

Advance News On Farm and Home Week Program

By Miss Velma Beam, Person Home Demonstration Agent.

A very inexpensive, instructive and entertaining vacation for rural men and women may be had from July 29 to August 2 if Farm and Home Week at State college is attended.

One dollar is required for registration and food may be obtained at a reasonable price at the college cafeteria. Those in attendance are required to take bed linens, towels and all personal articles but the dormitories are used without cost.

If only the home management and house furnishings part of the program were offered the week would be full of plenty to learn and to do, for that plan alone is worth anybody's time, money and effort.

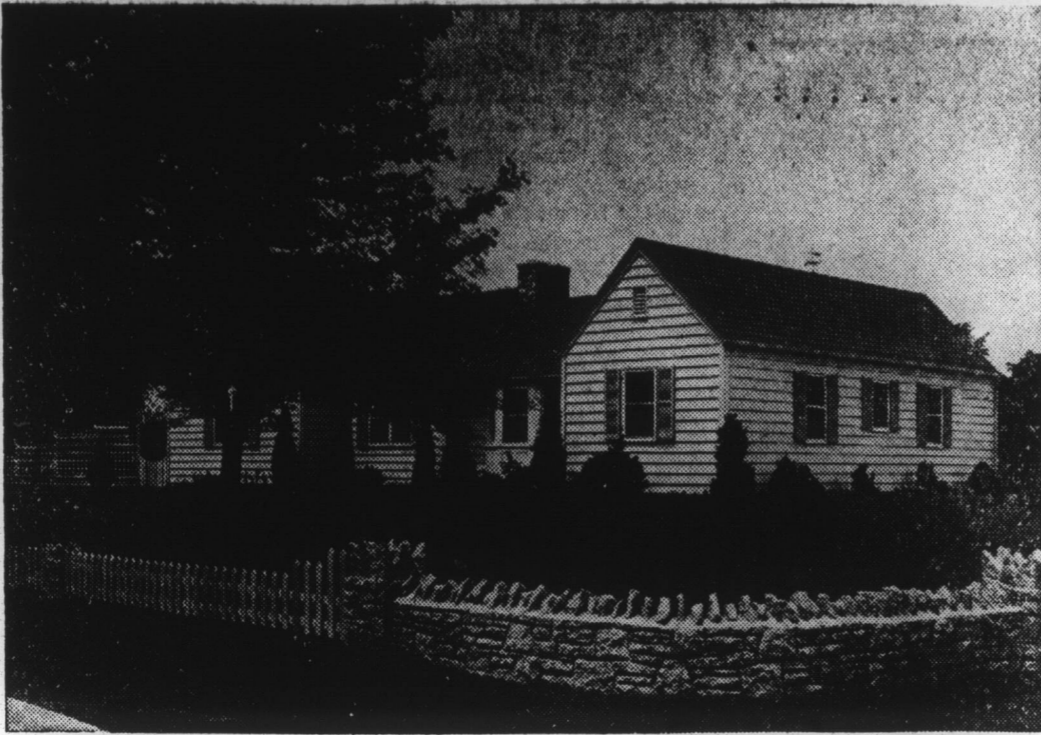

Sparing no labor to make this interesting to the rural family Miss Pauline Gordon, Home Management and House Furnishings Specialist and her assistant, Miss Mamie Whisnant, have secured Mrs. Esther Gordon Shepherd, who has been doing graduate work in house furnishings in Cornell during the past year, to conduct two classes.

The first is Expressing Your Personality in Your Home Thru Color, in which she is going to use illustrative material to show the effect of colors and successful ways of using it in the farm home.

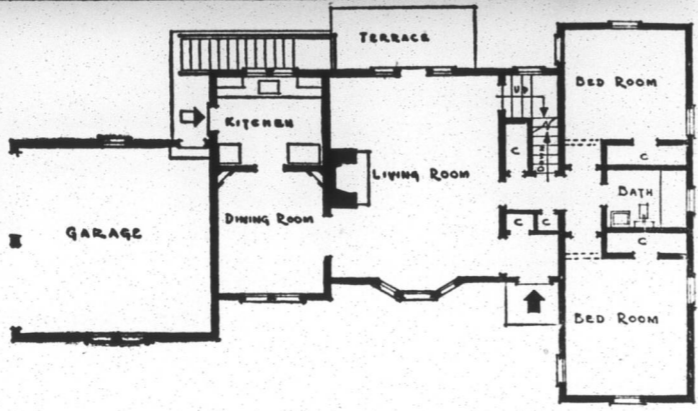

And second is Equipping the Home for the Small Child, in which she will discuss storage and furnishings.

