Bermuda Sailing Race Entry Is Towed to Morehead City

Capt. George Swinnerton, right, and Ira Cook get ready to run up the Stanton ensign aboard the sailing yacht Caribbean. The Caribbean will be an entry in the Newport, R. I., to Bermuda race next month.

10-Foot Blue Marlin Taken By Dolphin in Gulf Stream

High spot in the weekend's offshore fishing was the season's first billfish, a 10-foot 4-inch blue marlin weighing in at 317½ pounds. The catch was made aboard George Bedsworth's Dolphin by An entry in this year's Newport to Bermuda sailing race was towed into Morehead City Monday afternoon by the Coast Guard. The vessel, Caribbean, is a veteran of 21 years of sailing competition.

The clutch of the Caribbean's auxiliary engine went out Monday and there wasn't enough wind for the 58-foot craft to make headway through Beaufort Inlet.

The Caribbean was tied up at the Gulf Dock, Morehead City, on Friday to await repairs. Capt. George Swinnerton and his crew of two spent their time cleaning the yacht and answering questions.

Captain Swinnerton said the Caribbean earned its reputation during the four years, 1949-53, when it was owned by the famous sportsman Carlton Mitchell, who has written several books about sailing.

During this four-year span the Caribbean won no less than 24 major ocean races. The most famous of these was the Bermuda to London race. Mr. Mitchell and a crew of nine navigated the course in 21 days and three hours.

Two Can Manage While a nine-man crew is standard for racing, two men can manage the Caribbean on a normal cruise.

The Caribbean was built by Nevins Yacht Builders, City Island, N. Y., in 1927. A continuous maintenance program has kept the vessel in A-1 condition and she hardly shows her years.

Captain Swinnerton estimates that it would take more than $125,000 to replace the yacht, equipped as she is now. The deck planking, nearly two inches thick, is the same that was laid when the yacht was built. African mahogany is featured in the interior and teak is much in evidence on the deck.

Flies Old Ensign The Caribbean is now owned by Seabury Stanton, South Dartmouth, Mass., sportsman. Mr. Stanton is a member of the famous Stanton whaling family of New Bedford. The same ensign that flew over the Stanton whalers now flies from the mast of the Caribbean.

The cook is one of the most important crew members on any boat and racing yachts are no exception. Ira Cook, a real pro at the game, says he goes by his initials "I. Cook." He is a constant source of humor and can make even routine jobs of scraping and painting seem an adventure to landlubbers who visit the Caribbean.

Captain Swinnerton and I. Cook predict that the Caribbean will have the same success under the ensign of Mr. Stanton that she enjoyed with Mr. Mitchell at the wheel. The Caribbean makes Morehead City a regular port of call on trips north and south each year. "We enjoy the hospitality of you folks," says Captain Swinnerton, "and Morehead City is a convenient harbor, too."

Fleming's reported lots of the recommended cobia bait, croakers. Skiffs from Rainbow Inn had good catches of sea mullet, hogfish and a few trout. At Bunch's the report was for sea mullet, gray trout, hogfish and spots, both from pier and boats. All in all, bottom fishing in sound and river is very good. Sandy came back with 115 hogfish, and at the yacht basin Sam Flippin, Kingston, reported 136 hogfish.

Inshore boats have had irregular catches of blues and mackerel, nothing dependable yet, but weekend catches up to 77 blues. The See FISHING, Page 8

Morehead Little League Opens Season Tomorrow

All four Morehead City Little League teams will see action in tomorrow's opening day double-header at the Little League field at the section base. The Moose and Elks will play in the first game, scheduled for 3 p.m. The second game will begin at 5 p.m. when the Idle Hour and Small Frys take the field.

Manager Bill Harrell of the Idle Hour plans to start John Lee on the mound. John is a veteran of three year's play and had a 2-1 pitching record last year. He is 10 years old.

Small Fry manager Ernest Lewis will call on Robert Griffin to handle mound chores for his team. Robert had a record of two wins and four losses last season.

Southpaw to Pitch Southpaw Eddie West has been named by Moose manager Roy Ellis to pitch in the opening game for that team. Eddie did not pitch last year but Mr. Ellis thinks he will round into a top-notch hurler in short order.

