship training, he said, will be conducted by the College's Department of Diesel Engineering, headed by Prof. R. B. Rice.

The scholarships to be awarded by the company are as follows:

A $500 scholarship in mechanical engineering at State college to be awarded to a son of an employee of the railroad. A $500 scholarship in home economics at the Woman's college to be awarded to a daughter of an employee of the company.

A $500 scholarship in agriculture at State college to be awarded to a male high school graduate residing in the territory served by the Norfolk Southern Railway company, and a $500 scholarship in home economics at the Woman's college to be awarded to a female graduate of a high school in a community served by the company.

Faculty committees appointed by officials of the two colleges will select the award recipients from the high school graduates and graduate students submitting applications.

Col. Andrew L. Monroe of Raleigh, chairman of the Greater University Board of Trustees visiting sub-committee for the College's Engineering school and a director of the Norfolk Southern Railway company, assisted in drawing plans for the scholarship and fellowship program.

The first scholarship and fellowship award will be made for students planning to enter the two colleges next September. College officials urged prospective applicants to submit their applications immediately.

Full information and application forms may be obtained free of charge by writing to Dean J. H. Lampe, School of Engineering, N. C. State College, Raleigh.

Safety Division Conducts 'Cycle Safety Drive

RALEIGH — "When your children get bicycles, please see to it that they know and obey the rules of the road," Jeff B. Wilson, director of the Highway Safety division of the North Carolina Department of Motor Vehicles said today.

The request was made in connection with the cycle safety drive being conducted by the division.

"With the growing popularity of the bicycle for transportation, recreation and health, it is important that safe riding rules be taught our youngsters," Wilson declared.

"Parents who would never think of letting their young sons and daughters drive the family car without adequate instruction in its mechanical operation and in traffic rules, will often turn a youngster loose on a bike without giving him any instructions in its safe operation."

Wilson went on to state that parents can be of great help by making sure the bike is in good mechanical condition and that it fits the child so that he will have no difficulty in handling it. Impress upon the child that he must keep well to the right-hand side of the road and if he's riding in a group, ride single file. He must obey traffic lights and signs and walk the bike across heavy traffic. When turning, he should give the proper signal and be sure there's no car close behind when he moves to the middle of the street for a left turn.

"When you give him permission to ride the bike," Wilson suggested, "do so on condition that he promises not to carry passengers. They lessen his control of the bike and obstruct his view. Have him carry packages in a rack or basket, avoid all hitching and keep out of ruts and trolley tracks. Tell him not to shoot out of driveways or stunt in traffic."

Music Revue Hits New High in Entertainment

A bit of Hollywood and New York came to Beaufort Friday night when the Beaufort high school glee club presented a song and dance revue that came so close to a professional production that many of the audience were hard pressed to realize they were sitting in Beaufort school auditorium and not a moving picture theater.

The waltz dream fantasy and the radio show, "Your Musical Nightcap" were outstanding. "Stouthearted Men" and "One World" in the patriotic medley number were splendid, while the sacred a capella numbers were a perfect beginning for the program of varied musical numbers and dances.

It is extremely difficult to select the best numbers. Each and every one was magnificently presented. Sacred numbers were "Now the Day is Over," "A Mighty Fortress is Our God," and "Every Time I Feel the Spirit."

A. C. Blanzenship did an outstanding job of choral speaking in the patriotic medley number. Velma Murphy sang the solo part in "America I Love You." Other numbers were "Battle Hymn of the Republic," "Your Land and My Land," and "The Star Spangled Banner."

Marie Webb's lovely voice and personality highlighted the radio show, a glee club number ably conducted by Billy Downum. The boys looked handsome in tuxedos while the girls wore gowns in pastel shades. Helen Paul and Howard Fodrie

Judges to Select Miss Morehead Friday Night

An excellent opportunity for Morehead City girls to display their talent, beauty, poise and charm is being offered in the preliminary Miss Morehead City contest Friday night at the high school.

Too often girls who possess some talent never have an opportunity to display it in public and the preliminary contests of the Miss America Pageant are offering just such an opportunity.

James Wallace, chairman, said today. Contestants should remember their talent is being exhibited not only to the home town, but also to talent, scouts and representatives of the entertainment world who always follow the Miss America pageant from the preliminaries straight through to the National finals. They're looking for beauty of course, but they are also looking for talent and intelligence and they are keenly interested in the manner in which that talent is presented, Mr. Wallace declared.

This year North Carolina is going to choose its prettiest and most talented young lady to compete in the Miss America pageant for 1948, and it's a golden opportunity for someone.

The Miss Beaufort contest will be held Friday, June 17. Further details will appear in THE NEWS-TIMES.

Veterans Act On Education Aid

A request urging Governor Kerr Scott to see that educational aid is cut off from all persons connected with subversive groups was among the resolutions passed by the more than 300 delegates to the convention of the state department of Disabled American Veterans held in Morehead City Thursday through Sunday of last week.

