Urged To Grow More Hogs

A steadily increasing demand for pork has caused Ellis V. Vestal, swine specialist of the N. C. State College Extension Service, to call on North Carolina farmers for larger hog numbers.

More money in circulation as a result of the Defense Program has created a brighter situation for swine raisers. Likewise, the lease-lend act guarantees pork supplies to Britain.

"These factors have brought about a favorable ratio between hog prices and feed prices," Vestal said. "With hogs selling at 10 cents a pound and better, farmers and 4-H Club members may well afford to feed any pigs they have, even if they have to buy some corn as well as protein and mineral."

An average of ten trials conducted by the North Carolina Experiment Station showed that 10-cent hogs will return $1.57 a bushel for corn consumed, basis cottonseed meal at $1.75 per 100 pounds, and fish meal at $3.50 per 100 pounds.

Farmers and farm boys wishing to conduct feeding demonstrations are advised by Vestal to use the following procedure:

1. Weigh the pigs at the beginning of the period.

2. Use a self-feeder. Blueprints may be obtained from any county agent.

3. Use shelled corn or ground barley in one compartment, and cottonseed meal and fish meal (or tankage) in the other.

4. Use the recommended mineral mixture in a dry place. Green feed is important, too.

5. Keep a record of the feed used.

Vestal said county agents will

C. R. HOEYS URGE FARM SAVINGS

Would Conserve Food And Work Harder.

STATESVILLE, N. C., July 19. Farmers and farm women attending the Piedmont farm field day were urged by former Governor Clyde Hoey and Mrs. Hoey to conserve food and work cooperatively in a general program to bolster national defense.

Hoey said distribution and marketing were problems still to be solved in North Carolina. He asked the farmers and their wives to support a program of food conservation, canning, economical production and better marketing.

Stressing the "live at home" idea, he deplored the fact that 50 per cent of the eggs consumed in the State were imported from other states. Mrs. Hoey recommended that landlords establish "cooperative gardens" in the interest of sound economy and health.

NEW YORK, July 19.—For 17 hours, 19-year-old Eleanore Maldonado of Brooklyn, floated around lower New York Bay in an old inner tube, her shouts unheeded by passing craft in the right until she was fished out of the water yesterday by the commuting boat Sand Hook. J. camp and drifted several miles off shore, out of hailing distance of her friends.

JIMMY CLARK, GOLFER ELIMINATED IN SEMI-FINALS

INDIAN CANYON, Spokane, Wash., July 19.—Jack Kerns of Denver stretched out on the grass by the press table and commented:

"Well, he'd better be on his game, because I sure am."

Most of the sports writers didn't even know Kerns by sight then, but they did a couple of hours later.

He eliminated tournament favorite, Jimmy Clark, aircraft worker from Long Beach, Calif., in a quarter-final upset, 2 and 1, disposing of the medalist in this twentieth annual national public-links tourney.

Kerns was on his game—even par—while Clark, who had been tearing the Indian canyon links apart all week, went two over par for the 17 holes.

Thus, the bespectacled Kerns, Denver insurance clerk, led the quartet of golfers into today's 36-hole semi-finals. Kerns plays another bespectacled parshooter, Art Pomy of Detroit.

In the lower bracket Bill Weich of Houston, who works for an oil equipment firm, plays Pete Doll, Kentucky amateur champion from Louisville.

State College Answers Timely Farm Questions

QUESTION: Can the condition of gin equipment affect the quality of cotton?

ANSWER: Yes. According to J. A. Shanklin, Extension cotton specialist at State College, good ginning and poor ginning show up noticeably in the preparation and grading of cotton. It is imperative therefore that ginners "make ready" their gins during the growing season so that they will be in position to offer growers a good job in the fall. July is the usual "make ready" month and during that period ginners should be careful to put all machinery and equipment in tip-top shape.

QUESTION: What opportunity will farmers have to cooperate in the national defense effort aside from an adequate production of food-feed?

ANSWER: Since farmers of the state this year expect to have more income than last, but may not be able to buy some of the things which they need or want because of defense priorities, they may well invest some of the increased income in defense bonds or stamps. That is the advice of Tom Cornwell, Cleveland county cotton farmer and member of the state AAA committee, which maintains offices at State College.

QUESTION: How have state farmers responded to the plea of Governor J. M. Broughton for increased production of eggs in North Carolina?

ANSWER: The response has been unusually good, reports S. F. Parrish, Extension poultryman at State College, but "too many" producers are marketing their pullets as broilers instead of holding them as layers. At the present time there is no egg shortage, but this condition may be changed in the near future unless egg production is stepped up even higher. People are eating more eggs at home, the Army needs tremendous quantities and still more are scheduled for shipment overseas.

RUSH

Rush orders for immediate delivery of cotton are piling up throughout the nation now but none of the nation's agricultural experts are prepared to estimate to what heights this emergency consumption may go.
