

Beaufort Rector Heads Symphony Society in County

● Officers Chosen
At Tuesday Meeting

● January Dates Selected
For Membership Drive

The Rev. C. Edward Sharp, Beaufort rector, was elected president of the Carteret division of the North Carolina Symphony Society Tuesday night at the civic center, Morehead City.

A group of 17 persons attended the organizational meeting at which Dr. Benjamin Swalin was guest speaker. Dr. Swalin is director of the symphony.

Officers, in addition to Mr. Sharp are Charles Willis, Morehead City, first vice-president; Lloyd Crowe, Morehead City, second vice-president; Mrs. John Costlow, Beaufort, secretary; Clyde Burr, Morehead City, treasurer.

In charge of the membership drive which will be conducted Jan. 7 through Jan. 19 are Miss Mary Arrington and Mrs. Edward Arrington, and in Morehead City, Mrs. Austin Williams and Mrs. Hugh Porter.

Board members selected to serve through June 30, 1959 are Thomas L. Noe, Mr. Crowe, Mr. Burr, Charles Willis, C. A. Stone, Mrs. Austin Williams, Mrs. Ben Royal and Mrs. Joseph House.

Board members who will serve through June 30, 1960 are Mrs. G. W. Duncan, Mrs. Porter, C. R. Davant, Mrs. W. J. Ippock, Miss Arrington, Mrs. Costlow, Mrs. William Nicholson, Mrs. Arrington, Miss Joan Chipman and Ralph Wade.

Prior to Dec. 30, Mr. Davant will contact business firms for memberships in the symphony society. By joining before the end of the year, firms can credit the amount as a contribution on income tax returns.

A planning meeting for the membership drive will be held at 7:30 p.m. Tuesday, Dec. 2, at the civic center, Morehead City.

Dr. Swalin commented at the meeting that interest of the minority in the arts is no reason to let music, art and literature die. He said that much must be done for the well-being of the people.

Children are made to go to school; they don't want to go but law requires them to go. In other phases of life, laws require healthful conditions in restaurants; in farming, the government urges upon the individual farmer new and better ways of growing crops—but in the arts there is little done, by government, to provide fine music, art and literature for the well-being of the people.

Dr. Swalin pointed this out, not as a criticism, but to illustrate that wants of the people should be channeled and directed. It takes a long time, he continued, to educate people to the value of the arts.

He recalled that music is being used more and more as the international language and cited the cultural exchange of Russian and American artists. "Music is an international language and a force for harmony and goodwill," the symphony conductor said.

"All of us need to learn more about music, thus it will mean more," he remarked in commenting on the preview-of-the-concert program carried out by the Philharmonic orchestra of New York. Attending the meeting with Dr. Swalin was A. C. McAllister, symphony tour manager.

The parade will start at the school, go east on Bridges to 7th Street, south on 7th to Arendell, west on Arendell to 11th Street and north on 11th to the school.

A crowd estimated at between 400 and 500 persons attended Sunday the first services in the new St. James Methodist Church, Newport. Dinner was served on the church grounds after the morning service.

Big Power Surge Damages Cable

An unusually heavy surge of power through an underwater cable is believed to be the cause of the power failure last Saturday afternoon. The trouble occurred in the cable across Newport River at the Morehead City bridge.

George Stovall, power company manager, said that the damaged section of cable, about 2 feet, will be sent to Raleigh for analysis. A hole about 3/4 inch in diameter was burned through the 6-inch heavily insulated cable.

Although the cable is designed to take sudden surges, the safety measures in it did not work this time. The cable was being spliced and re-laid this week.

The trouble caused power failure for about an hour in Morehead City, Beaufort and down east last Saturday afternoon.

Sam tells!

The mere mention of the name Sam Adler, causes the salivary glands of those who know his culinary achievements.

A pillar of Morehead-Beaufort Elks Lodge, Sam, naturally, was called upon to produce the light repast at the lodge for visiting Elks during the recent Elks state convention here.

An item on his menu was clam chowder.

One of the visiting Elks was a Catholic priest who had sampled the gustatory achievements of chefs in many parts of the world.

He told Sam that never before had he tasted such clam chowder, that he had sampled clam chowder everywhere and that even in Boston, the supposed center of clam chowder production, he had found none to equal Sam's.

And he wanted still more. But, Sam was obliged to tell him sadly, the pot was empty.

The priest said to Sam: "Why didn't you add some water to it?"

Sam replied, "I must confess that I added water to it twice and this is probably the first time a Jewish rabbi has ever confessed to a priest!"
