The first 4-H meetings this year have been wonderful. I can't explain just why they seem better than in previous years, it's something you can't put your finger on. There seems to be an underlying spirit that is saying "We're ready to get started and do things". I don't think that it is just my imagination.

The meetings have been attended by boys and girls that are really interested in 4-H activities, and I'm looking forward to the best 4-H year our county has ever had. We have plenty of boys and girls that are capable of doing things worthwhile for themselves and their communities.

This attitude of wanting to do things was certainly brought out at a meeting of 4-H'ers and leaders last week. The purpose of this meeting was to plan the monthly 4-H programs and special 4-H activities.

4-H'ers from the following schools participated in this planning meeting: Paul Wade, George Simpson and Virginia Salter from Smyrna School; Gordon Becton, Denard Harris, and Barbara Hill from the Beaufort School; Ann Herbert and Doris Phillips from Morehead City School; Lynn Wallace from Camp Glenn School and Betty Green, Eddie Lynn Garner, Linda McDonald, Junior Youngblood, Victor Mannino, Tommy Garner, Jenny Lynn Garner and Delores Simmons from Newport School.

In addition to these 4-H'ers, Mrs. U. L. Mannino, Mrs. Bill McDonald, Frank Langdale and Mrs. Dyon Simpson, 4-H leaders, were present. L. B. Dixon, our assistant state 4-H Club leader, attended the meeting.

Gordon Becton presided and Ann Herbert gave the devotional. Both 4-H'ers did a wonderful job. Suggested monthly programs included 4-H record keeping, wildlife conservation, growing and conserving food, sewing and home beautification.

The part of the meeting that impressed me the most, however, were the suggestions these 4-H'ers chase of boxed candy to be sold by all the circles was also discussed.

Mrs. Lewis Hibbs was hostess to the Lib Mauney Circle with seven members present. Mrs. Mattie Guthrie, chairman, presided, and Mrs. Alfred B. Reynolds led the program as outlined in The Methodist Woman.

Since the bazaar is the project of all the circles, this was the main topic of discussion.

Assorted cookies and colas were served during a social hour, and Mrs. Guthrie closed with a Spiritual Life thought.

Bazaar, Barbecue Supper, Bake Sale

The members of the Woman's Society of Christian Service are busy folk these days. They are making plans and preparations for a bazaar, barbecue supper and bake sale Oct. 4 in the Educational Building of the St. James Methodist Church.

The bazaar and bake sale will begin at 3 p.m., the supper will be served from 5:30 to 7:30.

The ladies have one common purpose, to raise all the money they can to help with the furnishings of the beautiful sanctuary soon to be ready for use.

made for special activities. They included a county-wide vesper service, participation by 4-H'ers on radio programs, news articles written by 4-H'ers and more county-wide 4-H programs.

Yes, this was an inspiring meeting of wonderful boys and girls. I can just feel that this is going to be a fine year for 4-H'ers.

The Morehead Senior 4-H Club will meet Tuesday, Sept. 16 and the Beaufort 4-H Clubs on Thursday, Sept. 25.

I want to urge all 4-H'ers to exhibit their projects at the County Fair next week. If you have corn, tobacco, aprons or other sewing exhibits, craft exhibits, entomology or any of the many other articles listed in the fair book, then exhibit them.

Besides supporting your county fair, you may win a premium and it will count on your 4-H record.

beam and her machinery consisted of a side lever engine having one 86-inch cylinder with an 8-foot stroke.

While the Nashville was in dock at Southampton in the early part of 1862 taking on cargo, the Union gunboat Tuscarora entered the harbor, lying in wait to give chase to the Nashville should she attempt to sail. However, an English maritime law acted in her favor.

From an item in the London Times is taken the following:

"The new sloop of war Tuscarora whose arrival was reported yesterday, is moored at the entrance of the harbor, about a mile from the docks. She has her fires banked up, ready to slip anchor and start at a moment's notice.

"The Nashville which vessel the Tuscarora has come over to take specially under her watchful care and protection, still remains quietly berthed in dock—although it was openly stated last night that she intended to venture out and put to sea this morning.

"However, the probability is, that as the Nashville would not be able to cope with such a formidable competitor, both vessels will remain here looking at each other till the war is over. The Tuscarora is armed with nine heavy guns, while the Nashville is stated to have only two guns of somewhat inferior calibre. The Tuscarora is a brand-new ship, just built at Philadelphia.

"It is said that the Tuscarora is very badly built; that her guns are too large and heavy for her size and class, there not being room to work them properly. She is very leaky, and the men are obliged to be kept at the pumps. This craft is in command of Captain Craven.

"Captain Craven, the commander of the Tuscarora, has been officially informed that he will not be allowed to make any hostile movement; that the neutrality of the port will be strictly enforced; and that, should the Nashville take her departure first, the Tuscarora will not be permitted to leave her moorings until 24 hours afterward. The same instructions have been communicated to Captain Pegram with regards to the Nashville, who has assented to the same."

After her escape from the Union gunboats off Fort Macon, the Nashville became a blockade runner pure and simple under her new owners, being renamed the Rattlesnake. At any rate in July 1862, in charge of Captain Gooding, she ran into Savannah with a very valuable cargo of arms and ammunition.

In February 1863, while in the Ogeechee River under command of Captain Baker, awaiting an opportunity to run out to sea, the US monitor Montauk was sent to attack Fort McAllister under whose guns the Rattlesnake was lying. While attempting to get out of range, Captain Baker ran his steamer aground. She was soon set on fire and completely destroyed by shells from the Montauk.
