

St. Paul's to Build Parish House

This is a model of St. Paul's Episcopal parish buildings. At the left is the proposed new parish house which will contain 12 classrooms, parish hall, rector's study, acolytes' room, nursery, restrooms for children and adults, kitchen, storage room and furnace room. Center is the existing church sanctuary, and right, the rectory. (Askar-Shain Photo).

The contract on St. Paul's Episcopal parish house, Beaufort, has been let. The Rev. C. Edward Sharp, rector, announced this week. The $90,000 building will go up on the site of the present parish house as soon as the frame building now on the property is removed. Removal is expected to require several weeks.

The new parish house will consist of classrooms, rector's study, assembly hall and kitchen. It will contain 7,400 square feet of floor space according to specifications.

The building will be brick veneer and will be built by L. R. Thomas and Sons of New Bern. The architect is John Valentine, Marshallberg.

Fort Macon State Park Will Open Tomorrow

Fort Macon state park will open tomorrow for the summer.

Ray Pardue, park superintendent, announces that the swimming area will be open from 9 a. m. to 6 p. m. The picnic shelter will be open from 8 a. m. to 8 p. m. and the fort from 8 a. m. to 6 p. m.

Members of the park staff, in addition to Mr. Pardue, are Oren Hawkins, ranger, and the following who have been employed for the summer:

William A. Collier, Charlotte, historian; William S. Price, Raleigh, bathroom operator; Roger Williams, Rockingham, refreshment stand operator; Lindsay Harwood, Albemarle, park attendant.

Eddie Taylor, Beaufort, park attendant; Bert Tolson, Goldsboro, chief lifeguard; Miss Ann Lewis, Beaufort, typist-clerk; and the following lifeguards: James C. Killbrew, Fountain; Bill Vogle, New Bern; Danny Williams, Raleigh, and Steve Hutchins, Sanford.

Fort Macon is a popular mecca for sports fishermen. It consistently attracts more visitors than any other state park.

Weather Stays Cool During May

Since Monday a week ago temperatures have ranged from 45 to 79 degrees. Last year at this time they ranged from 65 to 83, according to records kept by Stacey Davis, Morehead City, weather observer.

The chill weather has folks shivering morning and night. Even during sunny daylight hours, a cool wind blows. Regardless from which direction it blows, it seems to have frost around the edges!

Temperatures and wind directions from Monday, May 22, through Wednesday, the last day of May, follow:

	High	Low	Wind
May 22	79	62	SW
May 23	73	59	N
May 24	74	55	NW-SW
May 25	77	61	SW
May 26	79	60	SW
May 27	74	47	W
May 28	72	45	SW

Shrimp Catches Light Thus Far

Some shrimpers in inland waters were catching from 75 to 100 pounds a night this week. The shrimp were running 40 to 65 count, heads off, and shrimpers were reportedly getting 15 to 30 cents a pound at dockside.

Trawlers working in the ocean were getting some shrimp, but mainly they were swamped with 4,000 to 5,000 pounds of hard crabs per boat a night!

Many of the boats were giving the crabs to crew members to sell for whatever they could get for them. C. G. Holland, commercial fisheries commissioner, said he didn't know how to account for the glut of crabs. This has been a terrific season for crabs and prices have been fairly good.

Shrimp caught in channel nets have been bringing the highest prices in history. Netters have been getting 38 cents and reports from Harkers Island say some have been bringing 40 cents a pound.

President Okays Salter Nomination

President Kennedy has sent to the Senate the name of Hugh Salter, sheriff of Carteret county, as marshal for the eastern district of North Carolina.

If the Senate approves, which it is expected to do, the appointment will be for a four-year term. It has not been decided when Sheriff Salter's term would begin.

If the present marshal, B. Ray Cohoon, serves out his time until retirement, he will hold the job until February 1962.

Sheriff Salter has held his present position since 1954.

