The program evolved around "Light", the worthy matron's chosen theme for the year. Each officer presented a yellow rose to Mrs. Chadwick and then assumed position with lighted blue candles forming a circle of light through which the honored officers were escorted.

Soloists for the program were Mrs. Clifton Lynch and Mr. Bill Norwood. A duet was sung by Miss Mary Lou Norwood and Mr. Norwood.

The concluding prayer for the evening was given by Mrs. Chadwick's brother-in-law, Mr. William Chadwick of New Bern, and the closing ode was "May the Good Lord Bless and Keep You".

Following the meeting all visitors and guests assembled in the first floor where refreshments of assorted sandwiches, cake, mints, nuts, coffee and colas were served. Mrs. Andrew Midgette greeted guests and members as they arrived. The decorations for the installation, arranged by Mr. and Mrs. Earl Norwood, were yellow jonquils, arrangements of greenery, the symbolic sword and veil of Adah marking each standpoint, and blue candles throughout the room.

The Eagle Eye is upon you!

By ROMELDA SHEPPARD

Baseball With baseball season just around the corner, the Eagles held a practice game on their home field with the Beaufort Seadogs. The game was held to help Coach Clark cut the squad. The outstanding Eagles in the game were to make the team. No cut in the squad has been made so far.

The Eagles opened the scoring in the bottom of the second on a walk to Jackie Simpson and a home-run by John Glancy. The Seadogs came right back in the top of the third with a walk to the lead-off man and a home-run by Gordon Becton.

Nobody was able to drive across a run until the fifth, when James Guthrie singled, stole second and third and came home when the right fielder made an error on Jackie McQueen's high fly to right field.

The Seadogs were unable to score in the first of the sixth, and this should have ended the game, with the Eagles winning 3-2, but Coach Gordon of Beaufort wanted to let some of his other pitchers work out. He let the Eagles finish the last of the sixth.

The Eagles picked up three more runs in the sixth on a two-run single by Sheril Norman and a bases loaded walk.
