Methodists Will Convene Monday for Conference

The North Carolina annual Methodist conference will convene in First Methodist Church, Wilson, at 1:30 p.m., Monday and continue through noon Thursday, June 26. This annual gathering with one thousand delegates will be the center of interest for Methodist people throughout Eastern North Carolina for the four-day period.

upon plans to build two Methodist colleges in Eastern North Carolina. This undertaking to build two colleges at the same time is without parallel in Methodism anywhere. The colleges will be built at Rocky Mount and Fayetteville.

These two cities and surrounding areas have provided large and beautiful tracts of land and each has provided two million dollars to help get the colleges started. It is planned that on a conference-wide basis five million dollars will be raised by Methodist people of Eastern North Carolina to help the two institutions get on their feet.

Boards of trustees have been at work for many months laying the ground work for buildings and scholastic requirements.

First Methodist Church, Morehead City, undertakes substantial financial obligations to the Methodist Conference. These obligations the church is accustomed to meeting in full. Members of the church are asked to rally at this time to the need of meeting all obligations by paying in full any balance due on their pledges.

Additional gifts will be welcomed.

Sound View Auxiliary Takes Hay Ride Saturday

Members of the Sound View G-Tell Auxiliary met at the home of Mrs. Torine Henderson Saturday. After we all got there, we went on a hay ride. We went to Fort Macon and back.

We sang songs going and coming. There were 22 present and three visitors. We had a wienie roast.
