The Wind and the Sun

One day the Wind and the Sun were talking together.

"I am stronger than you," said the Sun to the Wind.

"No! I am stronger than you," the Wind said to the Sun.

Then they talked together of what they could do.

"I bring the summer," said the Sun. "I ripen the fruit and the grain. I bring all the flowers."

"I can break all the trees," said the Wind. "I blow the ships. I can bring the cold winter."

The Wind and the Sun quarreled. They talked a long time, and each thought it was the stronger.

Then they saw a traveler coming. They said that they would try to see which could make the traveler take off his coat. The one that could do this would be the stronger one.

The Wind tried first. The Sun went behind a cloud to let the Wind blow hard upon the traveler. The harder it blew the closer the traveler held his coat.

The Wind blew as hard as it could. The traveler buttoned his coat and turned up the collar. The Wind could not make him take off his coat.

The Sun came out. It sent warm sunbeams down upon the traveler's head. The traveler opened his coat. Then he took it off.

So the cold Wind knew that the warm Sun was the stronger one. It was stronger because it was kind.

My Dog Bitsy

I am seven years old and in the second grade. I go to Harkers Island School. I like our new schoolhouse. Miss Mable is my teacher.

I have a little dog. Her name is Bitsy. She is four years old. She loves me very much and I love her too. She goes to the school bus with me every morning and meets me in the afternoon. She is always wagging her tail when I get off the bus. That is her way of telling me she is glad to see me.

A car hit her last fall and I had to take her to the dog hospital in Morehead City and the accident caused her to be blind in one eye.

My aunt Iris and uncle Don Coats had a dog named Shotz that was blind in both eyes but he died three weeks ago. He was a good dog.
