Missionaries to Africa, the Rev. and Mrs. Edward F. Smith, will have charge of the 7:30 worship service at Ann Street Methodist Church Sunday. The Smiths, who have been on a year's leave of absence, have made their home in Winter Park, Fla., while Mr. Smith has given reports on his work throughout North Carolina and other southeastern states.

The Rev. Mr. Smith made many friends in Carteret County in October when he spoke in several Methodist churches, to church organizations, and to the Beaufort High School prayer group. He has a very entertaining manner of presenting the interesting customs and way of living of the people with whom he works. All friends of the Rev. Mr. Smith and other interested persons are invited to this service.

The Rev. Mr. and Mrs. Smith and their children will be the overnight guests of the Rev. and Mrs. John Cline Sunday night as they stop over on their return trip to the mission work in Africa. The two pastors were classmates at Duke University.

How Many Minutes Does An Hour in Your Day Have?

By FLOY G. GARNER
Home Agent

How Much Time Do You Have? There are three things which do much to shape our lives—time, energy, and money. Time is the most constant and unchanging. While there's life, there's always a supply! Not so with money. Today you have $100; tomorrow you have spent it and no longer have it. Today you feel strong; tomorrow you are sick in bed and have no energy.

But time—today you had 1440 minutes; you used it up, but tomorrow you will have exactly the same amount. Each human being has a choice of doing what he decides during his 1440 minutes (24 hours a day). What each individual puts into his time will determine what he is, what kind of person he is, what kind of life he lives, what contribution he makes to the people around him, and to the whole wide world.

Can you truthfully say "I don't have time"? You have a constant amount of time, but what you get more done if you start right in the morning." We recommend that each homemaker read Proverbs 31—paying close attention to Verse 15.

Don't waste time and energy with persons you dislike. Besides being time-consuming and energy-wasting, it's also irritating. This doesn't mean to be discourteous, but it could mean you need to ask yourself why you dislike a person—and you might find the trouble is with you!

You never learn anything while you are doing all the talking! Children don't think and feel about things the way grown-ups do. It pays to stop and listen, find out what they really mean when misunderstandings arise. Take time to find out! Learning to listen is important in understanding adults as well as children!

Unless you have an unusual memory you can add minutes to your hours by jotting down ideas when they are fresh in your mind. You can write little notes to YOURSELF!

If you estimate the time you waste each day, how many hours would it amount to? Several housewives estimated from two to three hours a day! If you want to get out of a rut, learn to use your time—not waste it.

Someone has said there are two kinds of women I do not enjoy. One is the carefree spirit who seems to believe that every hour is made up of 180 minutes. She promises to do any and everything—and YOU know that she could never do it all! The other kind is always on time, does everything by schedule, and is very impatient with anyone who isn't prompt and ready!

How can we do all the things we OUGHT to do and do all the things we WANT to do without having to whiz through life like a rocket? Part of our work is being done for us by machines—in the house, on the farm, in the factories. Cloth is woven, soap is made, bread is baked, beans are canned, labor saving devices have multiplied rapidly. Yet there are still man-sized meals to prepare, sewing and mending to be done, clothes to be laundered and cared for, and many other "musts" in the homemaker's job.

Here are some suggested "time-stretchers" suggested in an article: Never hurry! For every minute saved by speed, two minutes are lost "resting up". Remember the story of the tortoise and the hare? Always know what you are going to do next! Try to live by some sort of a plan. This doesn't mean a rigid schedule, but it does mean having some idea of what you want to accomplish. Remember you have only 1440 minutes today—you'll have the same tomorrow.

Know how much time a particular task will take. Don't be a watch watcher, but you can't plan your time any more than you can budget your money, if you don't have a pretty clear idea of its value.

Skip some of the non-essential time-consumers on your list. How important or necessary is this particular task? Is it something you have "always" done—or is it something you could leave off?

Take a generous "hunk" of time to do absolutely nothing. Relax! Check up on yourself. How do YOU feel about your job in life? If you ENJOY what you are doing—if you WANT to do your job well, you will find the time necessary.

THIS WANTING to do things is what keeps most people moving! They don't feel pushed because they know at the end of the day, or the end of the week, they'll feel it has all been worthwhile. (To be Continued)
