Personnel Commission

Reviews Orrock

Recommendation Tuesday

The State Personnel Commission will review a recommendation that former Brunswick County Social Services Director Jamie Orrock be reinstated when it meets in Raleigh Tuesday, April 16, at 9 a.m.

Hearing officer Barbara Coward recommended in October 1984 that Orrock be reinstated with back pay because, she said, the social services board had failed to show that he had sexually harassed former DSS employee Donna Hinson Rivenbark as charged. Orrock had been dismissed Nov. 30, 1983, on a charge of sexual misconduct.

Ms. Coward's recommendation, based on two days of testimony heard last August, was to have gone to the Commission on Feb. 5. The review was granted at the request of DSS atorney Mary Easley to allow the DSS board time in which to file exceptions to the recommendation with the Commission.

Joe Totten of the State Personnel Commission Office said he was confident the hearing would take place as scheduled next Tuesday.

Any decision by the Commission is not binding on the social services board. For instance, if it rules in Orrock's favor, the board is not obligated or required to reinstate him.

The Brunswick County Social Services Department is currently interviewing for a new director. The position has been vacant since Orrock's dismissal. DSS Board Chairman Betty Varnum is the current acting director.