Members of the organization gathered in Morehead City Thursday and held a business session during the afternoon. The next two days were taken up with business sessions—luncheons and sightseeing tours.

Saturday night, Col. Richard C. Maloney, post deputy commander at Fort Bragg and a participant in the Bataan death march, spoke to the group at their banquet. He urged their support for a drive to have the Veterans Administration reinstate the portion of its hospitalization program that was recently discontinued. Colonel Maloney said this discontinuance showed the strong need for a United Veterans organization.

The convention closed Sunday morning with a memorial service on the lawn of the Jefferson hotel. Chapter 26 of Havelock with David Oglesby, commander was host chaplain for the meeting.

Tide Water Power company yesterday rolled its cable, packed in a round wooden crate, east on highway 70 to Newport river where it will be laid across the channel as soon as pilings are in place.

Health Office Schedules County Typhoid Clinics

The Carteret county health department has just completed typhoid vaccinations in the schools and is now endeavoring to have all adults and children receive shots who have not been vaccinated. Persons who had shots last year need take only one shot and those who have gone longer without a vaccination must take the series of three shots that are given a week apart.

Nurses from the health department are at their offices in Beaufort every Tuesday from 1 to 4 p. m. and every Saturday from 9 to 12 noon. They are also at the municipal building in Morehead City every Thursday night from 6:30 until 7:30. Typhoid shots may be taken at either of the two places at the time specified.

The nurse's schedule for the rest of the county follows: Tuesday, May 24, 31, June 7, Conner's store, Harlowe, 9:30 a. m. Wednesday, May 25, June 1, 8—Pelletier's store, Stella, 9:30 a. m.; Odell Smith's store, Bogue, 10:30 a. m.; church yard, Broad Creek, 11:30 a. m.; Mason town sign, Newport (Nine-Foot road), 1 p. m.; post office, Newport, 1:45 p. m.; Lee Murdock's store, Wildwood, 2:30 p. m.

Herbert Styron's store, Roe, 8:30 a. m.; near net factory, Atlantic, 10 a. m.; near Primitive Baptist church, Sea Level, 10:45 a. m.; Gaskill's store, Staley, 11:30 a. m.; post office, Williston, 1 p. m.; post office, Marshallberg, 1:45 p. m.; school house, Harker's Island, 2:30 p. m.; Spivey's store, Bettie, 3:30 p. m.

Other points are not included in the schedule since health department experience over the past few years does not justify their inclusion.

The health officer requests that those persons requiring three shots be present each time because the nurses will make three visits only.

Research Vessel Arrives At Port Terminal Saturday

The Albatross, federal research vessel, docked at the port terminal Saturday morning following a four day trip from Wood's Hole, Mass. While enroute from Wood's Hole it made nine soundings off the Carolina coast.

The Albatross, with its crew of trained oceanographers and scientists, will establish hydrographic stations—take soundings and make an extensive survey of coastal waters.

More than 400 greyhounds have arrived at kennels from Florida and other states to take part in the nightly races to be held at the Carolina Racing association's dog track which opens its second and a 92-night season Friday night, June 3.

Prior to the official opening of the track on June 3, there will be six nights of schooling races starting this Friday night, May 27. The schooling events, held in order that dogs may get accustomed to the track, will feature from 15 to 16 races each evening. There will be no charge of admission to see the dogs run. On the schooling nights, there will be no pari-mutuel betting, and as a result, children if they so desire, may visit the track and see the dogs run. After official opening night and the beginning of pari-mutuel betting no minors will be allowed inside the track while races are under way.

This is the same system that was employed last year and highly trained and well-paid officers enforced the ruling relative to minors and at the same time kept absolute order at the track.

Patrons of the track this year will find many improvements have been made since the season closed last year. Several thousand dollars have been expended in landscaping the properties. Additional parking areas have been constructed providing space for parking several hundred additional automobiles. Approaches to the parking area have been paved. Changes have been made in the grand stand providing additional seating space.

This year automatic coin machines have been installed at the main gate to expedite the movement of patrons through the turnstiles. Instead of buying a ticket and handing same to a ticket-taker at the gate, there will be change making facilities and the patron will merely drop a half dollar in a slot to unlock a turnstile for entering the tracks—and (unlike) will also be installed for patrons of the Club House. An automatic ticket system will be installed at that phase of the operation.

With the official opening on June 3, there will be 10 races each night. But there will be no racing on Sunday nights. The season extends until Saturday night, September 17. Pari-mutuel betting will be under supervision of the Morehead City Racing Commission, and L. D. Gore will again be the Commission judge.

Other racing officials, most of whom were here during the 1948 season include: Boyd Rhodes, presiding judge; J. R. Sanders, associate judge and timer; Paul Hartwell, racing secretary; Harry Dundas, paddock judge; Paul C. Hartwell, Jr., clerk of scales; C. V. Goetichus, clerk writer; Leo Ku-

Group Will See Dog Races, Attend Cocktail Party, Dance at Morehead City

Plans for the first annual Memorial Day cruise by Tar Heels Afloat, only yachting organization in the world to which no membership dues are charged, and which anyone with a pleasure craft may be a member, were completed this week.

