From The Yancey Extension Homemakers food news & cues

By Mrs. Mary Gillespie

If any of you long for "the good old days", you would enjoy the cookbook Gladys Coletta has. It is more than a hundred years old, and it has complete menus with recipes as well as suggestions for home decoration and management.

The desire and ultimate goal of the housewife seems to be the same now as a hundred years ago. I dare say, as long as there have been homes to keep her family well fed, comfortable and in a harmonious environment of love and contentment. The ways of attaining this goal have changed drastically, but the heart and soul of the homemaker seems to be constant. Let's hope it will always remain so. Some quotes from this old book that are still true: "No sensible person complains of a woman's love for, and pride in her home." "House-keepers may be hired-homemakers are won by no wages except love". Many of the breakfast menus look like dinner to us. No

Mr. and Mrs. Richard Shuford of Brevard visited with their parents over the weekend, Mr. and Mrs. Fred Shuford and Mr. and Mrs. Emerson Woody. Third-Class Petty Officer L. J. Woody has been on a two weeks leave from New London, Conn. also visiting with his parents.
