Do You Count Your Blessings?

At a recent survey on the subject "Count Your Blessings - one by one" the following results were tabulated by an attendance of forty scholars: The highest number of blessings were recorded for 67, in which two girls tied. The scholars ranged from 8 to 75 years of age. For that reason came a very great variety of blessings.

Their greatest votes were given 24 for homes and churches. The next highest ranged in food, congenial neighbors, an appreciated pastor, of 20 each. Next in line came living, loving parents; clothes, a good school, songs and poetry, churches, a car, a loving savior, health, and the Bible.

After that in diminishing number came freedom, money, friends, our climate, sight, medicine, Sunday Schools, flowers, good jobs, beds, teachers, grandchildren, sons and daughters, brothers, sisters, water, sleep, radio television, good government, aunts and uncles, husbands, a loving God and doctors.

Receiving five blessings were: a good wife, freedom of worship, fellow pilgrims, a sweet tooth, a pet dog, sunshine and rain, peace of country, Sunday school teachers, good U. S. leadership, good roads, pianos and organs, pictures, grandparents, and a home in heaven. Some of the least mentioned blessings were: sports, pensions, clear conscience, gardens, washing machines, refrigerators, school bus, education, desire to learn, day and night, medical research, transportation, hospitals, and beautiful country.

Some isolated blessings were: love for small children, telephone, answered prayer, stores, faith, work vacations, radio ministry, barbers, boy's clubs, a good football coach, physical strength, and forests. How many blessings can you add to these? And how do you esteem the blessings above mentioned?
