The twig told it to the branch told if to the tree. And when the tree theard it, it rustled all over, and then back word to the leaf: "Do not be afraid; hold tightly. You is shall not go until you want to."

To And so the leaf stopped crying, and went on nestling and singing. Then the little leaf began to want to go, and it grew very beautiful in thinking of it. When it was very gay in color it saw that the branches of the tree had no color at all.

So the little leaf said: "Oh, branches, why have you no color when we are yellow and red?"

Everytime the tree shook itself, the branches shook themselves. Then the little twig shook itself. And the little leaf danced up and down merrily, as if nothing could ever pull it off.

So it grew all summer long until October.

And when the bright days of autumn came the little leaf saw all up
