THE PRESIDENTIAL PARTY ENTER-TAINED AT ST. LOUIS.
Interesting Exercises by Children—About 40,000 People Witness the Scene—The President Makes an Address.

By Telegram to THE CHRONICLE.
ST. LOUIS, Oct. 3.—Cleveland weather "prevailed this morning and the Presidential party partook of an early breakfast in order to prepare for the day's festivities. Shortly after 9 o'clock Mr. C. C. Rainwater, chairman of the reception committee, escorted the members of the party from the Lindell Hotel to the residence of Mayor Francis, where they were met by the Mayor and cordially received. Shortly after 10 o'clock the entire party, in charge of Major Rainwater's committee, were driven to the fair grounds in the north-western portion of the city. Much interest was manifested by the uprising of the President and Mrs. Cleveland, acknowledging the demonstrations by bowing to the crowds on either side of the street. The party reached the fair grounds at 10:45 a. m. and were driven around the race course there, stopping in front of the grand stand long enough to hear "Three Thousand Children Sing 'America.'"

At the conclusion of the singing some very handsome flowers were presented to Mrs. Cleveland by the Kindergarten children. These were graciously acknowledged by the lady. The exercises at the fair grounds continued about three o'clock. The amphitheater surrounding the course contained upwards of 40,000 people. The scene was one long to be remembered. After driving all through the fair grounds the Presidential party returned to Mayor Francis' residence where the President and Mrs. Cleveland alighted, the latter remaining to prepare for a luncheon which is to be given in her honor by Mr. Henry Scamler. At a quarter before twelve o'clock the party started for the merchant's exchange, arriving there at 1:30 p. m. The President was introduced by Mayor Francis for a brief speech of welcome to which the President replied as follows:

President Replied as Follows:
Mr. Mayor and Fellow Citizens: It is an honor to me to make an extended speech on this occasion. I am afraid I shall disappoint you, and this I should be sorry to do after having succeeded at last, through much tribulation, in standing face to face with my St. Louis friends. The tribulation which has arisen has arisen from the extreme kindness of a vast number of the American people and the cordial invitation they have tendered to stop and see them on my way to your city. In this direction, it has sometimes seemed to me that every town between Washington and here has been represented as being directly on my route, and it has been hard to convince their kind and enthusiastic citizens that it would not be entirely easy, within the time at my disposal, to pay them a visit. My own inclination was to give up, but in deference to their desires, it has been a difficult matter to resist their persuasions but I have made up my mind that I will pay to St. Louis my debt of honor for the entire people and disappointment which this matter caused, for it was through them that I was induced to leave home at all. I expect that anything in this direction of your State or city in the way of laudation or congratulation would hardly equal your own estimate of these subjects. I believe there were more than when St. Louis was a determined and jealous rival of Chicago. I don't know whether this condition continues or not, but I hope it does. While you can hardly expect more on this side in such a contest, we are interested to the extent that such a struggle adds to the growth and improvement of the country. Both of these cities exemplify a wonderful degree how completely and how speedily American energy and business ingenuity utilizes every available element of municipal growth. It is hard to believe that the growth of the world's population is assimilated to the grand purpose of American expansion. I am here reminded of what, I suppose, to be the fact, more than half of your voters are of foreign birth and parentage. The growth and increase of your city in every way indicate, I think, that the condition of your population thus apparent is by no means to be deprecated and my observations during a long residence in a city similarly has led me to know the value to any community of the industry, frugality and energy and wisdom which come from foreign lands to find new homes with us who invest themselves with our citizenship and who are satisfied and content with our laws and institutions. The line is easily drawn between them and the non-assimilating emigrants who seek our shores solely for the purpose of living in idleness and disadvantage to our body politic. I hope I may without impropriety say this much in recognition of what has been done for St. Louis by its fortunate citizens as well as in remembrance of many kind and valued friends and associates of former days. I deem myself especially fortunate in being with you at a time when the manufacturers and products of your city and the surrounding country are on exhibition. At your fair, one of the largest in the country, those who seek the best and surest evidence of your substantial property may well be satisfied. Here I shall see the things which are conclusive proofs of thrift and wealth and comfortable houses. I hope to see beside while here certain features of your city's life which just at this time are unusually displayed and which establish the fact that the people of St. Louis with all their business engagements and with all their tact and stirring trade are not averse to pleasure and enjoyment. I hope that you will find your visitors to be interested in the house. I hope that you may be assured, however much you may impress us with the greatness of your city, we are certain to have our hearts filled with a grateful appreciation of the kindness and hospitality of your people. During the progress of the President's remarks at the exchange, he was often interrupted by cheers.

