BURNSVILLE— "So They Say"

The weather: Fine showers, so that our gardens grow...and we wonder if the judges in the garden contests are inspecting. The iris bloom down at the Lyons is really worthy of note. Shouldn't we have a request system of some sort so that if there's an especially fine display not only the judges but all of us may know about it.

Commencement week over at B. H. S. and an exciting time for all. We especially commend the 7th grades for their very fine musical program. Frances Riddle in leading part took high honors in the performance...then biggest thrill of the graduating exercises was to see Jack Charles in Navy uniform back to receive diploma.

Registration over with, and most folks we hear talking are not upset at all over reduced amounts of sugar and gas. Only too glad to do anything possible. If you're worried you might send your summer invitations: "Bring your sugar card and come to see us."

Families are trying to increase their poultry flocks and also build them up through the purchase of thorough-bred, dual type chicks. It is hoped that an average family of five will have 50 hens this fall so as to make sure all members of family have plenty of eggs to eat and some for market.

Along with these increased efforts to produce food families are keeping farm record books of income and expenses which will give them some basis from which to plan next year and help them to better live-at-home.

Cash prizes given at the big "Amateur Night," Burnsville school, Friday nite.

The sugar problem has brought about a need for every family to plant a cane patch and obtain bee hives for home use. Perhaps some of our preservers will be done with honey and molasses which will be of more food value to us than sugar.

Late news note: don't forget that the school is sponsoring the amateur contest with Read Wilson in charge tomorrow night at the school—and all of you who promised to donate door prizes please have them at the electric shop by noon Friday so they can be wrapped and numbered.
