

Boating Bill Hits on Snag Set by Barden

The controversial safety boat bill, introduced by North Carolina Rep. Herbert Bonner, has been sent back to the Merchant Marine Committee, which Bonner heads. Graham A. Barden, New Bern, is one of the chief opponents of the bill in the House of Representatives.

Representative Bonner was forced to call the bill back to committee because of the failure to print in the report on the bill the part of existing law Bonner's bill would change.

Barden has been feuding with Bonner and his committee over provisions in the small boat bill since it was before the House Rules Committee, and before.

Among other things, the New Bern legislator contends the bill presumes to tell state legislators exactly the type of a boat law they shall pass.

"The thing I resent," he said after the bill had been sent back to committee, "is it will let the federal government stick its nose in state matters. Talk about preemption!"

The step Bonner was forced to take means that he will have to start from scratch in getting the bill before the House. A second appearance before the rules committee is now necessary.

"This technicality will delay the bill, and possibly jeopardize its becoming law this session, although I hope not," Bonner said after the House action.

"My fear is that the failure to pass the bill will jeopardize the safety of people enjoying outdoor water sports, and perhaps cost some lives."

One of the bill's major provisions is aimed at making it possible to identify through registered numbers power boats that create swells and threaten to turn over smaller boats.

Suspends Licenses

The state driver license division has suspended the licenses of three county drivers. They are Tony W. Gray, Atlantic, speeding over 70; Richard L. Hartness, Morehead City, by order of the court; and Mann A. Pollock Jr., route 1 Newport, habitual violator, the safety division reports.

We may not be the wealthiest county in the state, but we can be the cleanest. Don't throw trash out car windows.

Tri-Hi-Y Helps Dissolve Debt

Becky Stiles, Morehead City Tri-Hi-Y Club member gets a dollar from David Heafner, assistant manager of Rose's 5 and 10. The dollar will help pay off the Centennial debt and gives Mr. Heafner an opportunity to win a color tv.

An urgent call has gone out for volunteers to solicit donations to help pay off the Morehead City Centennial debt. Everyone who contributes to the cause becomes eligible for a color tv, fishing rod and reel, transistor radio, and electric fry pan.

In return for each dollar, the contributor also receives a Centennial souvenir booklet or one of the commemorative coins given during the Centennial.

The color tv and other prizes will be given at 3 p.m. Fourth of July afternoon at Atlantic Beach. Persons who win need not be present. They will be notified.

BUT, the big problem now, reports the Centennial committee, is to get persons to help in the pay-off-the-debt campaign.

Anyone who has an hour free between now and 3 p.m. Friday is urgently requested to contact the Chamber of Commerce office in the Hotel Fort Macon.

For every $10 received, the person who has collected the $10 gets an opportunity to win the prizes, or a dollar in cash.

With the exception of the Tri-Hi-Y of Morehead City, most organizations asked to help in the campaign to pay off the debt have declined to do so. Individuals asked to help have made excuses. That's why, in this last week before the give-away, the Centennial committee asks that SOMEONE, anyone who wants to earn some cash for himself—if they're not interested in anything else—please report to the chamber office at the Hotel Fort Macon.

There you will be given the booklets containing receipts for contributions and given other instructions.

Tri-Hi-Y girls who helped in Morehead City and the beach Saturday afternoon were Linda Lockhart, Becky Stiles, Virginia Thompson, Doris Farmer, Alva Hodges, Sue Bordeaux and Barbara Roush.

For each $10 the girls collected, their Tri-Hi-Y will receive $1.

II Go Free

The state did not try 11 defendants due to lack of evidence. They follow: Tolman Powell, Pearl Tweek, C. J. Lewis and Robert Faris, charged with public drunkenness; Robert C. Willis, charged with driving with no brakes.

James W. Staney, charged with violating fishing laws; Harry S. Roland, charged with driving after his license had been revoked; Norman Whitehurst, charged with assault; Doris H. Jones, Rachel Willis and Curois Maddox, charged with driving without a license.

Salesmen Get Boost From Chain Letter

Chicago (AP)—The chain letter, a product of the 1940s, now is being called upon to lift the recession.

W. Clement Stone, president of the Combined Insurance Co. of America, started a chain letter campaign with 1,000 letters to his salesmen. He asked each man to make five copies of the letter and mail them to five fellow salesmen regardless of their types of business.

The letters ask each man to engage in at least 30 minutes of additional selling time each day or spend the time in study, thought and planning.

"By exerting every effort and all sound sales techniques, the nation's salesmen have it within their power literally to sell the country out of the recession," Stone said.

Milwaukee (AP)—Another era rattled to a close here. The Transport Co. recently replaced the last of its electric street cars with trolley buses. The street cars began serving Milwaukee in 1890.