Rotary Club Honors Award Winner Monday

Newport high school senior Joe Garner and his father, R. D. Garner, were guests of the Newport Rotary club at its meeting Monday night. Joe was winner of the Rotary award, which is presented to the high school senior who most typically exemplifies Rotary's qualities of service above self.

Derryll Garner, program chairman for the evening, announced committee assignments for the coming year. Mr. Garner takes office as president of the club July 1.

Firemen Put Out Blaze In New Crab Point Home

Morehead City firemen were called to Emeline Place Tuesday shortly before noon, where a small fire broke out in a home being constructed by Alfred Pittman.

Fire chief Lindsey Guthrie reported that rags on the bathroom floor caught fire, scorching the floor and wall. Damage was minor, he said.

Scouts Visit With Rotarians

Boy Scouts of troop 51, Beaufort, sponsored by the Beaufort Rotary club, were guests at the club meeting Tuesday night at the Scout building. Also present were Charles Smith, Scoutmaster, and L. C. Beveridge, assistant Scoutmaster.

The boys told of episodes at camporees and gave a skit which demonstrated what not to do in first aid—like put a tourniquet around a fellow's neck when his head is cut.

Each Scout was introduced. Scout Hudson Guthrie acted as master of ceremonies.

Clarence Stamper was program chairman. Three Morehead City Rotarians were visitors.

Stockholders to Meet
Stockholders of the Morehead City country club will have their annual meeting at 8 tonight at the club house.

Ervin, Henderson, Joslyn Comment on Education Bill

Three Places Make Changes

Undergoing repair and change is the former C. D. Jones grocery building, Beaufort, the Wachovia bank front and the old Morehead City Garment Co. plant, Bridges street.

The Jones building is being renovated by its owners, Glenn Adair, Vic Bellamah and Holden Ballou. A new glass front is being put in and the interior refinished. Mr. Adair said that several lessee prospects are interested in occupying the building when repairs are completed about the middle of the month.

Rufus Butler Jr., vice-president of Wachovia, said new aluminum and a new sign are going up in the front of the bank. Marble slabs which had jarred loose are being replaced. Cost of the improvement will run between $6,000 and $7,000.

The old concrete block cutting room on Fisher street, between 15th and 16th streets, has been torn down to make space for a parking lot, announces Mrs. J. W. Jackson, president of the garment company.

The building was built in 1940 and used for a while as a cafeteria and recreation building for garment company employees. The building contained 10,000 square feet of floor space.

The garment company on Thursday will observe its 25th anniversary in Morehead City.

House Minority Leader to Speak

William E. Osteen, youthful House minority leader from Greensboro will be the featured speaker at the gathering of Republicans Saturday, June 10, at Biltmore hotel, Morehead City.

The North Carolina senior executive committee in conjunction with the North Carolina Federation of Young Republicans will meet from 3 till 5 p. m., followed by a coffee hour from 5 till 6 p. m.

At 7:30 p. m. the banquet will be given and Representative Osteen will speak. This is the first gathering of these groups in this area and all members of the Carteret Republican club and interested friends are invited, says Elmer Dewey Willis, president of the County Republican club.

State chairman William E. Cobb of Morganton will preside at the senior executive committee meeting and Miss Francis Ratcliff of Pantego will have charge of the Young Republican meeting.

For reservations for the dinner, which will be $1.75 per plate, persons should call either C. R. Tligham at PA 8-3582 or Osborne Davis at PA 6-4171.

The federal aid-to-education bill which has passed the Senate (S. 1021) authorizes $2.5 billions over a three-year period in grants to states for construction of public schools and payment of teachers' salaries.

Sen. Sam J. Ervin, North Carolina, supported the bill. This district's congressman, David Henderson says he will support the bill in the House. (According to H. L. Joslyn, county superintendent of schools, the bill in the House is labeled HR 7300).

Mr. Joslyn said this week, "It looks like the bill is as sound as a federal bill can be—if we're going to have federal bills. It won't jeopardize the state."

The American Association of School Administrators terms the House bill "a good bill which safeguards local and state efforts in control."

