

Teacher Training In Non-Reading Project Planned

● One-Day School Will
Be in Beaufort
● Date Will be Dec. 9
In Eure Building

The training school for volunteer teachers in the proposed program to teach non-readers will be conducted in Beaufort.

The school will be Wednesday, Dec. 9, from 9:30 a. m. to 3:30 p. m., in the N. F. Eure building, Ann Street Methodist church. It may be possible that Onslow county residents planning to be volunteer teachers will also attend the same school, announces Mrs. Floy Garner, home economics agent.

The all-day course of instruction is for those who will help non-readers after they view a half-hour television program. The program will start in January and be televised four days a week for 24 weeks.

Teaching non-readers and non-writers in Carteret is part of the Literacy Movement for the South-east. It is estimated that there are 3,000 non-readers and non-writers in Carteret who could be taught to read and write.

Those who would serve as volunteer teachers need not be persons who have been teachers. They need be only someone interested in helping someone else, Mrs. Garner advises. These teachers can, in turn, train other teachers.

Mrs. Garner urges that as many adults as possible take the course, even if they don't plan to teach.

A meeting to discuss the reading program has been scheduled for 1:30 p. m. tomorrow in the postoffice building, Beaufort. Anyone interested in the program is invited. Enter the door on the west side of the building and go up the steps to the second floor. The meeting will be held in a conference room.

Letters are going out from schools this week to all communities, inviting the non-readers and non-writers to take advantage of the forthcoming opportunity to learn to read and write.

Two Cars Damaged Friday in Beaufort

Damage estimated at $75 was done to each of two cars Friday as the result of a front Street collision investigated by Beaufort police chief Guy Springle.

According to the chief, the mishap occurred when the door of a car belonging to Jackie Holland Willis was struck by a 1950 Chrysler being driven by Mrs. Zelma Talbert of Morehead City. Willis was parked at the curb and opened the door of his car to get out when the right front of the Talbert car struck the door. The accident happened in the 300 block on Front Street.

There were no charges filed against either driver. Willis listed his address as Harkers Island and Mrs. Talbert lives at 2306 Evans St. in Morehead City.

Cape May to Test Electric Fish-Taking Gear Offshore

The Cape May, a trawler experimenting with taking menhaden electronically, arrived in Morehead City Wednesday and hopes to get in several days of work in this area.

The trawler's engine broke down on its first trip Thursday and it has been tied up since at the state port.

Aboard is Kurt Bacher, who has worked closely with Dr. Conradine Kreutzer, inventor of methods of taking fish with electrical equipment.

In this country, the Smith menhaden enterprises have obtained exclusive right to use of Dr. Kreutzer's inventions. (In Carteret, the J. Howard Smith firm, with extensive fishing interests in New Jersey, operates the Fish Meal Co.)

The Smith boats, now fishing out of Beaufort, are all equipped with

Seadogs Win Eastern Championship

News-Times Photo by McComb

Holding like this can cost you 15 yards during a game, but afterwards it's all right. Annette Taylor, majorette, gives Frank Sides, Seadog center, a victory hug. Freshman coach Tom Hewitt, in back of Annette, can't quit coaching! Behind Annette and Frank, a girlfriend of a Norlina player weeps on his shoulder. The Seadogs won the eastern class A football championship at Greenville Friday night, 7-0. (See story on sports page.)

Morehead Yule Parade Starts Tomorrow at 4 Sunday Brings Flurry of Snow

Morehead City will open the Christmas season with a gala holiday parade at 4 p. m. tomorrow.

Charles Willis, parade chairman, announces that the parade will form at 3:30 p. m. on the A&P parking lot at Arendell and 12th Streets. It will go east on Arendell Street to Belk's and then west on Arendell to Styron's store.

Santa Claus will ride on a float and several bands will be in the parade. Santa will also throw the switch that will turn on the town's street decorations.

Stores will be open tomorrow afternoon as they will be each Wednesday prior to Christmas.

Wrong Identity
The memorial painting given by the grandchildren of the late Maley R. and Mariam G. Nelson was presented to the Marshallberg Baptist Church and not the Methodist Church as reported in Friday's paper.

Farm Bureau Will Meet Tomorrow

Farm Bureau members will attend their annual meeting at 7 p. m. tomorrow night in the Camp Glenn school cafeteria. A barbecue supper will be served.

The speaker will be M. A. Morgan, Smithfield, former Craven and Johnson County farm agent, sales supervisor for Smithfield Tobacco Market, and affiliate in the Farm Bureau insurance program.

Milton Truckner, president of the county Farm Bureau, urges all Farm Bureau members and their wives to attend. A turkey will be given as a door prize.

Beaufort Jaycees Will Sell Bread

Beaufort Jaycees voted at their meeting Monday night to sponsor a bread sale in the near future with the proceeds to go to a needy family at Christmas. The club will also sponsor a Christmas party for underprivileged children.

Guy Smith was named as chairman of the Christmas projects.

