

Atlantic Pirates Trounce Beaufort Seadogs, 14-0

Atlantic Batters Clobber Seadog Hurlers for 11 Hits

The Atlantic Pirates pounded out a 14-0 victory over Beaufort Tuesday at the Atlantic field. Two hurlers held the Seadogs to five hits during the seven-inning contest. The Pirates got 11 hits.

The first inning saw Atlantic push across four big runs, more than enough to win the game. The Pirates added three more in the second inning.

They scored four in the fifth and three final runs in the sixth.

Floyd Brown started on the mound for the Pirates and gave up four hits in the first five innings. He struck out six Seadog batters.

In the sixth inning Brown moved to second base and second baseman Rodney Pitman took the hill. Pitman gave up one hit and struck out three in the final two innings.

Kirk is Loser

Larry Kirk was the losing pitcher, giving way to Dallas Willis with none out in the second inning. Willis finished the game for the Seadogs.

Atlantic Coach Roy Cockerham said his team looked good at the plate but showed serious weaknesses in the field. Left fielder Sammy Salter played the best defensive game, he said, and got one hit for two official times at bat.

Third baseman Aubrey Harvey was the man with the big bat. He got four hits, one a double, and drove in seven Atlantic runs. First baseman George Golden hit a double and a single to drive in three runs. Right fielder R. J. Salter drove in two runs with a double.

Hit Safely

Catcher Herbert Morris, shortstop Myron Willis and center fielder Donald Styron collected hits for the Pirates. Pittman and Brown, the two pitchers, were the only Pirates who failed to connect safely.

The five Seadog hits were divided among as many Beaufort players. The boys who got hits were shortstop Butch Hassell, catcher H. D. Paul, left fielder Kenneth Jones, first baseman John Smith and second baseman Joe Pake.

Other Seadogs who played were Gordon Becton, Raymond Gillikin, Bill Morgan, Kirk and Willis.

Zanesville Finally Gets Employees Paid by Check

Zanesville, Ohio (AP)—City employees here this January began getting paid by check instead of cash.

In the past, the employees had to call on a downtown bank for their pay envelopes. Under the new system, department heads will distribute the checks.

"We're finally catching up with the times," said City Auditor John Fenton who proposed the change.

Stay-Stitching Helps Garment Fit Properly

By FLOY G. GARNER
Home Agent

Last week we learned about "grain" and its importance in home sewing. To insure grain line perfection after cutting a garment, "stay-stitch" edges. Stay-stitching prevents stretching and holds grain in its correct position. Stay-stitch by machine stitching in correct direction through single thickness of material.

Beginners should stay-stitch one-fourth inch from cut edge, then if it isn't even, it won't show. Experienced sewers put stay-stitching on seam line.

Stay-stitching is used on off-grain edges on blouse front and back at neckline, shoulder, armhole and side placket; skirt front and back at waistline and length of placket opening at hips.

Floy G. Garner

In stay-stitching the neckline, stitch from shoulder to center back and front from both sides; shoulder-stitch from neckline to armhole; around armhole—stitch from shoulder to bottom of armhole.

The side placket should be stay-stitched in the blouse in a downward direction toward waistline, and that in the skirt in an upward direction toward the waistline. The stay-lines at waistline of skirt front and back are stitched from side seams to center front and back.

The direction for stay-stitching is determined by the grain of fabric. To help you determine the direction of all staylines, run finger along cut edge to see if fabric is stretched or held in place. Stitch accordingly. Use the finger test if in doubt, stitch in direction that holds grain in correct location.

Direction of stitching seams is also determined by grain of fabric. In blouse — shoulder seam from neckline to sleeve line, easing back to front; side seams, from armhole to waistline; sleeve seams from armhole to wrist; in skirt, from hemline to waistline—for all skirt seams.

Use machine gauge—set at seam allowance for stitching all seams.

Other details would include pin-tucks—bias pintucks can be made accurately without a pucker by first stitching the material flat just below the line for the edge of the tuck. Stitch pleats on wrong side. If the fold on the wrong side of a pleat is machine stitched close to the crease, it is easily kept in its original spacing.

Remember that the hem is a very important feature in the appearance of a garment. Hems should never be obvious. A neat hem begins with the shaping. The fullness at the top of hems in circular or gored skirts can and should be shrunk out in most wool, rayon and silk materials in order to make a smooth hem.

For best results, mark correct length. Press fold at lower edge and baste one-fourth inch from lower edge. Next run a line of lengthened machine stitching near the upper edge. Pull up one thread of this stitching as needed to shape the hem to the skirt.

Next place a piece of heavy wrapping paper (to prevent marking right side of skirt) between the hem and skirt and shrink out the fullness. Trim hem on even length and finish with seam binding or by catch stitching.

Even a sack (material not style) dress deserves a neat hem (not a machine sewn hem). Avoid using a shirt-tail hem.

If you are one of the many people who have trouble applying a dress zipper, take time to read the instructions on the wrapper or envelope in which the zipper is packaged. Follow these instructions and I don't think you will have any trouble.

Other sewing pointers you will find useful to know—mitering the corner. Square-neck facings and hems on linens are usually mitered at the corners. Form the fold for hems along all edges following the grain of the fabric.

Then turn the corner toward the inside, allowing the lengthwise fold to fall over the crosswise fold and the diagonal fold to cross exactly at the junction of the lengthwise and crosswise folds of the hem. The diagonal fold indicates the exact position for stitching the miter. Extend the stitching as far as the first fold of the hem and backstitch carefully to stay the end of the stitching. Blend this seam and press open. Carefully baste the hem to follow the grain of the material and stitch with straight or pattern stitching.

Baste stripes, plaids or prints from right side to insure perfect matching, use a slip-basting stitch. Use two or more rows of stitching for controlled gathering. Place first row of stitching just outside seam line usually slightly less than 5/8" from the seam edge. The second row slightly less than 1/2" from seam edge—others 1/4" or 3/8" apart.

Lastly—a reminder—a dress is not complete without belt loops. They add a finished look to the garment, and also help keep the belt in place. So, don't overlook this little but very important detail the next time you make a dress at home.

Jaycees Submit No Nomination For Grid Coach

The football committee of the Beaufort school board Monday night. Glenn Willis, James Steed and George Murray Thomas announced that they had no nominations as yet for a football coach.

Ronald Earl Mason, former chairman of the football committee, reported on the football program last year. Mr. Steed discussed plans for next year.

Former football coach Hugh Gordon was re-elected to the faculty as a teacher only.

David Lee, assistant football coach, has resigned.

Beaufort Well Down to 411 Feet

C. W. Williams, manager of the Carolina Water Co., reported yesterday that the new well being drilled in Beaufort was down to a depth of 411 feet yesterday.

The drillers were in the process of putting down an 18-inch casing to guard against cave-ins.

There is water available at the 411-foot depth and it tests at only a fraction of the amount of hydrogen sulphide in the water presently being used, Mr. Williams said.

It hadn't been determined by yesterday, however, whether the water is available in the quantity desired.

The three other wells in Beaufort, from which the town has been supplied in the past, are reported to be of depths 300, 350 and 400 feet, Mr. Williams said. He explained that his firm has never checked the depth of them.

The water company started yesterday to lay a 6-inch line on Cedar Street, which will be the new highway 70 through town.
