SPORT SLANTS

It's Duke vs. Carolina

Take your pick fellows, it's Duke against Carolina again and may the best team win the game. Both institutions have swell football teams and both would like to win the game. Both teams are loaded with stars and anything can happen. Writers say that the scoring will be done through the air and as we all know the teams have good passers as well as good receivers.

Big Bob Gantt may see action for the first time this season and if he does it will be plenty of it when someone tries to throw a pass over his end of the team.

Altho Duke lost to Navy last Saturday they still rate high in the football world and none of the sport writers are trying to sell the Duke boys short. About 40 Duke men will be in uniform ready for the game and you will have to remember that they are all good or they would not be on the player's bench.

Carolina proved last Saturday that her team is to be considered this year and altho she lost to Georgia Tech, that doesn't mean a thing. That was an early game and the players have proved that they have the stuff.

If you do not have your ticket, you had better try to get one now, if you can.

DODDS, PRINCETON MAN, SPEAKER AT HISTORIC RITES

Celebration Of 150 Years Of History At Chapel Hill Observed.

Chapel Hill, Oct. 13.—Any military alliance made after this war must be supported by some type of international political institution if there is to be security against future wars, President Harold W. Dodds of Princeton University declared in an address here Tuesday.

Speaking at the sesquicentennial celebration of the laying of the cornerstone of the oldest building of the University of North Carolina, the first State university in America to open its doors to students, President Dodds asserted that "there is a growing body of opinion that neither military isolation nor military alliance along the familiar lines of balance of power will give us security against future wars of annihilation. We must organize for peace or we shall not have peace."

President Frank P. Graham of the University of North Carolina, who shared the speaking program with the Princeton executive, traced in detail the origin and development of the university and showed by historical documents beyond contradiction that the university was the first state university in the country to open its doors to students.

He presented a graphic word picture of the university's role in the nation's war effort, pointing out that the institution had a defense program in full swing 20 months before Pearl Harbor and that immediately after America's entry into war, a training program, for both military and civilian students. He said the university is also active in post-war projects.

President Dodds, in discussing the post-war outlook in a prophetic vein, said that "if after this war we must get ready for the next war on the scale that it will require we must bid farewell to our ambitions for higher standards of living for all."

"If the world is to remain an armed camp—if we must live in a psychology of constant preparation for war, what we call democracy will inevitably have to give way to dictatorship in some form."

"As our constitutional fathers well knew, you cannot militarize a government and keep it democratic. And they took careful steps to establish the supremacy of the civil over the military view of life."

President Dodds spoke before an assemblage of more than 3,000 persons, including the 1,550 trainees in the university's V-12 Navy and Marine and Army units, and the university's trustees, faculty, students, and hundreds of other citizens.

It seemed peculiarly fitting that President Dodds should be the principal speaker at today's exercises for, as he pointed out, Princeton was linked to the University of North Carolina by close faculty ties in the early days of the institution.

He said the cornerstone of the Old East Building, near which today's colorful exercises were held, was laid by a Princeton man, Gen. William R. Davie, often called the father of the university.

IRISH POTATOES
The average yield of Irish potatoes in the U. S. has increased from 112.6 bushels to 136 bushels per acre in the last ten years. It is thought that this increase is partly due to the new varieties which have been introduced. One of these is the North Carolina "Sequoia".

Fund Drive. The National Government is going to raise one hundred twenty five million dollars.

The following agencies are participating in this Fund—USO will receive 54c out of every dollar, United Seaman's Service, Aid to War prisoners, that is aid to our boys that are held as prisoners by our enemies, United China Relief, Russian War Relief, Greek Relief, Polish Relief and Refugee Relief.

"Within a few days a solicitor will call upon you for a donation. That person is giving not only money but valuable time in the interest of the great cause. I am sure that everyone will feel their responsibility and give as you have never given before. You are giving to support our own fighting men. They are your boys away from home."

"In another article in the Times are printed a number of letters from Person County men in the Service telling their story of what the USO and your dollars mean for their comfort and entertainment. Weigh the needs of our allies and fighting men against your responsibility as 100 percent American living in a free America and give to the best of your ability," says the Person chairman.

One of the best of these letters, from Lieut. James M. Abbott, of Roxboro and Miami, Fla., a son of Mr. and Mrs. I. O. Abbott, of Roxboro, who is now with the Air Corps in North Africa, says:

"Thanks for your letter of July 24th. It is good to hear that Roxboro is putting on a war drive. I am sure its citizens will be willing and glad to do all they can for the boys in the service."

"When you leave the States, your sense of values makes a big change. Entertainment that you accepted at home as matter of course becomes over here 'The event' of the week. Just a movie now and then is a great help to your morale, even an old movie is keenly enjoyed. The motion picture industry has been very kind and generous to us. They