SAID TO BE POISONED BY FRIENDS.

Rejoice/Rejoice Made by a Mexican Newspaper.
CITY OF MEXICO, Oct. 3, via Galveston.—The recent murder and poisoning of persons in the interior of the country engaged in school teaching, editing Liberal newspapers, etc., are charged by the Mexican with a Mexican young lady, a Protestant, who went to teach in a small village in the State of Tlaxco. She was poisoned shortly after opening her school, and though her life was saved her reason is thought to have been destroyed. Another case was the murder of three Protestants in the State of Guerrero by a mob, and a third case was the recent murder of a Liberal newspaperman in the State of Vera Cruz, who had attacked the Church roughly and had been denounced from the pulpit by his clerical antagonists.

At the trial of the Mexican citizen, and the Monitor calls for justice and protection for people of all creeds against the fanatics of the interior. There is much agitation over these disclosures, which are likely to be the result of the visit of the fanatics are hard to control. There is no disposition to deal leniently with the authors of these atrocious crimes, which are condemned by all good citizens without regard to religious differences.

Newspaper Publishers Here and There at Raleigh.
RALEIGH, N. C., Oct. 1.—The inspector of fertilizers sent out by the Department of Agriculture returned from his trip to-day. It was a trip of the season and was made much earlier than ever before. He reports that the signs point to large sales of fertilizers and a brisk trade. There is not so much concern about fertilizers as was expected. The fertilizers for which no sale license has been taken. Some dealers have put this in the State. They are as illicit distillers and dodge the inspector. The department will put more inspectors in the field.

It was learned to-day from a resident of Clay county that since the creation of that county four years ago, no license for the sale of fertilizers has ever been issued. This makes 9 counties in the State in which prohibition prevails.

The Lexington lawyer named Newcomb, who fled last spring and is charged with embezzlement, has been found in East Tennessee. It is said, it is also alleged that detectives have gone after him. He was betrayed by means of letters addressed to his wife, who had joined him.

Next Wednesday the annual convention of Good Templars for this State will be held at Carthage, Moore county. This order has a very large membership in the State, though not as large as ten or twelve years ago.

The Department of Agriculture is said to believe from all indications that the wheat crop sown this season will be exceptionally large. The last crop was much finer than usual and the farmers were encouraged. Ten years ago, or even six, very little small grain was sown in several sections of the State. King Cotton then ruled absolutely. He has a divided kingdom now, thanks to diversified farming. The outlook for the next week of the city will formally receive the works.

Rev. R. T. Vann, of Wake Forest, was here to-day. He reports that there are 191 students present—the greatest number in the history of the college, and fifteen more than last term.

A Verdict of Not Guilty.
By Telegram to THE CHRONICLE.
WASHINGTON, Oct. 3.—The Court martial which met here the latter part of August to try Second Lieutenant Weber of the Signal Corps, on charges preferred by Gen. Greely of neglect of duty and disobedience of orders in failing to send forward his monthly reports promptly from Wood's Hall, returned a verdict of not guilty, and Gen. Greely has approved the finding of the court. The testimony went to show that Lt. Weber neglected his duty in forwarding his reports promptly, and it was because he neglected his duty on several occasions climbing telegraph poles and assisting in repairing signal office coast lines that he was prosecuted. It is stated when he might have utilized it in making out his reports and thus prevented a court martial.

THE GENERAL ASSEMBLY.

GATHERING OF THE KNIGHTS OF LABOR DELEGATES AT MINNEAPOLIS.

