

Garbage Dump

Mayor Dill and Mr. Fulford, county sanitarian, inspected the dumping area, after complaints were lodged, several weeks ago. They decided, according to Mayor Dill, that the dumping should be stopped immediately.

The mayor said that he was surprised to see that, in spite of their decision, the county board of education had, apparently, ordered the dumping to continue.

The mayor said that the swamp must be filled by the time school starts which is Sept. 2. In his opinion, the dumping should be completed in a week and dirt fill placed over all of it.

H. L. Joslyn, superintendent of the county board of education, is out of town this week and could not be contacted relative to the situation.

Background: The Board of Education and the Camp Glenn Parent-Teacher Association paid to have the swamp area scooped out. Morehead City was asked to cooperate in the project by dumping its trash there. The town agreed. The board of education and the Camp Glenn PTA wanted to get rid of the swamp because it created a hazard for school children and was also a breeding place for mosquitoes. Filling swamp areas with trash then covering with dirt is cheaper than filling totally with earth.

It appears as though one unsatisfactory situation has to be endured, probably for some more days, to overcome another unsatisfactory situation.

Questions:

1. Will the garbage dumping stop SOON?
2. Will the fill, after it is "completed" be satisfactory?
3. Will private individuals who have been dumping garbage there, stop when the powers-that-be decide the dumping shall stop?

It has been shown in this area that once dumping is permitted in a certain spot, it continues indefinitely. It is hard to catch the culprits because they dump the trash at night.

Chilula Tows Snapper Boat To Morehead City Channel

Towed to safety early Thursday morning, by the Chilula was the snapper boat, Pandion, which had become disabled Wednesday afternoon 33 miles east of Cape Lookout.

The 53-foot fishing vessel was able to run her diesel engine only for short periods, her exhaust pipe having parted at deck level.

Aboard the Pandion were its half-owner, Lloyd N. Reed, skipper, and three crewmen.

The Coast Guard cutter, Chilula, docked at Morehead City, was under way to rescue the Pandion half an hour after receiving the distress call at 1 p.m. Wednesday. At 5:15 p.m. the Chilula met the Pandion.

Wind and sea conditions were favorable and the vessel was quickly taken in tow.

After towing the Pandion 51 miles, the Chilula turned it loose in Morehead City channel. The Pandion proceeded under its own power to the state port.

Owner of the Pandion, with Reed, is V. J. (Puck) O'Neal. The rescue was the Chilula's first under its new skipper, Cdr. Claude G. Winstead, who was transferred here last month from Cleveland.

Commander Winstead replaces Cdr. Roy Hutchins Jr., who is living now with his family at Annapolis, Md. Commander Hutchins is assistant chief, floating units, United States Coast Guard, Washington, D. C.

The Pandion lies helpless as the Chilula approaches.

State Puts New Sanitary Regulations into Effect

New regulations governing disposal of sewage go into effect today. The regulations were adopted by the State Board of Health July 17, 1958 by authority of article 13 of chapter 130 of the general statutes of North Carolina.

The new regulations have direct bearing on homes and business places that are not equipped with sanitary facilities. Many homes of that type exist in this county. One indoor theatre in a rural community is without toilet facilities.

John Andrews, chief, sanitation section, sanitary engineering division, State Board of Health, in a letter to W. Bosworth Newsom, Harkers Island, with copies sent to Dr. Luther Fulcher, county health officer, and A. D. Fulford, county sanitarian, said:

"Section 11 (of the new regulation) provides that 'Any residence, place of business, or place of public assembly as defined above, located on the watershed of any source of water used for domestic purposes, or which shall be located within one mile of another residence, place of business, or place of public assembly shall be provided with either an approved privy, septic tank constructed in accordance with the provision of these regulations or connected to a sewer system...' Section 1 includes definitions for Approved Privy and Places of Public Assembly, which includes theatres. These regulations replace the old privy law which include a number of exemptions.

"These regulations take effect Aug. 15 and it will be the responsibility of each of the county health departments, in addition to its other duties, to handle the application of these rules and regulations in its county."

Walroth, speeding; and Josephine N. Han, Elsmere, Del., no operator's license.

An order was issued to bring A. T. Ateyeh, Morehead City, charged with public drunkenness, into court Aug. 25. Eight other cases were continued.
