

Berkshire To Add New Type Sewing Machines

ANDREWS - Berkshire International, Inc., plans to install a limited number of new type sewing machines at the Andrews plant this month. Leroy Luppold, Berkshire's general production superintendent, announced the new additions in a speech to the Andrews Rotary Club Sept. 17.

Approximately ten new jobs at the Andrews plant will be created by installation of the new machines.

"Andrews' plant operates on an over-time basis," Mr. Luppold said, "even though the hosiery market is in an over-produced state."

"While the hosiery industry is following the trend to seamless stockings, with seamless accounting for 80 per cent of U. S. hosiery production, Berkshire is still producing around 25 per cent full fashion and 75 per cent seamless," he explained, "and therefore our seamless plant at Andrews continues in overtime production, even though some plants owned by other companies are on limited production."

Mr. Luppold pointed out that the rapid changing demand from full fashion to seamless hosiery gave hosiery manufacturers a short time to convert their plants.

"The Andrews plant will continue its present production rate through the fall and winter if our sales forecast is anywhere near what we expect," he said.

Mr. Luppold and other Berkshire officials were in Andrews to plan the installation of the new machines. The new machines will produce stockings with a sewn toe, rather than the conventional looping method.

Other Berkshire officials present at the Rotary meeting were William Shoeler, superintendent of production machinery; Owen Degler, superintendent of quality control; Lester Marburger, plant engineer; and Harry Wagner, Mr. Luppold's assistant, all of Reading, Pa.

Cliff Huls of the Andrews plant was also a guest at the meeting.

S. J. Gernert, superintendent of the Andrews plant, a member of the club, introduced Mr. Luppold and the other guests.

Only Undeclared Conference Team Cats Grab Loop Lead With Win Over Swain

BRYSON CITY - Andrews High's galloping Wildcats exploded with long runs of the razzle-dazzle variety here Friday night to hand Swain High its first grid defeat of the year, 41-20.

Swain, favored to win, matched the Wildcats touchdown for touchdown until the score reached 14-14 in the second period, but from there on, Andrews couldn't be headed, as the team's win streak moved to four straight.

The win moved Andrews into a tie with Sylva-Webster for top standing in the conference, and gave the Cats the best overall record in the loop. They are the only conference team still undefeated for the year.

Wildcat halfback Mike Sheidy turned in the finest performance of his career thus far, getting the game off to an explosive start by returning Swain's opening kickoff for an 83 yard touchdown. John Gernert added his first point with the PAT kick.

Swain took the kickoff and picked up three first downs, but stalled in Wildcat territory and punted.

Andrews took over on the 20, but fumbled to Swain on their first offensive play.

Swain moved on in to score with Talmadge Jones carrying three yards. Steve Cooper ran the point to tie the score.

Andrews unlimbered its aerial attack after receiving the kickoff. Jimmy Watkins passed to Butch Sursavage for connections of 15 and 40 yards, rolling to the Swain six. Sheidy scooted in for the score. Gernert added another point.

Swain stormed back with Talmadge and Alfred Jones and Steve Cooper carrying the mail. The Cats finally stopped the drive on their 10 but again set up a Swain score by fumbling.

Swain recovered on the 12 and Alfred Jones scored four plays later. Cooper again ran the point to tie up the game, 14-14.

Andrews broke the tie seconds later, as Sheidy took the ensuing kickoff, and handed off to Watkins on the 20. Watkins dazzled the Maroon Devils by zipping 80 yards to regain the lead for Andrews, with Eddie Adams providing a key block to spring the speedy quarterback loose.

Gernert added his third point of the night.

The Wildcat defense set up like concrete after Swain received the kickoff, forcing the Maroons to punt.

The Cats blocked the punt and Eddie Adams grabbed in on the Swain 44.

Sizeable gains were picked up by Watkins and Sheidy, and the Cats pushed to Swain's one with bare seconds remaining in the half.

Time ran out, but a double penalty occurred on the last play. Referees gave the Cats another play and Sheidy boomed in for the tally. Swain blocked Gernert's extra point attempt.

During the half, the referees announced that the Wildcat TD, scored after time ran out, would have to be decided by state athletic authorities if it should have an effect on the final outcome of the game.

Andrews settled the question by adding two more scores in the second half, and holding Swain to one more.

Early in the third period, Andrews stopped Swain on the Wildcat 30. On first down, halfback Terry Marr added another dazzling run, speeding 70 yards to score.

Gernert faked the PAT kick, and Sheidy carried over for the point.

After kicking off, the Cats recovered a Swain fumble on the next Maroon offensive play.

Three plays later, Watkins hit Sursavage with a short jump pass, and the big end romped 30 yards for the final Wildcat touchdown. Gernert kicked the final point.

Late in the final quarter, Swain recovered a third Andrews fumble on their 47 yard line, and pushed to the Wildcat 11. From there, Cooper ran in for the last Maroon score.
