

First Methodist Junior Choir to Meet Tomorrow

The Junior Churchgoers Choir will meet Saturday at 10:30. At this meeting it will be decided whether the choir will change the meeting hour. Last Saturday the choir had a picnic at Broad Creek Methodist Church.

The children are working on their special music presentation for October and November and on the Christmas music. Parents are urged to cooperate in reminding children of the hour of the meeting.

On Monday three carloads of members of the church will attend the conference-wide meeting of the Christian Higher Education program at the municipal auditorium in Raleigh. The meeting will convene at 10. At the noon hour a barbecue lunch will be provided by the conference to all delegates. Any member desiring to attend this meeting who has not already been contacted is asked to call the church office or the pastor. The Christian Higher Education campaign has as its goal five million dollars in pledges this fall, for the purpose of constructing the two new Methodist colleges in the North Carolina Conference area, which covers the Eastern half of the state. The North Carolina Wesleyan College will be built at Rocky Mount. The name of the college to be built at Fayetteville is the Methodist College. Already five million dollars has been reached by the communities where the colleges will be built.