Bernard Leary, manager of the Elks, is the only manager who does not have a solid choice for starting the game on the mound. Mr. Leary says that he will start Julian Sanders, a veteran, or Ronnie or Terry Mizesko, both freshmen in the program.

All of the squads will have to come up with rookies who can replace veterans who aged out of the program or are not playing this year for one reason or another. The Elks must come up with pitching to offset the loss of Bernard Leary Jr., who aged out, and some hitting to offset the loss of Robert W. Williams, Theodore Taylor, Dick McClain and Billy Hollowitt.

The Moose's big job lies in replacing the league top hitter last year, Edward Sanderson, and other heavy guns, David Bell, Chuck Sledge and Paul Bray along with coming up with some pitching.

Replacements Needed Ernest Lewis must find a rugged performer to replace Danny McQueen behind the plate, a classy infielder to take Tommy Edwards' place at third and the heavy hitting of Robert Brittingham and Mack Lockhart, if the Small Frys are to make a bid for the title.

The Small Frys have also had to replace Richard Cummins, who had been counted on to supply them with the long ball this year and strengthen their pitching staff. Richard broke both bones in his left forearm a month ago, and will be out of action this year.

Bill Harrell of the Idle Hour, must find capable replacements to fill the gaps left void by the graduation of heavy hitting Jimmy Ross, Frankie Marino and Ted Pittman, and a classy pitcher to fill the shoes of his stylish left-hander Bobby Stevens.

But just as sure as day follows night, rookies picked up this year and returning veterans, will pick up the slack and come through with flying colors. It is felt that the league ball will be more keen than last year.

Play this year will again be at the football field out at the Section base... work is progressing on the new field at the Camp Glenn school, but there is no idea of playing on it this year. It is hoped that work details will be out from time to time and the fence built this summer. Topsoil and grass roots have been spread on the field, and a little green can be observed all over the playing area. Dr. Barnum, president of the league will try to organize work details from time to time.

UNC Establishes Foundation in County

Jim Tatum, head football coach of the University of North Carolina, and Ernie Williamson, executive director of the university's Education Foundation, conducted a meeting at the Camp Glenn School auditorium Friday night.

About 30 alumni and friends of the university attended the meeting and organized a county-wide chapter of the foundation. The primary purpose of the foundation is to furnish money for athletic scholarships.

Dow Lasitter was elected president and T. T. "Tom" Potter was elected vice-president of the county chapter.

Coach Tatum discussed prospects for the University of North Carolina football team this year and next. He said that he was interested in three boys on the Morehead City team and would like to see all of them get scholarships to the university.

The boys who had impressed him most, both as students and players, were Lynwood Durham, James Guthrie and Freddie Oglesby. These three boys, along with halfback Gerald Jones, will be the nucleus for what Morehead City fans hope will be another state championship football team.

Elks Whip Moose 8-4 to Take Share in Little League Lead

The Elks took an 8-4 decision over the Moose Thursday afternoon in a Beaufort Little League game. Robert Pouk went the distance on the mound for the winners, giving up four hits and striking out seven Moose batters. The victory put the Elks in a first-place tie with the VFW.

Mickey Bertram was the losing pitcher for the Moose. He gave up six hits and yielded five walks to the Elks. He struck out eight batters.

Brady Way was the leading batter for the winners. He hit a double and two singles in four trips to the plate. Gerald Austin got one double for four turns at bat. Sam Dill and Bryan Peterson also got hits for the Elks.

The Moose hits were scattered through the line-up. Bertram got one, Jimmy Cummings hit safely, Logan Whitehurst and Claud Wheatly hit singles.

The Elks took the lead in the first inning with a two-run outburst. Brady Way and Sam Dill crossed the plate with the first two runs.

Peterson, John Way, Dill and Austin scored for the Elks in the second inning. Brady Way scored in the fifth inning and Dill scored again in the sixth to complete the scoring for the winners.

The Moose broke the scoring ice in the fourth inning when Logan Whitehurst scored their first run.

Bob Hamilton and Jimmy Simpson scored runs in the fifth inning and Jackie Bridges scored the final Moose run in the sixth inning. Officials for the game were Kirk Taylor and Davis.

The victory gave the Elks a first-place tie with the VFW team. Each has won two games. The Moose and Little Fry have lost two each.
