

Fisheries Men Roll with 'Blow' From Florida

North Carolina fisheries experts were more amused than angry this week over irrational statements by Florida's conservation director, Ernest Mitts.

Mitts, angry because he claims North Carolina shrimpers are fishing Florida's Dry Tortugas shrimp waters, said, "They have ruined their own shrimping up there and now they are down here and don't care what happens to ours."

C. G. Holland, Tar Heel fisheries commissioner, said he couldn't make any comment on North Carolina shrimpers' raiding Florida's closed areas because he knew nothing of it, first hand. He did say that Mitt's comments about North Carolina's depleted shrimp fishery is unfounded.

Dr. A. F. Chestnut, director of the Institute of Fisheries Research, UNC, Morehead City, said that any statements about shrimp fishing areas here being ruined are "erroneous".

Not many brown-spotted shrimp have been caught here since the season opened. A few have been taken in the ocean and some in Core Sound, but the lack of shrimp is attributed to the severe winter when lots of young shrimp and other young fish froze.

Shrimp fishermen hope that the run of brown shrimp, which usually comes in July, will be good.

Newport Lawyer to Check on Legality Of In-Town Private Water Supplies

JC's to Sponsor Cruise to Cape

To finance sending Miss Beaufort to the state beauty pageant, Beaufort Jaycees are sponsoring a cruise aboard the Carolina Queen Saturday night, June 28.

The boat will sail to Cape Lookout where there will be a weenie roast and dock dance. Name of the girl who will represent Beaufort at the pageant will be announced that night.

Charge is $6 a couple. Persons who would like to go should contact Guy Smith Jr., 2-3481 or any other Jaycees.

Newport town attorney George Ball has been instructed by the town board to investigate the legality of an ordinance forbidding residents of Newport to use private water supplies. Mayor Leon Mann Jr. said that shallow wells, in particular, were dangerous sources of drinking water because of the great number of septic tanks in town.

"There are many shallow wells in town that are only a few feet from the drain field of a septic tank. There are also many low ditches in town that hold stagnant water until it seeps into the ground near somebody's well," the mayor declared.

Newport has a state-approved water system but many citizens have refused to hook onto the new lines. The mayor said that one man paid $220 for a new pump for his well rather than pay a $75 tap-on fee to the water system.

Port

ports officials are well aware of the need and sincere efforts are being made to replace the worn-out loading equipment that stevedores are compelled to work with.

Mr. Friedrichs said that the longshoremen are doing an almost superhuman job with the loading machinery available to them.

Appearing before the authority was John Goyk, Danville, Va., traffic manager for the tobacco firm of Dibrell Brothers.

Mr. Goyk said the availability of steamship service and warehousing facilities are of prime importance to tobacco exports. Often, he said, freight rates to North Carolina ports are cheaper, but that warehousing and shipping are better at such places as Newport News and Norfolk, Va.

His firm has used Wilmington, he said, and is investigating warehousing possibilities at Morehead City. However, he had been informed a new 90,000-square-foot warehouse under construction there has already been overcommitted.

Few Vacancies Remain At Two Boy Scout Camps

Openings at the Boy Scout camps, Camp Charles and Camp Croatan, are rapidly being filled. Any Carteret boys who are planning to attend camp are asked to get their registration fee, $2, in immediately.

The first week of Camp Charles' summer session, which opens Monday, has no more openings. There are some openings the next two weeks. Camp Charles is near Bailey, Darden Eure Jr., Morehead City, is a counselor there. He left for the camp this week.

There are still some vacancies in the first week of Camp Croatan's session which opens July 6. The next two weeks have no vacancies. From July 27 through Aug. 16 there are vacancies.

Twenty-two boys of troop 201, Beaufort, are enrolled at Camp Croatan the week of July 20. Nine boys from troop 238, Marshallburg, are enrolled the week of Aug. 3.

Mr. Eure will be a counselor at Camp Croatan when Camp Charles closes.

Rudolph Alexander, Boy Scout district field executive, says 25 merit badges can be earned in one week at camp. If a boy is a tenderfoot, he can in one week, complete requirements for second class.

The same is true of a second class Scout, Mr. Alexander continued. He can complete requirements in a week for first class, if he wants to.

Upon arrival at camp, each Scout pays $12.50, which brings the total cost for a week at camp to $14.50 per boy.

Good News About 4-H

By Harry Venters, 4-H Advisor

A very important 4-H event is just around the corner. Of course I'm talking about the district 4-H demonstration contests. This event will be held on June 18, at the school building in Washington, N. C. On this day, 4-H'ers from the 16 counties making up the eastern district, will compete with each other for the right to represent our district in the state contest.

Demonstrations on many farm and home subjects will be given. There will be given demonstrations on forestry, bee keeping, tobacco production, dairy foods, electric, livestock conservation, fruit and vegetable use, production, and marketing, entomology, and many others.

