Murphy Student At State Gets Scholarship Award

RALEIGH - Two wildlife biology students at N. C. State have been cited for academic achievement and have received scholarship awards to assist them in continuing their college educations.

The scholarships were announced by D. Staton Inscoe, chairman of the trustees of the Conservation and Education Fund of the N. C. Wildlife Federation.

The scholarship awards were made to Stephen Hembree, Murphy, and Martin J. Barrier, Jonas Ridge, N. C. Hembree, a senior, received a $300 award, and Barrier, a junior, received $200.

Both were described by Dr. Fred Barklow, NCS professor of Zoology, as outstanding young men with promising futures in the field of fisheries and wildlife biology.

Hembree is working with Dr. F. E. Hester, director of the U. S. Cooperative Fisheries Research Unit at N. C. State, and plans to enter graduate school. He is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Noah W. Hembree, Murphy, and is a graduate of Murphy High School.

Barrier is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Donald E. Barrier, Jonas Ridge, and a graduate of Crossnore High School. He attended Appalachian State Teachers College at Boone for two years before transferring to N. C. State.

Both Barrier and Hembree are married and their wives are teaching in schools in the Raleigh area. Hembree is married to the former Jane Van Horn of Murphy and Barrier to the former Rebecca Edwards of Rutherfordton.

BIBLE QUESTIONS & ANSWERS

By Tom Ledbetter
Andrews Church of Christ

QUESTION: Does the Bible teach anything about Pur-gatory?

ANSWER: No, it does not. The Bible plainly teaches that a person will be in the same condition at the judgement as he is when he departs from this world. (Lk. 16:26)

The Bible does speak of a place called Hades, an unknown or hidden place where the soul goes at death to await the judgement (Lk. 16; Acts 2:31).

After the judgement the soul will go to one of two places, heaven or hell, to dwell throughout eternity (Rev. 21:8, 22:14) depending on the preparation they made before death.
