Workshop Offered To Parents

A workshop on parenting will continue tonight at Union Primary School from 7 p.m. to 9:30 p.m. Although classes began last Thursday evening, all interested parents or other family members can still join the group that will meet each Thursday night until April 18, except for the week of April 11.

The four-part free workshop will be broken into the following sections: the very young child; children and discipline; schoolagers; the family and communication and communication and teenagers. Taught by Ruth Harvey, instructor of Brunswick Technical College's ten-week course on parenting, the workshop is sponsored by the Union Primary Parent-Teacher Organization, the Brunswick County Community

Schools program and Brunswick Technical College.

"We hope this course will offer hope and help to any kind of parent, the ones that are having problems now and the ones who want to prevent problems in the future," said Community Schools Coordinator Linden Mathews-Boone.

Drugs, alcohol and changing morals that are seen on television, in movies and in magazines influence our children, she added.

"They want to do what they think all their friends are doing, whether or not those things are good for them," she said.

Parents often need guidance in communicating with their children, but often, like alcoholics, they avoid seeking help, Ms. Mathews-Boone said.

For more information on the workshop, contact Betty Buck, counselor at Union Primary, 579-3591 or Ms. Mathews-Boone at 457-5241.

Schools Receive Award

Brunswick County Schools has been awarded the Golden Achievement Award for 1985 from the National School Public Relations Association.

The award is given annually to school systems with exceptional public relations activities, programs or projects. Brunswick County was cited for its "outstanding entry on community relations publications," said John Wherry, executive director of the association.

The three entries judged were in-house publications that are made available to the public by the school system. They were the annual report, "Looking At The Past, Striving For The Future"; the general information brochure, "Helping Create The Future," and a copy of the staff newsletter, "Quest For Excellence."

"This and other recent achievements illustrate a school system which is striving to reach its potential," said Linden Mathews-Boone, community schools coordinator.