Henry S. Johnson, of Columbia, S. C., an expert in management will give one day to Keepers of the Family Pocketbook, and another day to Guarding the Family Pocketbook. He is a well known personnel member of the Farm Credit association and is well qualified to give pertinent facts and workable suggestions for spending wisely.

Relief From Standardization

Where space permits, this home solves the problem of how to break the monotony of design without bordering on extremity. The center of the house is one room deep, with one wing devoted to bedrooms and bath and the other to kitchen and dining room. The designer has found plenty of room for closets, usually a serious problem in a small-home design. The Federal Housing Administration's Ohio office insured a mortgage for $5,500 after the property was appraised at $7,500.

The much talked of mattress project has its place in this plan also, and rightly so. This time the Mattress Goes into the Living Room, Miss Whisnant and Eugene Starnes will conduct this demonstration. How to build a day-bed, how to make the mattress after the day-bed is built, then how to slip cover the whole thing in order to make it fit into the scheme of the household will be described.

Last year Colonel and Mrs. J. W. Harrelson opened their new home for our House Furnishings class tour. So many people were interested they are repeating it this year — listed on the program as "Beauty in the Home". Miss Gordon will conduct this tour and a discussion following it on making all homes livable and attractive.

Then, too, there are the attractive exhibits always put on by the House Furnishings department. This year they are to be displayed in Primrose Hall and will have regular exhibit hours. Very much worth while are they, exhibiting the practical arts which may be practiced by all home makers.

This, you see, is only one phase of that great Farm and Home Week program. There will be Foods and Nutrition Courses, Food Preservation Exhibits and Classes, Clothing Reviews and discussions, Home Beautification Classes et Cetera, et cetera. Watch your newspapers for more detailed accounts, and consult your local Extension workers for information.

Orchid a Day Was Rule On This Set

An orchid a day was the rule on the set of "New Moon," co-starring Jeanette MacDonlad and Nelson Eddy and opening tomorrow at the Palace theatre. The orchids were supplied by Mary Boland who, it was discovered, was an orchid fancier with more than fifty different varieties of the blooms growing in the specially constructed hothouse adjacent to her home.

"New Moon," a musical romance of the 1780's, transpires in the romantic surroundings of New Orleans during Mardi Gras. There are thrilling scenes on the high seas and an exciting sequence on a tropic island where Nelson Eddy sets up a republic following a shipwreck. The film is the first to bring th two singing favorites together in more than a year. It was produced and directed by Robert Z. Leonard.

Included in the Sigmund Romberg score are such hits as "Lover Come Back to Me", "Wanting You", "One Kiss", "Marianne", "Parade", "Softly As in a Morning Sunrise," and "Stout Hearted Men".

"Stop Before You Swat," Says Hocutt

Raleigh, July 14 — "Resist the natural impulse to swat at a bee, hornet or other insect that flies into your car while driving along the highway," Ronald Hocutt, Director of the Highway Safety Division, cautioned North Carolina motorists this week.

Hocutt's warning arose from an accident last week in which a woman was seriously injured and several members of the family bruised and shaken up when her husband, who was driving, tried to swat at a bee which flew into the car.

"I realize that the driver, under such conditions, is seized with an almost irresistible impulse to swing and swat at the pesky insect," Hocutt said, "but this impulse must be checked and the attack on the insect withheld until the car can be brought to a complete stop. When you try to watch an insect's dizzy gyrations and attempt to kill him while your car is in motion, you stand a better chance of killing yourself than of killing the insect."

The safety director cited another case wherein a woman was driving along when a bee flew in and stung her on the cheek. She slapped at it and knocked it to the floor, and then looked down to see where she could finish the job with her foot. As her glance was on the floor, she steered unobscuredly to the left, crashing head-long into another car.

The moral, Hocutt said, is: "Stop before you swat."

Film Old-Timer Kept On Job By Popular Demand

George Hayes, fondly known as "Gabby" to myriads of fans, is famed around Hollywood as the man who couldn't retire. Again and again he sought to put the stage and screen behind him, but he was always drawn back by the clamor of his admirers.

"Gabby", who specializes in grizzled, "old-timer" roles in which his salty philosophy and kindly humor strike home strongly, has played in almost one hundred pictures following his planned "retirement."

He appeared in "Man of Conquest", one of the large-budget pictures on Republic's program last season, and was signed again to appear in a featured role in "Dark Command", another Republic epic which is scheduled to show at the Dolly Madison theatre Monday and Tuesday.
