Signorina Takes To Softballing

By Luciano Ferrari
Milan, Italy.—(AP)—A new kind of working girls' Saturday has come to Italy.

It's drawing pretty good crowds, too.

For the Milan Yankees and the Hit Mores have just finished Italy's first World Series—in girls' softball.

There are only about 50 teams, all started since the war. In Italy, any kind of baseball is new.

But softball, with working girls in blue slacks, is even newer. The Yankees and the Hit Mores are the first two teams to be formed, both in Milan. Others are being organized in Rome, Turin, Bologna and Parma.

So far they've played a series of six games. The Hit Mores won four and Libertas, or the Yankees, two.

Libertas was formed a year ago by the Signora Jole Galeona, wife of Dr. Piero Galeona, who is president of Milan's Libertas men's baseball club.

The team has recruited 15 players, captained by Bruna Finizio, an accountant in a Milanese printing house. Most of the other players also are working girls, averaging about 20 years old.

The Hit Mores, who are changing their name to Ambrosiana, were formed a few months ago under the coaching of Sergio Coradescini, an architect.

His team of 22 players is captained by Virginia Zambelli, an accountant student. Youngest player on the team is Vittoria Zambelli, the captain's little sister.

Newport Quintet Loses To Lejeune; Girls Win

In a doubleheader played at Newport Friday night the Newport girls defeated Camp Lejeune girls 47-43 and the Newport boys were defeated by Lejeune 55-32. Naomi Garner scored 27 points for Newport and for Lejeune Carol Propst also scored 27.

For Newport Roy Dennis had 7 points and for Lejeune Ronald Hodge racked up 30.

"Out of thin air" comes the HIGHEST HORSEPOWER in Buick history

NOTE FROM YOUR BUICK DEALER:
Presented here is the story of a great new engine development, as told by the men who did the job. We reprint the story here in its entirety — as we couldn't beat it if we tried.

thrift and smoothness that's out of this world. As you pick up speed, the "stand-bys" come into play—feeding not just more gas, but more air too—so you keep getting maximum power from each drop of fuel.

No, we didn't have to build a new engine. We took Buick's valve-in-head Fireball Engine—which makes the most of high compression. We drew on 12 patient years of Buick carburetion research.

And we came up with more might, 170 miles, from gas—right out of thin air, in 17 ways than one.

When you talk about "miles per gallon" think of fuel, because that's what you want. But air's free—and for every gallon of fuel, a busy engine can gulp more than 8,000 gallons of air.

The problem is to deliver air in the right proportions, throughout the full range of speeds at which you drive.

A carburetor—big enough to supply the air needed at full throttle—can be wasteful in stop-and-go driving. A carburetor sized for thrift in city traffic literally smothers your engine when you really give it the gun.

So Buick engineers developed the Airpower carburetor—a four-barrel automatic—and here's how it works.

Loading along, two barrels are working, two stay closed. And you get a low-sp.

thrift and smoothness that's out of this world. As you pick up speed, the "stand-bys" come into play—feeding not just more gas, but more air too—so you keep getting maximum power from each drop of fuel.

You have 170 effortless horsepower when you need it—a tremendous reserve ready to respond in instant action at the nudge of your toe.

And the satisfaction of knowing that you get maximum power with a frugal use of gas. At 40 miles per hour, you use less gas than you formerly used at 30.

The story of Airpower carburetion in Buick figures straight from the factory. The statistics can't tell you the breath-taking story of heading for new horizons in a great-powered new ROADMASTER.

When can you do that? Better come in soon. Lots of other folks are flocking into our showroom these days to see the greatest array of new Buicks we've had in years.

Equipment, accessories, trim and models are subject to change without notice.
