

NEW FRONT-DRIVE STEAM LOCOMOTIVE

To relieve the engineer of the danger of smoke and gasses on long pulls through tunnels and snow-sheds along the Southern Pacific Railroad, this new engine has the cab at the front and the smokestack at the rear. It is an articulated type for heavy mountain duty.

"THE PLOUGH AND THE STARS" HERE

Celebrated Irish Play to be on Screen at Dolly Mon. and Tues., Feb. 22 & 23rd

"The Plough and the Stars," a fictitious story of the Irish "Up-rising" of 1916, which brings Barbara Stanwyck and a distinguished cast to the Palace Theatre, has been called the greatest drama of the twentieth century.

That is the opinion of Maxwell Anderson, one of America's noted playwrights, whose fine appreciation of dramatic situation and technique is testified by the long list of hits in his own name, chief among which are "Both Your Houses," for which he won the 1933 Pulitzer Drama Prize, "Mary of Scotland" and "Winterset." And it is the opinion of many critics in many countries that Sean O'Casey, author of "The Plough and the Stars," stands out as one of the great playwrights of the post-world war period.

An Irishman born and bred, who lived through the terrors which the film depicts, Sean O'Casey has risen high for his ability to blend the humor and tragedy of Gael and Ireland as no other writer can.

The Plough and the Stars" displays this ability and most brilliant peak, and the screen version, as directed by John Ford, winner of the Academy award for his work on "The Informer," is said to give film-goers an entire new slant on Irish humor, while driving home a moving story of tragedy-threatened romance in strife-torn Dublin.

The cast of "The Plough and the Stars," which takes its title from the emblem on the flag of the Irish Civilian Army features Preston Foster and Una O'Connor in support of Barbara Stanwyck. Barry Fitzgerald, Denis O'Dea, Eileen Crowe, Arthur Shields, F. J. McCormick, J. M. Keenan, Bonita Granville, Erin O'Brien-Moore, Moroni Olsen, and Neil Fitzgerald all have prominent parts.

Madison County farmers keeping records of their operations last year report an income of 8 percent on their investments.

At least 25,000 acres of lespedeza in Randolph County has germinated and is growing due to recent warm weather.

RANGERS COMING

At Dolly Madison Monday and Tuesday, Feb. 22 & 23rd

Gene Durnal and his famous Rangers from the Rio Grande Valley are coming to the Dolly Madison Theatre for a two day engagement and present one of the finest units of this type of western entertainment.

Gene Durnal and his Rangers will be remembered as helping to make that ever popular song "The Last Roundup" famous.

This is their favorite song and is included in their program every day.

Picture these Rangers on a Moonlight night riding along the trail, watching their herd of cattle and singing the songs which you will hear from the stage, that are dear to the hearts of every red-blooded westerner.

The unit is composed of a talented bunch of boys who do everything from rope spinning to playing fiddles, banjos and singing those favorite songs that they sang over the station at Del Rio, Texas, XER.

This is the fifth annual tour for the Rangers who are headed East and then back to the West for the Roundups and Rodeos, as each man is a crack shot and expert rider.

The Rangers will appear at the Dolly Madison each day and will be glad to sing any request number that the folks may especially like. Just write your request to Gene Durnal and His Rio Grande Rangers at the Dolly Madison Theatre and they will be very glad to play or sing any number that you may desire while they are at the theatre.

30 Year Experiment in Rotation

The yields of soil-depleting crops can be greatly increased by growing them in rotations with soil-conserving and soil-building crops, said E. C. Blair, extension agronomist at State College. The picture above shows the results of a 30-year experiment, with the increase in yields gotten by growing corn, oats, wheat, and clover in a four-year rotation. No fertilizer or manure was used.

J. C. Byrd of Harnett County recently killed 23 hogs from which he secured 8,000 pounds of pork.

Jones County rural young people have organized a recreational council composed of recreational leaders from different 4-H clubs of the county.

In Lenoir County, 371 farmers had the farm agent reclean 414.3 quarts of tobacco seed during January.
