Piano Recital

Last week, Mrs. Joan Reeve presented her piano pupils in a recital at her home on Arbutus Drive in Burnsville. Parents, pleased at the progress shown by the pupils, commented on their excellent rhythm, expression and mastery. Particularly impressive was their touch on the Steinway grand and the balance between the melody and the harmony. This was brought out not only in the solo pieces, but also in the duets played by the youngest pupils (7 and 8 years) as well as the older ones.

The highlight of the evening was the Beethoven sonata in D minor played by the guest soloist, Linda Deyton. Mrs. Reeve, who taught Linda all through her school years here, was delighted when her new teacher at Berry College, Ga., impressed by her playing last fall, called a panel together to listen to her. The panel, equally impressed, gave her a music scholarship on top of the one she already held for scholastic excellence. Linda is entering the competition for Miss North Carolina this week and will be playing the Beethoven sonata in the talent contest in Charlotte.

Pupils performing last Saturday evening were: Jean and Janice Biggerstaff, Edie Gouge from Spruce Pine, Billy and Lynn Gouge, Cindy Higgins, Marie and Anne Hunter, Katie King, Mitzie Lawhern.