Mr. Henderson says that under the bill North Carolina would receive $26.36 per school child per year in fiscal 1962, a total of $33,689,105.

The funds are to be distributed by state education agencies, without federal control, senator Ervin reports.

Mr. Henderson points out that governor Sanford intends to use funds coming North Carolina's way during the period of the bill (three years) for construction. "In that way, our state will not become dependent upon the funds for operating expense," the congressman observed.

Then if the federal government should attempt to withhold funds if a state does not comply with federal dictates (as it has tried to do in Virginia), operation of North Carolina schools would not be jeopardized, Mr. Henderson points out.

The congressman says he will vote for the bill unless it is substantially amended on the floor of the House.

Reserve Units To Start Training

On-site training of two Coast Guard Reserve units, Morehead City and Wilmington, will begin Sunday at Fort Macon, announces Lt. John Riddell, commanding officer of Fort Macon group.

The active duty training will continue through June. Morehead City reservists took their active training at Fort Macon last year for the first time. With Wilmington joining this year, there will be 70 men and six officers, in addition to the regular complement of men, at Fort Macon station.

JC's Get Report On Convention

Morehead City Jaycees heard Monday night a report on the state convention in Asheville by L. E. Kelly, Bill Singleton and Joe Beam, who attended.

L. G. Dunn, the county's first "admiral" in the North Carolina Navy, asked the club to help obtain donations to bring the battleship North Carolina to Wilmington. The matter was referred to the board of directors.

Committee chairmen for the Miss Carteret County beauty pageant were announced. Bill Munden of the Morehead City club was named general chairman of the event and George Murray, Thomas of the Beaufort Jaycees was named publicity chairman. Other committee chairmen are Horace Willis, staging; Walter Willis, ushers; and Guy Smith and Ernest Courtney, parade.

A letter from the Guilford College Jaycees was read by president Paul Cordova. The letter requested a tentative schedule and more information on the week's vacation here offered by local Jaycees to the winner of the Miss North Carolina pageant.

Also read was a letter from mayor George Dill commending the Jaycees for their efforts in the recent city registration and public forum.

The club agreed to send a supply of shrimp with Bill Singleton, district vice-president, when he goes to the state executive meeting at High Point tomorrow.

9-Year-Old Finds Shell

Troy Morris with the shell he found. After this picture was taken, it was learned that the 155 millimeter shell was live.

Troy Morris III, Morehead Bluffs, found what could have been a tragic birthday present Monday when he dug up a barnacle-covered live 6-inch projectile at the head of Pelletier creek, west of Morehead City.

Troy said some "silvery powder" came out of it, then he threw rocks at it a while before telling his mother about it. Military police were called, then the demolition squad from Cherry Point arrived and said that the shell was still explodable, even though it had apparently been in saltwater several years.

Standing guard over the shell until the demolition experts showed up were members of the Atlantic Beach rescue squad.

It is believed the shell rolled off a Marine Corps munitions truck which upset at that point four or five years ago.

Troy was 9 years old Monday. He is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Troy Morris.

Cape Lookout Coast Guard Makes Weekend Assists

Cape Lookout Coast Guardsmen made two rescues over the weekend.

At 11:45 a. m. Saturday they freed a 25-foot cabin cruiser, Little Salty, which had run aground in Barden's inlet. The Little Salty is owned by Peter Williams, Raleigh. She was refloated by the Cape Lookout 30-footer.

At 11:15 a. m. Friday, the look-out in the tower spotted a 15-foot outboard which had capsized and thrown its three occupants in the water.

The three were picked up by three other men in an outboard in the area. The rescuers were Will Hitley, John Guandolo and Fred Turnidge, all of Washington, D. C.

The rescued men were taken aboard the 30-footer and their boat towed to the dock. After they had dried their clothes and drunk some coffee they were towed to Marshallberg.

One of the rescued men was John L. Byrum of Edenton, N. C. Names of the other two were not obtained by the Coast Guard. Byrum owned the boat.