Major Ames' Words of Welcome—Grand Master Powderly Missed Connection in Chicago.
MINNEAPOLIS, Minn., Oct. 3.—Delegates to the General Assembly of the Knights of Labor have been arriving on every train since midnight and fully 200 are now on the scene. The public opening ceremonies at the Washington rink this morning were short of considerable of their attraction by the absence of Gov. McGill, Grand-Master Workman Powderly, Secretary Litchman and Tom O'Kelly, of New York, the sweet singer of the order, the latter three having missed connections in Chicago. The audience was large and there was prolonged applause when Chairman John P. McGaughey appeared on the platform and extended to the delegates the order of the structure. Behind him came Mayor A. A. Ames with Bob Grifith, of Chicago, A. A. Carlton, Massachusetts; J. Barony, Michigan; F. J. Ryan, California; W. H. Barley, Richard Trevellick; Ralph Beaumont and other noted leaders of the order, with a few words of explanation regarding the absence of Powderly and the others of the order, the latter three having missed connections in Chicago. When he moved to Minneapolis some ten years ago, he at first engaged in mercantile pursuits, but subsequently resumed his practice, and a few years ago was elected judge of the Common Pleas Court in Minneapolis. Nelson Cole, of Missouri, was elected Senior Vice-Commander, and John C. Linahan, of New Hampshire, Junior Vice-Commander. General William D. Donahue was elected Surgeon-General. The Rev. Edward Anderson, was elected Chaplain in Chief. The officers of the Encampment were then duly installed.

The committee on the Logan monument reported, recommending that a fund be provided for the erection of an equestrian statue at Washington. The resolution was adopted by a vote of 200 to 100. George E. Lemon, of Washington subscribed a thousand dollars.

The Cotton Sellers.
To the Editor of the Chronicle.
Allow us to correct a wrong impression made by a statement in your paper as to "the Mecklenburg sellers of cotton." You say it is reported that on arriving in Concord the "sellers" were sold as well as the cotton. It is altogether what is called being sold in a matter of this kind as a lawyer and a politician, says George E. Lemon, of Washington subscribed a thousand dollars.

Caught a Woman.
An old widower in this city has a few hundred of turkeys, which very few can boast of hermits on account of the drought, and he also has a neighbor, who is we believe, a widow, who owns a fine lot of chickens, and they fly over the fence and depredate on the widower's turkeys. He expostulated with the lady and begged her to chop her chickens' wings. This she positively refused to do, and he went to a trap in his turkeys, caught several chickens, clipped their wings and threw them over the fence. The woman didn't like this operation and she decided to break up the trap. One morning last week she got up while it was dark, sealed the fence and sought for the trap. She found it, and the neighbor soon found her. She was caught in a steel trap, and she was sent up a road unaccompanied. She has caused a Comanche chief to hide his head in shame. It is said that section, and the widower ran out to see what was the matter. He quickly relieved her, and the steel trap is gone, but the chickens don't eat his turkeys any more. They don't speak, either, and she won't look over that way.

The Tobacco Market Stabilized.
DANVILLE, Va., Sept. 3.—The tobacco market for the past week has shown a brisk demand for good old cutters, wrappers and fillers, and the prices obtained on such have been high. New tobaccos have sold at higher prices than ever known at this season, and the tone of the market is healthy. The improvement is gradual rather than spasmodic and not to be attributed to the recent frost, as it is the increase in prices to the result of the legitimate demand and improved business. The amount of leaf sold in this market for the month of September was 1,267,362 lbs. The amount sold for the 12 months ending September 30th was 29,242,726 pounds for $2,536,915.90. The amount sold for the year ending September 30, 1886, was 40,333,943 pounds for $2,796,843.

THE JUDGE RAE ELECTED.

The New Judge RAE in Chief of the G. A. B.
ST. LOUIS, Oct. 2.—As soon as the G. A. B. Encampment came to order yesterday afternoon the election of a commander-in-chief was at once proceeded with. The States were called in order, and each was asked to nominate a candidate. No speeches were permitted, and the nominations were: General Bloem, of New York; Judge John P. Rae, of Minnesota; George T. Anthony, Kansas; General R. F. Grier, Missouri; and General W. T. Sherman.

The matter was decided on the first ballot, Judge Rae receiving 294 votes; General Sloam 183; Anthony 63; General Grier 18, and Sherman and General Warner each, one vote. Judge Rae, the newly elected chief, is a Pennsylvanian by birth, an Ohio soldier, and now a citizen of Minnesota. He was born in Chester county, Pa., October 18th, 1846, and enlisted in Equia, Ohio, in the Eleventh Ohio Volunteer Infantry, April 1861, for three months. On August 18th, he enlisted for three years in the First Regiment Ohio Cavalry and was promoted to Major.

OUR WASHINGTON LETTER.

CIVIL SERVICE COMMISSIONER OBERLY HANDLED ROUGHLY.
The North Carolina Democratic Association a Failure—A Notable Marriage—Personal Notes.