In another committee appointment, Billy Ippock was named chairman and Clyde Owens and Hubert King co-chairmen to head a committee to make arrangements for the distinguished service award banquet which will be held in Beaufort this year in cooperation with the Morehead City Jaycees.

Seven members of the club attended the Ann Street Methodist church recently and planned to attend the First Baptist church next.

It was reported that the club collected $58 in their drive for the Red Cross. Members voted to make a donation of $10 to the local chapter of the Association for Mentally Retarded Children.

Deputy Recovers Parts Stolen from Automobile

Recovered Sunday by deputy sheriff Marshall Ayscue were two wheels, two tires, window glasses, trim work, the hood and other parts of a car stored at the Phillips 66 service station west of Morehead City.

Deputy Ayscue said that warrants were expected to be sworn out yesterday for the men who stripped the car.

Deputy Arrests Lester Johnson On Theft Counts

Lester Johnson, route 2 Newport, was in the county jail yesterday, charged with breaking into and robbing three cottages at Ocean Ridge Saturday night; three cottages at Pine Knoll Shores, one at Emerald Isle and stealing between $150 and $200 from the Pine Knoll Shores office Saturday night, Nov. 21.

Sheriff Hugh Salter said Johnson was apprehended by deputy George Smith Sunday. Johnson's bond was set at $1,000.

The money box stolen from the Pine Knoll Shores office was recovered at Johnson's home, as well as a spy glass taken out of one of the cottages. Whiskey was stolen from other cottages Johnson entered.

Sheriff Salter said that deputy Smith was making a routine check Saturday night at Ocean Ridge and, suspicious of a car parked in the area, he took down the license number. He checked the cottages Sunday and found that the R. C. Barnhart, J. B. Ayscue and Bernard Taylor cottages had been entered.

Johnson was traced through the license number and was in jail by 6 p. m. Sunday. Sheriff Salter said Johnson is 24, married, has three children and no previous record.

Cottages entered at Pine Knoll Shores were those of Grady E. Love, W. L. Cooper and J. L. Emanuel. Entered at Emerald Isle was the Sprague Green cottage.

Johnson will be given a preliminary hearing in county court today.

	High	Low	Wind
Nov. 23	65	47	NE
Nov. 24	71	56	S
Nov. 25	65	47	W
Nov. 26	57	38	NE
Nov. 27	73	55	SW
Nov. 28	68	61	WSW
Nov. 29	62	36	WNW

Tide Table

Tides at the Beaufort Bar
HIGH	LOW
Tuesday, Dec. 1
8:30 a. m.	2:28 a. m.
9:11 p. m.	3:11 p. m.
Wednesday, Dec. 2
9:34 a. m.	3:18 a. m.
10:11 p. m.	4:01 p. m.
Thursday, Dec. 3
10:32 a. m.	4:09 a. m.
11:11 p. m.	4:51 p. m.
Friday, Dec. 4
11:31 a. m.	5:01 a. m.
	5:45 p. m.

Explorers on Silver Bay Find Many Clams Offshore

Chief Says Beds May Be Commercial Source

The Silver Bay, research trawler chartered by the Bureau of Commercial Fisheries, caught 45 bushels of ocean clams in six hours Sunday about a mile east of Beaufort inlet.

Francis J. Captiva, field party chief, says, "There's a good source of clams both east and west of the inlet." He termed the supply "potential commercial stock."

The clams run about 4 inches in diameter and yield a gallon of meats per bushel. In New England, the type clam the Silver Bay is taking is known as the Quahog.

Mr. Captiva said of the Silver Bay's success, "We've just touched a small area, using one small rake. What we did Sunday would be a good week's pay for two or three men on a shrimp vessel."

The 45 bushels of clams were taken in a radius of about 200 yards. One half-hour tow yielded six-and-a-half bushels.

The Silver Bay is using a Fall River dredge, a 14-tooth type used on small boats to sample clam beds.

Mr. Captiva says that Silver Bay explorations indicate the clams are in four to six fathoms on both sides of Beaufort inlet, five to six miles to the west and as far east as Cape Lookout light.

The Silver Bay will be here until Dec. 16, but does not plan to take any more clams. It does hope, however, to determine the extent of the ocean clam beds, and then continue exploratory trawling for finfish.

The sea clams have been located in mud bottom, not sand. Mr. Captiva recalled the work of the ocean clam dredge, Monte Carlo, off Beaufort inlet in early 1958. The dredge turned up many ocean clams, but claimed there weren't a sufficient number for it to operate profitably in this area.

Mr. Captiva suggested that perhaps the mud, in which the clams are found, clogged the Monte Carlo's dredging apparatus which consisted of a huge hose that shot away the muck covering the clams so that the dredge could come behind and pick them up.

Mud, Mr. Captiva explains, does not affect the efficiency of the rake used by the Silver Bay.

Sunday's clams were bought by See CLAMS, Page 2

Crewmen aboard the Silver Bay caught 45 bushels of clams in six hours' work Sunday in the ocean east of Beaufort inlet.

This picture shows the clam dredge being used and the net which holds the clams as another haul is swung aboard. (US Fish and Wildlife Photos.)