Aboard the 30-footer were chief D. V. Lewis and seaman Guion Willis.

Chief Lewis said the Byrum boat capsized when it was caught by a breaker.

Truck Knocks Off Power Pole

A power pole east of Bettie was clapped off 8 feet above the ground at 4:30 p. m. Wednesday on highway 70, east of Beaufort, when it was hit by a truck.

According to state highway patrolman J. W. Sykes, Leeman Otis Moore, New Bern, driver of a 1953 Mack truck, attempted to pass a 1953 Chevrolet truck as it was making a left turn. The Mack truck left the highway and hit the pole.

Driving the Chevrolet truck was William Ronald Gillikin, route 2 Beaufort. Moore has been charged with improper passing. Both trucks were headed west.

Damage to the Chevrolet truck was estimated at $300 and damage to the Mack truck, owned by the Maxwell Co., Inc., New Bern, was estimated at $500.

The pole was 45 feet high and carried a 33,000-volt line feeding power to the eastern part of the county. The damage, miraculously, did not interfere with flow of power.

Ex-Service Personnel Invited to Save Ship

L. G. Dunn, chairman of the USS North Carolina battleship fund drive for the county, made a special appeal this week to all active and former servicemen and women to contribute to the fund to bring the battleship back to North Carolina.

"If all of us will do this, we will be doing our part in the county to save this great ship," Mr. Dunn said. The ship will be scrapped July 1 if the state does not raise a sufficient amount of money to ransom it.

"If I don't get some help on this I might lose my commission as admiral and wind up as apprentice seaman," the chairman commented. He said he would like to see Carteret raise at least $1,000.

Camp Glenn school is the only school in the county that contributed 100 per cent. Each school that does so, the chairman said, will receive free passes for all its students and its name will appear on the permanent roster to hang in the ship.

To be 100 per cent, a school must give 10 cents for each student. Smyrna has contributed 50 per cent so far, the only school besides Camp Glenn to take part in the drive.

The state battleship commission is looking for veterans who served aboard the USS North Carolina during World War II. If anyone is a veteran, he should contact the chairman at First-Citizens bank in Beaufort.

Those who contribute $100 or more are made admirals.

Persons wishing to mail checks may make them payable to the USS North Carolina Fund and mail them to Mr. Dunn at postoffice box 30, Beaufort. All contributions are tax deductible, he said.

Two Arrested
Assistant Beaufort police chief Carlton Garner arrested two men for public drunkenness this week. Douglas Swain, Negro of Southport, was arrested Sunday and James Anderson, Negro of Beaufort, was arrested Monday. Both were released under $25 bond.

Strenuous opposition to joining the town of Newport was expressed by citizens living in the area proposed for annexation at a public hearing Monday night. The hearing, conducted by mayor Leon Mann Jr., was held in the school lunchroom, after convening at the town hall.

The mayor opened the meeting by reading the legal description of the area. The line begins at Roy T. Garner's store, goes to the railroad track, along the track to one lot west of Fresh Pond road, across the highway to include the Baptist parsonage and one lot deep on that side of the highway back to the town limits at the Baptist church corner. There are 53 property owners in the area.

Requirements for annexing, as set forth by law, and what a property owner who objects to annexation can do, were read by the mayor. Services of the town which would be extended to the area include garbage collection on a regular schedule, police and fire protection, mosquito control, street markers, traffic control, street lights, water service, fire hydrants, drainage control and street maintenance.

All services except water and hydrants would be paid for from the town's general fund, the mayor said. Water lines would be extended and hydrants installed with funds borrowed for that purpose. He said estimated tax revenue from the area is $2,458.

The present tax rate is $1.20 and taxes would not start until after the effective date of annexation, the mayor commented.

H. J. Gillikin asked if the referendum to borrow money would be voted on only by people living in the present town. "In other words, are the folks in town going to decide on this, then the rest of us chip in and help pay for it?" he asked.

