Carolina Shores Par 3 Noted For Its Beauty

The 3rd hole at Carolina Shores is another Par 3 noted for its beauty. It measures only 109 yards for the ladies, 125 for the men and 155 for the pros. However, its water hazard and sand traps make it a challenge for both local residents and visitors.

Mary and John Leek recently joined Stanley and Jacqueline Linham for 18 holes of golf at Carolina Shores. These married couples agree that it was worth the trip.

MARY & JOHN LEEK

The Leeks live in Oberlin, Ohio since coming to the United States from the Netherlands. Mary is a registered nurse and John builds pipe organs (mostly for churches).

STANLEY & JACQUELINE
LINHAM

Clark Summit, Pa. is home for the Linhams. Although Stan is retired, he will occasionally work as a specialty advertising consultant to various companies, including firms that imprint logos on golf balls. Jacqueline, on the other hand, can't retire. She must continue to take care of her golfing partner and travel companion.

Both couples expect to return to the area later this year or in 1986.

One-Day Tournament Benefits Rescuers

The first weekend in June offers area golfers some pleasant ways to support local charities.

While the last rounds of the South Brunswick Islands Chamber of Commerce Four-Ball Championship Tournament are played out at Oyster Bay Golf Links, another set of golfers will be warming up at Brierwood Golf Course in a four-member team captain's choice event benefitting the Shallotte Volunteer Rescue Squad.

Registration will be allowed up to the start of play at 8 a.m., with sign-up at the pro shop. The tax-deductible $25 entry fee per person includes cart and green fees as well as a homecooked pork barbecue dinner immediately following the tournament.

Trophies will be presented to the top three teams, along with prizes that are to be announced closer to the event.

Spokesman Greg White said the squad decided to schedule a spring tournament because of the success experienced with its first tournament last fall. Par is 71 at Brierwood.
