

Garland Scruggs Speaks To Newport Rotary Club

Garland Scruggs of the Cooperative Savings and Loan Association was the guest speaker at the Newport Rotary Club meeting last week. The club met at the school. Mr. Scruggs discussed the way his business is conducted, the rate of interest charged, and the importance of the firm to the county. He said that each share of stock costs $100 and that a stockholder may cast no more than fifty votes. John Tomlinson was program chairman. Guests were A. J. Moore of Goldsboro and Albert Gaskill of Morehead City.

One-Floor Plan in Colonial Design

Colonial charm, Yankee thrift and modern convenience are blended in this three bedroom "New England ranch." The one-floor arrangement provides easy living; the traditional Colonial design insures high resale value.

The House of the Week

Traditional Lines Characterize Unique 'New England Ranch' Plan

The floor plan shows how the formal living areas have been moved back to gain necessary privacy. Also apparent is the spacious and impressive entrance area. Not shown in the plan is the basement, which contains a 31' x 15' recreation room with built-in bar and workshop.

By DAVID L. BOWEN The wife-saving convenience of one-floor living is combined artfully with traditional Colonial lines in this "House of the Week" design—a warm and livable "New England Ranch."

It sounds like a contradiction in terms, but the result is a happy blend of elegant tradition and modern efficiency. The New England flavor is not restricted to graceful shape and inviting facade. Behind this home is Yankee business acumen; the knowledge that Colonial homes are rooted in America's history and never go out of style. The basic popularity of the exterior, coupled with its sound inside arrangement, insures that the house will have a high resale value.

In adapting the convenient ranch layout to traditional Colonial style for plan X-30, Architect Derick B. Kipp has moved the important formal living areas to the back of the house to obtain desirable privacy. This has made possible an impressive entrance area, formed by a generous foyer and the long gallery leading off to the bedroom wing.

While it has an air of New England autumn about it, the house would be perfectly suitable in any section of the country. Here are the full details of X-30, section by section: A traditional fireplace and bookshelves give an Early American look to the large living room, where sliding-glass doors furnish an abundance of light and air.

In summer, the living room expands outside to the patio; in winter, living and dining areas can be combined to make a room 36 feet long. For smaller dinner parties or family dining, a folding or louver door separates the two rooms. The hall off the gallery furnishes privacy for the bedroom wing. Each of the three bedroom chambers are roomy.

The master bedroom has two exposures, two closets, and a private shower-bathroom. Bedroom No. 3 would make a convenient den or office. Old-fashioned New England roominess is a cardinal feature of the kitchen, where a breakfast bay overlooks the front lawn. Utensils are compactly arranged in a step-saving U-shape.

Entrance to the kitchen is from the covered loggia over the garage approach. The refrigerator is built in, with a counter and cabinet on one side and a pantry closet on the other.

The large size of the combination family room and dining room make dual use really workable. In summer, the outdoor patio accessible through sliding glass doors also becomes a living area.

In addition, and not shown in the floor plan, the basement has a recreation room 31' x 15', along with a built-in bar and a convenient workshop.

The house has 10 closets, including broom and pantry closets in the kitchen and a linen closet near the bathroom. Storage space also is available at the rear of the large two-car garage, and in the basement and attic.

Architect Kipp believes that it is a hallmark of dignity and gracious living to arrange a home so that visitors enter into a wide comfortable area before going on to any of the rooms.

This house has such an area at the entrance: an impressive vista into the living room and down the stunning gallery, with its picturesque 36-pane window.

Even if the kitchen door is left open, the work zones are out of sight and only the dinette area is visible from the entrance.

"Whitewashed" brick, bevel siding and small-paned windows combine to further the New England Colonial charm. Full-length shutters flanked by carriage lamps are used at the front door.

Asphalt shingles are used on the roof, and a "fat" stucco chimney has the proper Colonial proportion. Plan X-30 has over-all dimensions of 90' 2" x 40' 4", including garage. It will fit nicely into a wide or corner lot, perhaps 125' wide and 150' in depth. Habitable area is 1,688 square feet, and the garage has 525 square feet.

At his November meeting, Ocracoke PTA voted to have eight hostesses for the annual December meeting and party, in view of the fact that there are usually more members present. Those who will serve are Miss Marie Hodges, Mrs. Elizabeth G. Howard, Mrs. Katie O'Neal, Mrs. Edna O'Neal, Mrs. Naomi O'Neal, Mrs. Bertha O'Neal, and Mrs. Irene O'Neal.

Good News About 4-H

The first 4-H honor program and fair in Wilmington Friday and Saturday was a real success. Plans for this new program were started late and without the enthusiastic cooperation of the 4-H'ers in the nine counties participating, it would have been a failure.

Carteret County 4-H'ers won their share of the ribbons and may be a few more. The competition was extremely keen, as all entries in the area fair were blue ribbon winners in their respective home counties. Area blue ribbon winners from Carteret County and their exhibits: Bobby Hill—1 qt. of soybeans and Oleta Fulcher, apple pie from the Beaufort 4-H club; George Simpson, basket and mats (made of pine straw) and Emma Jean Lawrence, rolled cookies, from the Smyrna 4-H club; and Earl Kelly, 1 dozen brown shelled eggs, from the Newport 4-H club.

Red ribbon winners in the area fair were Amy Stoy, wheat, oats, Irish potatoes and Ann Fulcher, loaf cake from the Beaufort 4-H club; Linda Mitchell, leaf collection from the Camp Glenn 4-H club; Doris Phillips, blouse and jumper from the Morehead City 4-H club; and George Simpson, aluminum tray, nesting box; Martha Chadwick, insect collection; and Agatha Lawrence, tea towel from the Smyrna 4-H club.

Winners of white ribbons were Gordon Becton, Beaufort 4-H'er for his long-time 4-H record; Mary Louise Shivar, one-half dozen rolls, skirt and blouse, crocheted rug, and Lee Venters, canned pears, canned string beans from the Camp Glenn club.

Newport 4-H'ers winning white ribbons were Earl Kelly for white shelled eggs and Mitchell Smith for his peanuts. Smyrna 4-H'ers were Patsy Phillips, skirt; Barbara Salter, skirt, apron; and George Simpson, wildlife food.

Mrs. Garner and I are extremely proud of all the 4-H'ers who won ribbons. We are also proud of the 4-H'ers that participated and did not win a ribbon. This was a new experience to most of them and I'm sure that they will be more determined to win next year. While everyone didn't win a ribbon on their exhibit, I don't believe we had any real losers.