Special Correspondence of THE CHRONICLE.
WASHINGTON, D. C., October 2.—Civil Service Commissioner Oberly's protest against the State Democratic Associations which exist in this city has raised considerable excitement among the members of these Associations. The Virginians are especially hard on Oberly and held a meeting at which they handled Oberly and his utterances without gloves. Col. J. Q. C. Washington, of Virginia, one of the oldest newspaper correspondents in this city and now the representative of the New Orleans Freemason, at a called meeting of the Virginia Association, of which he is a member, denounced Oberly's letter as "insulting and scandalous." He denied that the Association had violated any law and said he was at a loss to account for the production of the letter except as an act of idiocy or insanity, or on the theory that the man who wrote it believed that he was voicing the ideas of some superior in office. Col. Washington declared that the Association would not dishonor itself by taking no more notice of Mr. Oberly's "barkings behind the fence." Mr. Glascock thought that Mr. Oberly's idea in writing such a letter must have been to destroy the organization of the Democratic party. After other remarks, all antagonistic to Mr. Oberly's ideas, the subject was referred to a committee who reported that a resolution condemning the letter of Mr. Oberly and repelling as false the assertion that the Association or any of its members had violated any law; denouncing the assertion that the State Association had dishonored itself by taking no more notice of Mr. Oberly's "barkings behind the fence," and declaring that the Virginia Association will continue in existence.

There was a North Carolina Democratic Association organized here about two years ago but it adjourned subject to the call of the president, Capt. John B. Hussey, some time ago and has not been called since. An effort was made to revive it by some men here, without political prominence, in order to further their own views on a National Democratic Association, but this effort was conspicuously unsuccessful. One of the most cultured and cautious of North Carolinians here, a man who has never held an office and is at once a lawyer and a politician, says Oberly has the law on his side. This gentleman did not join the North Carolina Association though urged to do so, and thinks the existence of such an association opposed to the letter and the spirit of the Civil Service Law, I have tried to give you, in brief, the two sides of this controversy. I don't agree with either. Organization is unnecessary to make any movement a success and Oberly is not at all the slightest importance to anything he says. As an offset to Oberly's letter, a National Democratic Association has just been formed here composed of some of the prominent officials in the department. This association is "devoted to the teaching of the Democracy in its simplicity and purity, the perpetuation of our present form of government and the protection of our institutions."

The Hon. George Bancroft, the historian, is perhaps the most distinguished private citizen. He will return to the city during the present month. He will be eighty-seven years old on Oct. 3, and will as usual celebrate his birthday at Newport. The marriage of his granddaughter, Miss Susanne Bancroft and Viscount de Chateaufort, of France, was celebrated in the city during the week with the civil ceremony. The bridegroom election old friend of Miss Bancroft, to whom she says she should have been married years ago, but for the fact that she felt her first duty was to her grand father, and she only consents to leave him now because his sister, aged eighty-two years, is coming to live with him and be his companion. The marriage engagement between Miss Bancroft and the Viscount was made by letter, and he sent money to buy the engagement rings, so that she could make her own choice. Her bridesmaids, who have already been selected, are Miss Endicott, daughter of the Secretary of War; Miss Bessie French, Miss Sue Dresser, daughter of Gen. of New York, and Miss Shaw, of Boston.

Mr. Theodore F. Tomkins left here this morning to take a position as local reporter on the Wilmington Messenger. Mr. Tomkins has a year's experience in this city with the well known newspaper man, Mr. O. P. Austin, though he was more recently employed on the Commercial Advertiser of New York City. Mr. Tomkins is a connection of Judge Thurman, and with such strong Democratic affiliation will doubtless please our people politically. He is recognized as being a very able writer and a man of indomitable energy. He has traveled extensively and is a thorough man of the world though he is only about twenty-four years of age. He is a native of New York and is on the staff of the Washington Evening Globe.

Greene's Cotton Report.
By Telegram to THE CHRONICLE.
NEW YORK, Oct. 3.—Greene & Co's cotton report on cotton futures says: "It has on the whole been a pretty good market for cotton contracts, with a higher range of prices, on the bulk of trading, though extreme figures were modified before the week when near months were about the same as Saturday evening, and later options only a point higher. There appeared to be considerable selling again on European accounts, and to some extent from the South, but demand developed freely and more than balanced the force of the offerings. A reduced estimate of the crops from Texas, and some falling crop reports as compared last week, appeared to tighten the market spots, slow and a fraction easier."