The 4-H Public Speaking contest is also held during this day of many activities. Talent contests are also held and some of the blue ribbon winners from this group will furnish entertainment during 4-H Club Week in Raleigh. This is another event that you are invited to attend.

You can't possibly see it all this day as all demonstrations are taking place at the same time in various school rooms, but you will be able to pick the subject or subjects that interest you most and watch those demonstrations.

This year there will also be a dress revue, and only the top four winners will be selected to represent our eastern district. So make a note of the place, Washington,

Les Bercegey of the Cherry Point Veterans Mutual Housing Administration attended the meeting and brought up the problem of an unpaved road in the housing administration project.

The commissioners voted to put marl on the road as soon as possible with the intention to pave it at a later date.

Mayor Mann said that he had noticed several citizens still driving without town tags on their cars. Town policeman Dan Bell was instructed to give these people tickets to appear in mayor's court.

Fire Chief C. A. Gould Jr. presented a proposed budget for the fire department for 1958-59. The total budget came to $1,522.80. The chief broke it down into the following categories:

Operations, $162.40; training, $350; maintenance, $271.40; construction, $200; equipment, $285; salary, $60; and miscellaneous, $200.

Miss Wallace succeeds Miss Nancy Broda, last year's dairy princess. The contestants were trained for their appearance by Mrs. Patricia Wilkinson.

Other guests at the dinner were John Paul Jones of Maola, Harold Scripture of Sealst, Harry Venters, assistant farm agent; and Mrs. Floy Garner, home agent.

Judges were Sheriff Hugh Salter and Mayor C. T. Lewis, Beaufort; Dick Parker and Miss Ruth Peeling, Morehead City, and Roy T. Garner, Newport.

Miss Wallace will now compete in the area contest.

Storage Required

He recommended vast expansion in storage facilities at both the North Carolina ports.

Lumber and veneer men also had the same suggestion. Tom Bledsoe of Greensboro, whose lumber firm imports from three countries, said the lumber industry needs a guarantee of sailings and service.

At the port his firm now uses they can get a half carload of lumber into port without difficulty. Also there is adequate storage with lumber carefully covered and — when needed — treated.

Veneer men pointed out that their imports are logs and requires a mill close to port site. They also pointed out that large warehousing facilities are needed at ports.

Shipping Date

Fletcher Wall, speaking for the Pat Brown Lumber Co. of High Point, said his firm exports more lumber than it imports — chiefly pine. Their first problem at North Carolina ports is the 17 days prior to shipping date required to get the lumber to port. Rain often makes this impossible. Pine has to be shipped dry.

Their second problem is storage. He said there is not enough profit to allow for two handling charges. Ports like Norfolk offer the use of transit sheds for storage, necessitating only one handling charge.

Chairman Reeves said the discussions had opened up "quite a field" for investigation, and he promised that the ports authority would "follow through."

Thanks.....

Many thanks to the voters in the 7th Senatorial District (Carteret, Craven, Green, Jones, Lenoir and Onslow Counties) for the confidence they have placed in me.

I shall always be grateful to my many friends who actively supported me.

I pledge my entire effort toward making Eastern North Carolina a better place to live and make a living. I will live up to every promise made during my campaign—to devote full time to the many problems facing the Farmer, Businessman, Fisherman, Schools, Teachers, and ALL our people—equally. I will be honored and happy to meet with any group, at any time, to discuss our problems and work together to solve them. Please call on me. "I Want to Serve You."

answered an alarm last month to Wright's potato house.

Police commissioner Math Chaplain reported 17 arrests in May, 246 meter violations and four other parking violations.

The street department put in 20 sanitary sewer laterals, 38 feet of 18-inch concrete drain pipe on Hammock Street, 1,000 feet of ditching was done on Hammock, 900 feet of roadbed built (total of various places), and 1,200 feet of 6-inch terra cotta line were laid on Cedar as well as 700 feet of 10-inch line.

The board approved ordering next year's auto tags from Prison Industries.

Mayor Lewis, Mr. Smith and Mr. Hill will attend a League of Municipalities meeting next Thursday at Clinton. Town officials will also attend an engineers' hearing in Beaufort and highway meeting at New Bern June 16.

Johnny Thrower, Newport 4-H'er, is now attending 4-H forestry camp.

Johnny Thrower, Newport 4-H'er, is now attending 4-H forestry camp. Johnny was last year's forestry project winner and this means a free week at camp. At this camp Johnny will receive instructions on many forestry subjects as well as have a lot of fun. He will learn to measure a tree to see how many board feet it will yield, forest safety, tree identification and many other things. Maybe I can get Johnny to tell you all about it when he comes back.

Those of you that have forestry as your 4-H project, work hard and turn in the best forestry record book this fall. Then next June you will be enjoying camp life like Johnny Thrower is now.
