Peace Corps Applicants Needed From This County

Would you like to serve as a Peace Corps Volunteer in Guatemala? Are you between the ages of 18 and 25? Do you have a farm background, 4-H or FFA experience? Have you had experience or training in farm cooperatives? Did you take courses in agriculture or home economics in college? If your answer is "yes" to the first two questions, and one or more of the others, you should apply now.

Volunteers in Guatemala will not be required to demonstrate very high proficiency in any specific technical field. They will try to show the Guatemalans how to better their way of life. Encouragement, gentle hints, convincing demonstrations and friendship will be more important than theories or college degrees. The Volunteers will try to get the people to experiment for themselves, and ON THEIR OWN to utilize the human, financial and technical resources which the country possesses.

The great majority of farm families live in the Indian headlands, where ancient traditions and ignorance have restricted these people from developing into a productive force for their country. Recently they have become interested in developing their lands and using more modern methods of farming.

Volunteers will find broad opportunities in teaching agricultural and homemaking techniques through 4-H type clubs. Through demonstrations, they can introduce better seeds, fertilizers, pesticides and fungicides, better nutritional practices, sewing and homemaking, better livestock management, breeding and vaccination, and better use and maintenance of machinery.

There is also a great need for developing credit facilities and cooperatives, encouraging soil conservation practices, and improving the sanitation conditions.

Volunteers will live and work in villages located about 4-5 hours via jeep travel from Guatemala City, a thriving metropolis of 350,000 population. Guatemala is also the country where the mysterious Mayan civilization flourished centuries ago. Extensive ruins have been unearthed in the Peten region, making it a haven for archeologists and anthropologists.

All persons in Cherokee County interested in applying for Peace Corps service in Guatemala should contact the Agricultural Extension agent office as soon as possible.

Miss Janice Hogsed Is Bride Of Lowell Jones

ANDREWS - Miss Janice Hogsed, daughter of Mrs. Ralph Hogsed, and the late Mr. Hogsed, became the bride of Lowell Jones, son of Mr. and Mrs. George Jones on Wednesday afternoon, Nov. 7, at 4 p.m. at the First Baptist Church, with the Rev. T. C. Christmas, pastor, officiating.

The couple was unattended. The bride was attired in a blue wool sheath with matching accessories.

Members of both families were present. Friends who attended were Miss Tommie Almond, Mrs. Dean Truett, and James Franklin.

Mrs. Jones is a graduate of Andrews High School and also a graduate of Pack Square Beauty School. Prior to marriage, she was employed at Duchess Beauty Shop.

Mr. Jones, also a graduate of Andrews High School has served three years in the Air Force, stationed in England. He is now employed by Sealtest Company of Asheville.

They are residing on Charlotte Street, in Asheville.

It happened 100 YEARS ago

The oldest incorporated trade association in the country, the United States Brewers Association, was organized in 1862... the same year that

IN NORTH CAROLINA arrangements were made to transfer the Confederacy's naval ordnance center from Norfolk to Charlotte because of inland safety and good railroad to Wilmington. North Carolinians saluted this new commerce with glasses of beer.

For even then, beer was North Carolina's traditional beverage of moderation. Beer still provides enjoyment for North Carolinians, and a good living for many of them - not only the employees of the Brewing Industry itself, but also for North Carolina farmers and other suppliers of the materials brewers use.

TODAY, in its centennial year, the United States Brewers Association still works constantly to assure maintenance of high standards of quality and propriety wherever beer and ale are served.

Cousin Clairence's Corner

Warned Over Department: I used that title because I want to make a few comments about my last week's column. You will notice I did not say that I wanted to say "just a word" about it, like a lot of preachers. They'll say, "Now let us bow our heads for a 'word of prayer'" and then they'll pray one of the longest ones you ever heard. I'd be the last one to criticize any kind of communication with the Good Lord; what I wonder about is this: I wonder why they think they can kid their congregations about how much they're gonna pray, and you know they couldn't kid HIM. And some of 'em will say "Now this final word in closing" and then ramble around for the longest. I guess they usually forget what that final word was that they had in mind and they just keep talking till they come up with it. Some of them, I think, forget all together what the final word was that they originally planned to use and have to pick 'em a brand new one to close with. And sometimes this process takes a pretty good while. I sympathize with 'em too, 'cause I got so carried away here about the preachers that I almost forgot my own comments I was planning to make. I gotta remember that business about folks living in glass houses shouldn't throw rocks. A reader of this column asked me if I hadn't sorta gotten out of character last week when I added that "serious department" to the column. I told the reader that I just did that to demonstrate how fast I could shift gears. Another one spoke up and said "Yeah, and I think you must have forgotten to clutch it when you shifted." I understood his nasty insinuation that I'd stripped my gears. But not to be outdone, I informed him that I used an automatic shift. Then, another reader accused me of having a split personality. My only comment to reader number three was that I'd always suspected that something was wrong with the personality I wound up with and I guessed that that was it -- the durn thing was split.

There was nothing complimentary about these folks saying about me or this column, but it did let me know that at least three people are reading this junk, and that's pretty encouraging in itself. Suggestion Department: The other day the Editor of this paper suggested that I ask my readers to drop a card or letter to this paper if they enjoyed reading my column. I thought about it a little bit and made a suggestion to him that I liked a lot better --- not near so risky as his. My suggestion was: That I ask all of you that enjoy reading this mess not to write in, just keep quiet, and those of you that don't like it, write a letter saying so. You see, this way I'm bound to come out ahead 'cause there's sure to be a lot more letters we don't get than the little handful we do. This might be a sort of negative poll. Regardless of what we call it, I thought I had come up with some pretty sharp thinking there and I'm proud of it. That may surprise some of you, my coming up with such a brilliant plan. And that reminds me of what Paw said once, "Even a blind pig will find a scorn ever now and then."
