Church Gives Annual Bazaar

Mrs. Robert Lowe, left, who originated the idea of the antique room at the St. Andrew's Christmas bazaar, is shown at a table with cut glass compotes owned by Mrs. Philip Ball, Morehead City. The compotes are about a hundred years old, Mrs. Lowe said.

it is a surveyor's map, done in 1827 by Sam Leffers, showing the John B. Whitehurst holdings in this county. The map shows land in Straits and is owned by Mrs. Winifred Willis, sister of Mrs. Lowe.

thur Sheppard. In front of it are candle molds.

On the table at right are steins, old silver pieces and pewter. In the foreground is the head of the walking cane and the pistol owned by Maj. George A. Eastman who was an officer in the Union Army.

The items were loaned by George Eastman, Morehead City. The cane and pistol were presented to Major Eastman by President Lincoln.

One of the most attractive tables at the bazaar was the table where wares made by the men's club were sold. Standing behind the table are Stanley Woodland, and barely visible at the right is William H. Lewis. The bazaar was held Wednesday afternoon at the recreation building.