The group, making up a flotilla of up to 75 yachts and pleasure craft, ranging in size from speed boat size to yachts of more than 100 feet in length, will rendezvous at Morehead City Yacht basin Saturday. On the following morning, Sunday, May 29, the greatest mass movement of pleasure boats to ever assemble at one time in North Carolina will begin moving out of this port via Adams Creek for the cruise up Neuse river to the Trent Pines club at New Bern where more entertainment has been planned by the East Carolina Yacht club of the Craven capital.

In Morehead City the group on Saturday night will be entertained first at a cocktail party to be held in the Bogue Sound club (formerly Morehead Villa). Following the cocktail party, the group will be guests of Carolina Racing association where greyhound schooling events will be underway. There will be up to 15 dog races during the evening but no pari-mutuel betting. Official opening of the track will not be until Friday night, June 3. Rotarians Hear Talk on Scouts Morehead City Rotarians heard an informative talk on the recently activated troop of Boy Scouts in Morehead City at their meeting Thursday night in the recreational center. Floyd Chadwick, Jr., Scoutmaster, was the speaker.

Mr. Chadwick said the troop was organized eight weeks ago from the remnants of a troop that had been sponsored by the Young People's Bible class of the Morehead City Baptist church. Quincy Stimpson, former leader of that troop had moved away and the troop was in the throes of disintegrating when Morehead City Jaycees decided to take charge of the situation, he said.

The new troop started with 17 members and now has 34. All persons who have been requested to do so have rendered their assistance, Mr. Chadwick reported. He said his three assistant Scoutmasters, Marion Mills, Charles Stanley and Arthur Lewis, have given their time to the troop's work and have helped the boys, particularly in giving merit badge tests.

Since its beginning a scarce two months ago Mr. Chadwick said the troop had held a court of honor, had a formal charter presentation and assisted in organizing a Scout baseball league among the six Scout troops in the county.

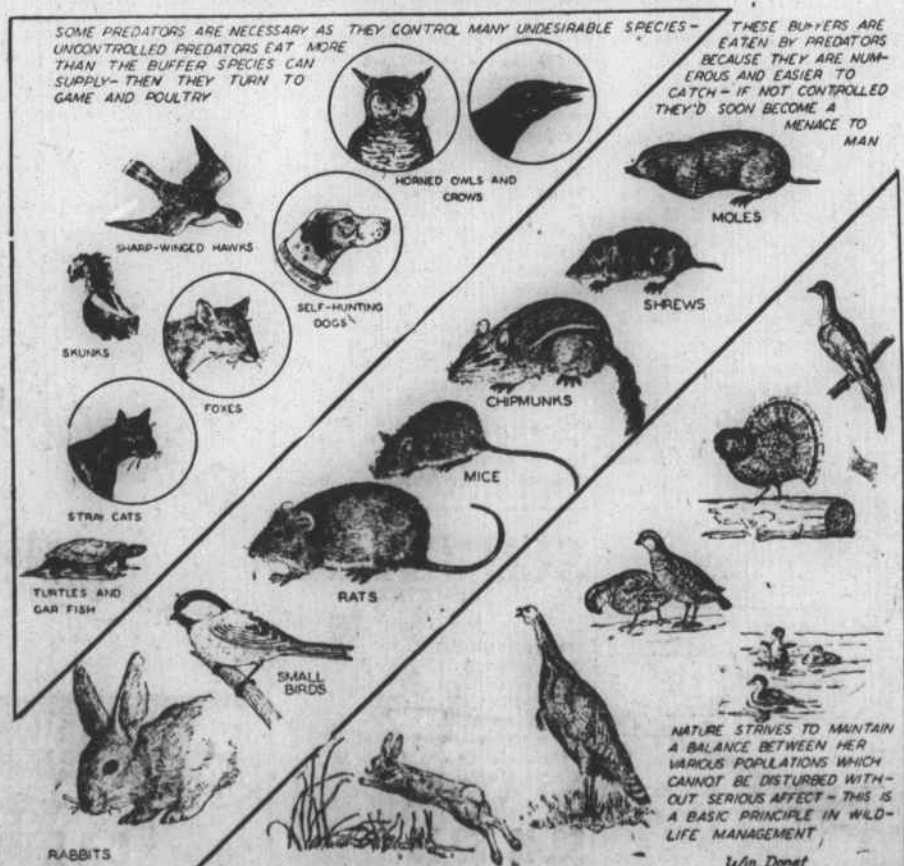

Following the speech on Scouting, the Rev. Lester Tilley said that the work the Scoutmasters were doing was more in the line of what some people felt the church should do.

Rotarian George Wallace proposed that the Rotary hold a father and son night sometime in the near future. He said it had been many years since such an occasion had been held and that it was time to consider future Rotarians as well as present ones. The date for the night was set as June 9.

Next week the Morehead City Rotary club will meet at the Morehead City Technical Institute as guests of director James I. Mason and the Institute.
