Collisions Claim Lives

Roy Melvin Pitman, 57, of Spruce Pine was killed instant ly in a one-vehicle accident at 4:10 p.m. Wednesday afternoon, August 8, on U.S. 19 E near the Micaville turn-off.

According to one of the investigating officers, Trooper W. J. Stallings of the Highway Patrol, Pitman was traveling alone in a 1969 Chevrolet pickup truck when he attempted to pass another truck and met an on-coming vehicle. Stallings said that although Pitman had plenty of clearance to return to his lane, he apparently panicked, swerved sharply to the right, lost control and skidded on the grass for 64 feet. The vehicle overturned, throwing Pitman out, then overturned again, went 19 feet up an em bankment, rolled back down landing on top of Pitman and killing him instantly.

Stallings and other investigating officers, Trooper A. T.
Morrison and 1st Sgt. R. E. Pipes expressed the opinion that if the victim had been wearing a seat belt the death could probably have been avoided. Stallings added that badly worn tires contributed to the cause of the accident.

A Burnsville woman was pronounced dead on arrival at Memorial Mission Hospital in Asheville and a Madison County man was killed instantly following a head-on collision between two automobiles about 6:15 p.m.
Monday on U.S. 25 four and a half miles north of Marshall, the State Highway Patrol reported.

A Charlotte mother and her two young children were seriously injured in the mishap.

Trooper C.D. Jenkins identified the dead as Geraldine Blank Ballew, 32, of Route 3, Burns-ville and Charles Wayne Goforth, 39, of Route 3, Marshall. They were together in a 1967 Ford, headed north on the highway, with Goforth driving, the trooper said.

The Goforth car collided with a 1971 Cadillac operated by Mrs. Sally Nash Cook, 24, of Charlotte, southbound on the highway.

Mrs. Cook, Thomas Roy Cook, 2, and Kay Lynn Cook, 6, were admitted to Memorial Mission Hospital.

Mission Hospital.

The investigation is continuing, Jenkins said.

Grants Received Here For Special Educational Needs Yancey County schools have needs of schools having the high-

Yancey County schools have received a grant of $6,634.00 under Title I-Part C of the Elementary and Secondary Education Act, according to State School Superintendent Craig Phillips. The Part C grants have been allocated in addition to each schools unit's 1973-74 ESEA Title I allotment and total $1,288,311.00 for the state. According to Harold Webb,

Director of Compensatory Education for the State Education Agency, "Part C is more commonly referred to as the Urban and Rural program. To be eligible for an Urban and Rural grant, a school district must have 20 percent of its schoolage population drawn from low-income families, or 5,000 such children who comprise five percent or more of the total schoolage population."

"The grants are designed to meet the special educational needs of schools having the highest concentration of children from low-income families," says Webb. "The funds are limited to preschool and elementary programs."

Webb noted that this is actually money appropriated for use during the 1973 fiscal year, but funds have arrived so late that they will be used during the 1973-74 school year. The Urban and Rural funds are handled separately from the bulk of ESEA Title I - Part A allocations which total $56,260,988 for the State for the 1973 - 74

FHA Loans Help Farm And Non-Farm Families Meet Operating, Housing Needs

Wilbur Howard, Farmer's Home Administration County Supervisor, expressed concern recently over the fact that people in Yancey County are not taking advantage of the numerous loans available to farm and non-farm families through the Farmers Home Administration.

"We have five types of loans available with low interest rates and easy re-payment plans, and I can't understand why people are not taking advantage of these credit avenues to have comfortable homes to live in and to improve their farming operations," How ard said.

The five FHA loans Howard referred to are Home Owner - ship Loans, Farm Operating Loans, loans for Non-Farm Enterprises, Farm Ownership Loans and Recreation Facilities Loans.

"We also have a youth loan program," Howard added. "The FHA is the only place that I know of where young people can acquire loans."

To illustrate this point, Howard gave the example of a loan made to 12-year-old Janet Smith to grow 1200 pounds of burley tobacco. Janet, who attends Bald Creek School, is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Lenville Smith of Possum Trot.

Howard offered these descriptions of the five major types of loans available through FHA:

Home Ownership Loans may be used to build, improve, repair or rehabilitate rural homes and related facilities, farm service buildings, and waste disposal systems, and to provide water for household and farm use. The emphasis in Home Ownership Loans is on new construction. Homes may be built on individual tracts or in subdivisions. Funds also can be used to modernize homes as well as to enlarge or remodel farm service buildings. Borrowers may buy an existing house and lot or buy a site on which to build a home. Under certain conditions, funds may be used to refinance debts on a home.

Farm Operating Loans accompanied by technical man agement assistance to people to operate family farms are tailored to the borrower's needs. The FHA county supervisor helps the borrower analyze his problems, and plan how these resources, plus those obtained by the loans, may best be used.

Nonfarm Enterprises Loans are made to family farmers and ranchers and gives technical and management assistance for development and operation of nonfarm enterprises to supplement farm income. The enterprise must be located or headquartered on the borrowers farm.

Farm Owne iship Loans accompanied by technical management assistance are offered to applicants who will operate not larger than family farms.

These loans may be used to buy or enlarge farms, to construct, improve, or repair the farm homes and farm service buildings and to make general improvements on the land.

A farm loan program for Recreation Facilities is to assist eligible farmers inboost-ing their incomes by converting all or portions of their farms and ranches to incomeproducing outdoor recreation enterprises.

County supervisor Howard added that each person applying for credit gets equal consideration without regard to race, color, creed, sex or national origin, however, applications of eligible veterans are given preference.

Pamphlets explaining the different types of FHA govern - ment loans may be obtained at the Farmers Home Administra - tion office in the old Northwestern Bank building or further information may be obtained by calling 682-2319.

Howard urged everyone interested in finding out how to take advantage of the loans available through the FHA to farm and non-farm families to contact the FHA office or any other Federal or State office.
