Rendezvous with the Stars Is Theme of Junior-Senior Prom

By JUDIE MOORE

At the Biltmore Hotel Friday night the juniors, seniors, and their dates ascended the stairway to paradise and there had a "Rendezvous With the Stars."

Entering that magical world which the juniors created with their clever decorations the guests were ushered into the fairland of the banquet room.

There one's attention was caught right away by a large wishing well which seemed to urge people, "make a wish on me."

After everyone was through looking to see what everyone else was wearing, exclaiming how pretty or handsome they were, and what gorgeous flowers they were wearing, they were seated by their hosts and hostesses. All "dignitaries" were seated at the head table—including those students who made toasts.

The seniors were honored and welcomed in a speech by Jackie Wheatley and Larry Kirk expressed the appreciation of the senior class in his response, Linda Salter toasted the faculty and Mr. McQuaid gave a very sweet thank you to that.

Mr. Tarkington asked the Rev. Mr. Roba Lee King to give the invocation and dinner was served.

After the appetizer—a tiny cup of tomato juice — everyone was served a huge plate of ham, fancily prepared potatoes and cheese, an ample bit of slaw, pickled

Mrs. B. F. Royal, Morehead City, spoke on Creative Living at the 10th anniversary party of the Carteret Business and Professional Women's Club Tuesday night.

The club had a dinner party at the Rex Restaurant.

Mrs. Royal was introduced by Mrs. J. R. Morrill. The speaker dwelt on the need for each person to live creatively. Although the conceptions of life and living vary with each person, Mrs. Royal observed, she evaluated "living creatively" as serving and giving of one's self.

Mrs. Royal's talk followed a musical pantomime by Miss Catherine Sabiston and Mrs. Hazel Williams.

The address of welcome was given by Mrs. Clem Johnson. Club members introduced their guests.

Mrs. Johnson read telegrams of congratulations from Mayor Clifford Lewis, Beaufort, and Mayor George Dill, Morehead City.

During the business session, which followed the party, the following officers were elected for the coming year: Mrs. James Smith, president; Mrs. W. I. Loftin, first vice-president; Mrs. Frank Sample, second vice-president; Mrs. Marshall Ayscue, recording secretary; Miss Vivian May, corresponding secretary; and Mrs. W. F. Merion, treasurer.

A dinner of baked ham, spiced peach, green beans, baked potato, molded salad, cake and ice cream, was served.

A birthday cake, decorated in gold and green, club colors, was cut by Mrs. C. L. Beam and Mrs. D. F. Merrill, charter club members.

Yellow gladiolus, yellow candles and ivy were used to decorate the tables. Miss Alida Willis was chairman of the event. Fifty persons attended.

Mrs. Royal was presented a corsage and a pair of milk glass vases.
