It was voted to purchase a fan for the school recreation hall for summer use, and Mr. Esham, Jesse Garrish, Ben Spencer, Van Henry O'Neal, and Theodore Rondthaler were appointed a committee to get the fan.

A feature of the meeting was a delicious pot-luck supper. About forty members were present.

Cleopatra lived to be 39 years old. Some historians say it was 38, but that probably was Cleopatra's story.

Mr. Woodland Speaks to Queen Street Pupils

Stanley Woodland of Morehead City was the main speaker at the chapel exercises in Queen Street High School auditorium, Beaufort, Friday. He spoke on the subject, "Choosing your Career, which terminated career week at the school. Mr. Woodland began by asking the question, "What is the first major decision that you will make in life?" A sociologist answers that it will be the decision you make when choosing a career. Those who make the right decision usually are successful and happy.

Mr. Woodland further stated that more than 23,000 ways are open to young people choosing a career. Boys and girls need information more than anything else. A student needs help in understanding his interests, attitudes and abilities. He needs accurate information about available jobs. No one should jump or fall blindly into a job in which he knows nothing about, the speaker pointed out. Read, talk to experienced people, Mr. Woodland urged.

The speech was concluded with these inspiring words. "In selecting your life's work, remember that it is more important to make a life than a living."

Two selections by the choral club, under the direction of Mrs. B. W. Harris, were Pledge Allegiance and Sing This Blessed Morn.

Merry Mix-Up

Anadarko, Okla. (AP)—It was worse than the Mad Hatters tea. Things got mixed up at Mrs. Gilbert Haslam's party and the guests found they had to get the sugar from the spouted cream pitcher, and the cream was in the sugar bowl with only a spoon to use.

Shad, Herring Season Extended

The season for taking herring and shad from State commercial waters Monday has been extended to May 10 by Director William P. Saunders of the Department of Conservation and Development.

The extension of the herring and shad season, due to close at midnight tonight, was given, Mr. Saunders said, on recommendation of Dr. A. F. Chestnut, director of the Institute of Fisheries Research at Morehead City, Cecil Morris of Atlantic, chairman of the State Board of Conservation and Development's commercial fisheries committee, and C. G. Holland, state fisheries commissioner.

Commissioner Holland said that because of extreme cold weather during the past winter shad and herring were delayed in their annual spring journeys into inland waters. Fishermen, he added, also suffered considerable losses in nets and other fishing gear, thus hampering them in their preparations to catch the spring runs of shad and herring. These were the principal reasons, the commissioner explained, for asking the time extension.

The Idaho Education Association estimates the cost of operating its school system is 75 million dollars annually.

Mr. Gover Paul and daughter, Mrs. Walter Teich, of Bachelor were in the neighborhood Sunday.

County Fishermen Land 65 Per Cent Of State Catch

Carteret fishermen accounted for about 65 per cent of the total commercial fish catch in North Carolina during 1957. There were over 153 million pounds of fish landed in the county while the state total was just over 237 million pounds.

Menhaden led all other species in volume landed, both in the county and in the state. County fishermen brought in 140.7 million pounds of menhaden. The state total was 172.5 million pounds.

Other species of importance landed in the county during the past year follow: croaker, thread herring, king whiting, mullet, sea trout, spot, blue crabs and shrimp. These figures were published by the US Fish and Wildlife Service, in cooperation with the NC Department of Conservation and Development.

Jersey City, N. J. (AP)—Classrooms at St. Peter's College are a babel of tongues nowadays.

By using soundproof booths and tape recorders' professors are teaching several foreign languages simultaneously. Whereas only one student could recite at a time in the old classrooms, now up to 42 can recite at once by using the tape machines.