The mayor replied that the $15,000 in bonds proposed were not only to extend water lines to the new area, but to bring a line through an area already in town to provide lead-off valves for future growth. Should the bond election fail, the town can finance the money needed to accommodate the annexed area and still take them into town.

Mr. Gillikin said some people in his neighborhood object to certain kinds of street lights and to putting their garbage cans in front of their houses. He said they don't want their garbage cans beat up by collectors who throw the cans on the truck and they don't want trash scattered all over their yards by stray dogs that turn the cans over.

Mayor Mann old him that the old type lights in town have proven unsatisfactory and a new kind has been proposed. He said improvements would have to be made and the town would try to see that things were done right.

Wilbur Garner, town commissioner, traced the town's growth, and urged everyone to have a favorable outlook on the issue. He said he was from Newport and proud of it and he felt others would feel that way too if they only "gave the town a chance."

Needham Garner said he never had much education, but he wanted to speak his piece. "In fact, the only way they ever got me out of the fourth grade was to burn the building down," he said, bringing a laugh from the 35 men present.

Mr. Garner said he was willing to represent Newport anytime, that he had been born and raised in Newport. But he said he also believed in freedom and that a man should be able to choose whether he will live in town or out of town.

"I just want to know why five men (the town commissioners) can say '54' and the landowners) not have a thing to say about it? Where's the freedom in that? I just don't want anything rammed down my throat without having any sayso," he declared.

Mr. Garner said he had a Good Book which he got up every morning before day to read, and he added:

Defendant Gets Suspended Term In City Court

Earl McDuffy Taylor, Morehead City, was convicted of drunk driving and having no operator's license Monday in Morehead City recorder's court. He was sentenced to 90 days in jail, suspended on payment of $125 and costs. Taylor was also charged with possession of non-tax paid whiskey and was acquitted on this count.

Three defendants were called and failed to appear, forfeiting bonds. They were Donald Eugene Lleske, Morehead City, charged with failing to stop for a stop sign; Paul E. Glass, Danville, charged with running a red light and Thomas J. Rivers, Burlington, charged with being drunk on the highway.

Charges of speeding and drunk driving against Leon Thomas Graham, Newport, were dismissed. A charge of allowing a vicious dog to run at large, against Thomas Ganton, was dropped.

Two Morehead City defendants, Johnny Ray Matthews and Jerry Wayne Willis, were each sentenced to 10 days in jail, suspended on payment of court costs and a year's good behavior for trespassing on private property.

Judge Herbert O. Phillips rendered a guilty verdict in the case against Albert Courman, Morehead City, charging him with assault on his wife.

Douglas MacArthur Lockhart, Morehead City, appeared to answer a speeding charge. He was convicted and given 30 days in jail, suspended on payment of $25 and court costs. The court also ordered the defendant to surrender his driver's license for 60 days. Eight cases were continued until next week's term of court.

Eighth Graders Win Awards

American Legion posts of Beaufort and Morehead City presented awards to outstanding eighth grade pupils at eighth grade graduation exercises this week.

Presenting the awards at Beaufort, Queen Street and Harkers Island schools was Carteret Post No. 99, Beaufort, and at Morehead City, Camp Glenn and W. S. King schools Post No. 46 of Morehead City.

Mayor Tells Tew To Stay Away

Thomas Tew, Havelock, charged with public drunkenness and disturbing the peace, was restricted from Atlantic Beach for six months Monday night in mayor's court.

Paying costs were John T. Smith, Swansboro, charged with public drunkenness and profanity, and Walter R. Buck, Broad Creek, charged with public drunkenness and resisting arrest.

James D. Hegemann, Cherry Point, charged with public drunkenness, resisting arrest and using profanity, forfeited bond. Leon W. Uzzard, Camp Lejeune, charged with using profane language in public, was turned over to his commanding officer.

Mayor A. B. Cooper presided.

4-H's Will Appear In Contest Tonight

A county 4-H talent contest will be held tonight in the Beaufort high school auditorium, according to David Warrick, county 4-H advisor. The contest will start at 7:3