Beaufort Welcomes the Shrewsbury George Wells Dies in Fire

Three men who guide the Shrewsbury on its menhaden fishing trips are left to right, Stanley Pittman, second engineer; Robert Reamy, mate; and John Mills Walker, pilot.

As a salute to the men who have made Beaufort the winter Menhaden Capital of the World, THE NEWS-TIMES, in cooperation with the Beaufort Merchants Association, starts today a series of stories on menhaden boat captains, crews and the boats. The information has been gathered by Jarvis Herling and Holden Ballou, Beaufort Merchants Association members.

Featured today is Capt. Wendell Gayle Haynie of the boat Shrewsbury. You can easily spot the Shrewsbury. It's the only boat fishing out of Beaufort that has two crow's nests. One was placed half way up the mast for the benefit of Buck Davis, a former captain, who because of illness couldn't climb the full height of the mast.

Captain Haynie is 28, a college man, is married and has two daughters, Gayle, 2½, and Rebecca Ann, 7 months. The Haynies make their permanent home in Reedsville, Va.

Pilot for the Shrewsbury is John Mills Walker. He and his wife and two children are from Sunnybank, Va. Robert Reamy, mate, comes from Edwinstown, Va.; Franklin Craig, chief engineer, hails from Reedsville, Va., and Stanley Pittman, second engineer, from Fairport, Va.

them into the hold of the boat. This makes it unnecessary for the fishermen to "harden" the net as much as is necessary under the older method of dipping the fish out of the seine and pouring them into the hold.

The pump that lifts the fish is a 10-inch centrifugal that can put aboard 10,000 fish per minute.

The Shrewsbury, tied up at the Texaco dock, Beaufort, is named for a river in New Jersey. This is the second year she has fished out of Beaufort.

Beaufort welcomes the Shrewsbury and its crew, the members of their families, and hopes their stay here is both pleasant and profitable.

(Next: The boat, Smith Point, captained by Lynn Laurie.)

False Alarm
Beaufort fire department answered a false alarm at 1:30 p. m. Friday from box 22 at Front and Hill Streets.

Thief Decides To Return Loot

A thief's conscience got the best of him and three mobile unit radios stolen from Carteret Concrete Co. Friday night were dropped off in Louisburg. A note on them asked that they be returned to Morehead City.

Sheriff Hugh Salter said that his office received a report on the stolen Aerotron radios Saturday morning. Later, he received a call from Louisburg, stating that the radios had been left in front of a supply house there and were in the same condition as when they were taken.

The radios were being returned by bus to Morehead City yesterday. Working on the case were the sheriff and deputy George Smith.

Also stolen Friday night, the sheriff reported, was an Evinrude 18 stern motor from Irvin Smith's boat at Salter Path.

Beaufort Parade to Start at 5 Friday

Beaufort's Christmas parade will be at 5 p. m. Friday, just two hours earlier than it had been scheduled originally. The change in time was made because Beaufort will meet Andrews in the state championship football game at 8 p. m. Friday at the Beaufort field.

Mrs. Wiley Lewis, parade chairman, asks that all local floats and other participants in the parade be at the school grounds at 4 p. m. those from out-of-town should be here no later than 4:30, so that the parade may start promptly at 5.

In addition to Beaufort and county officers, 15 military police from Cherry Point will be on duty and will help handle traffic to assure parade spectators that they will be able to get to the football field in plenty of time before the kick-off, Mrs. Lewis said.

Everyone entering pets in the parade must be at the school ball park and registered by 4:30 p. m. Friday, announces William Roy Hamilton, chairman of the pet event. Pets will be judged in the following categories: most original, best decorated and best decorated animal and conveyance (such as wagons, bicycles, etc.)

Prizes will be awarded the winners.

One of the features of the parade will be school children carrying flags of 82 nations, preceded by a banner, Peace on Earth. There will also be bands, floats and marching Scout units.

Following the parade, county choirs will sing Christmas carols on the courthouse square and bands will play. The floats will line up on Broad Street.

J. O. Barbour Jr., chairman of the float committee, encourages entrants in the Beaufort parade to put their floats in the Morehead City parade Wednesday at 5. Charles Willis, Morehead City parade chairman, asks that floats in the Morehead City parade also be entered in the Beaufort parade.

Judges of floats in the Beaufort parade are asked to be on their stand at the Sinclair station, Front Street, by 5 p. m. Friday. They are David Yeomans, Harkers Island, Charles Caudell, Sea Level, and Miss Ruth Peeling, Morehead City.

The best float in each of four categories will receive a $25 prize. The categories are school, religious, commercial and civic. The parade will be filmed and shown on WNCT, Greenville, and will also be broadcast.

Cherry Point Marine Corps air station is lending lighting equipment to be used at the courthouse square, as well as personnel to operate it. Miss Ruth Durham, minister of music at the First Baptist Church, is in charge of the choral program. Charles Jones, director of the Beaufort school band, is in charge of the Christmas music to be played by the bands.

Winners of float prizes and pet prizes will be announced at the parade at the courthouse.