Realtors Discuss Politics

Brunswick Islands Board of Realtors president Paul Floyd (left) and James Bischof, executive vice president of the N.C. Association of Realtors, discuss regional real estate practices at the local board's meeting Monday night in Shallotte. Bischof was guest speaker and addressed the board on ethics and upcoming legislation in Raleigh which will affect the real estate market.

W. Brunswick Cadets
Receive High Ranking

The West Brunswick High School JROTC Corps received perfect scores on 48 of 50 items last Tuesday during their annual federal inspection to rate as the highest score in the 12-year history of the unit.

U.S. Army officers Major Sam Caldwell and Capt. R. Marshall, representatives of the Commanding General of the First ROTC Region at Fort Bragg, inspected the units at the school. Their comments about the units praised the corps and their leadership.

"Your pride in the unit, your knowledge of your jobs and the excellence of your performance here today," Capt. Marshall stated, "are all clear evidences of the fact that this unit is accepting the challenge of JROTC and exercising the responsibility of leadership."

The annual inspection began with a briefing by the cadet battalion staff led by Cadet Major Leslie Gore. Other duties were: Cadet Major Donna Smigiel, briefing on cadet strength and promotion system; Cadet Major Leamon Clemmons, briefing on training facilities, schedules and class structure; Cadet Capt. Ronald Hockett, issue of clothing and equipment; Cadet Major Jarrett Elliott, briefings on the rifle team, color guard, and Bushmasters Adventure Training Unit; and Capt. Amy Trogdon, the cadet scrapbook and recruiting.

Briefings were followed by an inspection in the ranks of each individual cadet on the football field. The big event of the day was the formal parade by the entire corps. Joining the inspectors on the reviewing stand were Shallotte Mayor Beamon Hewett, Principal Roland English and Sgt. First Class James Elliot of the N.C. National Guard.

Eleven first-year cadets receiving marksmanship badges were Sergeant Duane Parker and Corporal

Paul Benton, experts; Corporals Sharon Stewart, Henry Gales, and James Leopard, sharpshooters; Sergeant Tommy Love, Corporal Keith Cron, William Hewett, Alan White, Gene Inman and Billy Inman, marksmen badges.

"Assembled before us on this field is one of the finest cadet corps ever at West Brunswick," said U.S. Army Major Caldwell. "The first year cadets have provided remarkable leadership and the cadet officers have provided strong guidance and direction."
