Firemen Make 'Surprise Attack' at School Friday

A surprise fire drill was undertaken at Beaufort School at 12:35 p.m. Friday.

Beaufort firemen set off a smoke bomb at the entrance of the cafeteria and a fire truck came on the scene.

The purpose of the "sneak attack", the firemen said, was to test how orderly evacuation of the building would be during the first week of school and especially during the lunch hour.

In less than 15 seconds, firemen said, pupils poured from the school house and were in lines. Grounds were cleared of students who had been outdoors and windows in the building were closed in three minutes.

The firemen pointed out, however, that the cafeteria was not evacuated. They said there is no fire alarm in the cafeteria, one exit door opens inward, several screen doors open inward (some secured by hooks), one door is blocked by a table and there is

Opponents to the new freight rates on export and import commodities at the Morehead City port left no stone unturned to block the new rates—after the suspension board ruled in favor of Southern Railway and Morehead City last week, opponents immediately appealed to "division 2" of the ICC, an appellate division consisting of three ICC members.

The appellate division upheld the ruling of the suspension board and the new rates went into effect Wednesday as planned.

Opponents of the new rates, which equalize shipping costs from and to Morehead City with rates to other South Atlantic ports, may file a formal complaint with the ICC, but this will not affect the rates now in effect.

Southern's new rates were opposed as discriminatory by the ACL, the city of Wilmington, and a group of other railroads, cities and port authorities.

The ACL maintained that the basis on which the rates were established was arbitrary and would have a disastrous effect on the general adjustment of import and export rates between various Southern Railway points.

The Southern, in turn, had charged that the ACL was interested only in the port of Wilmington, which it serves. It said the rival railroad's objective was to prevent greater development of the Morehead City port.

The new rates are expected to make the Morehead City port more competitive with other ports along the Atlantic Coast and bring an increased volume of business through it.

Veterans Service Officer Reports New Allowance

C. L. Beam, county veterans service officer, announced yesterday the recently adjourned Congress raised the burial allowance for veterans of all wars from $150 to $250 (Public Law 46-874).

This change does not apply to peacetime veterans, Mr. Beam explained.

A fire alarm, the superintendent added, can be installed in the dining area. The cafeteria and kitchen were built in accordance with recommendations from the State Department of Public Instruction, Raleigh.

Firemen said they would cooperate in seeing that the cafeteria has the necessary features to make safe evacuation possible in case of an emergency.

no exit in the west end of the dining hall.

H. L. Joslyn, county superintendent of schools, said yesterday that when doors open outward, screen doors can't open outward too. He said that if there are no screen doors on the cafeteria, then the health department becomes concerned.

The screen doors are kept hooked to keep children from roaming in and out of the cafeteria. He said that the building is largely fireproof, although an electrical fire or kitchen fire is possible.

other areas they must realize they have to work harder to overcome the handicaps of lower educational curricula.

He said the per capita investment in the education of its youth in Carteret was too low. Mr. Ballou gave facts and figures from research by Miss Lena Duncan and others as to the percentage of high school graduates from 1934 to 1953 leaving the area. Only some 10 per cent remain.

Federal Help
Mr. B. J. May emphasized the need of the farming population to take advantage of facilities now offered through the US Department of Agriculture. In the county, he said, by reason of lack of storage facilities, farmers must sell their products in many cases at vastly lowered prices; and that there are available now funds for the building of private storage facilities, in which the farmer may hold his product for a reasonable price.

The potentialities of the projected coastal highway were discussed by several, with a connecting link between Ocracoke and Cedar Island, clear on down the coast and across the mouth of the Cape Fear below Wilmington and into South Carolina.

With respect to asking aid of federal and state governments and agencies, Mr. Wheatly and others emphasized that in areas that have been successful in promoting their resources and obtaining outside financial support, the people have first helped themselves, by pledging their own means.

He cited the Morehead terminals, where the citizens levied against themselves ten cents for each dollar valuation. It was pointed out by others that the Governor had urged that this was the first step toward enlisting support of outside government or private financial resources.

Pirates Disgusted
Dr. W. L. Woodard brought down the house in quoting the statement of an admirer of Beaufort in the state of New York. In answer to a friendly question as to what, with all the beauties, resources, and traditions of the section, was the matter with the people of Beaufort, the friendly Yankee said that the Spaniards asked that question 300 years ago, and left without finding out.

Dr. Woodard seemed to feel, from his ten or more years in Chamber of Commerce work, that much of the drag against development of the area was due to the provincial and selfish attitude of merchants and business men in general. He felt that the best interests of the few lie in promoting the best interests of the whole area. In this there seemed to be enthusiastic agreement.

The interest was so great that the group seemed disposed to prolong the discussion on and on, but the practical acting chairman stated the need for steps toward concrete action. Out of several volunteers he appointed an organizational committee to formulate a plan for translating the ideas expressed into action.

This is to be presented at a meeting two weeks from Monday night, on Sept. 22. Notices of the time and place to be later announced.

Losers in Phone Fight Lack Money for Appeal

Robert I. Powell, Clinton, chairman of the East Carolina Phone Fight Committee, said that 41 communities that opposed the higher Carolina Telephone rates face a problem in appealing because there is no more money available.

The communities raised $8,000 to oppose Carolina Telephone's request for a total increase in rates of near $3 million. The $8,000 was used to argue the case before the State Utilities Commission.

The commission granted Carolina Telephone an increase of $1.5 million.

To be able to hold the election Nov. 4, Mr. Joslyn said he was advised by W. E. Easterling of the Local Government Commission, that the notice on the bond issue would have had to be completed this week.
