Workshop Looks At Stress And Cancer

A workshop on "Women and Health" and a free blood pressure clinic will be held April 20 at the Brunswick County Government Center at Bolivia.

Sponsored by the Brunswick County Council on the Status of Women, the workshop is for women interested in learning more about their own health and that of their families, said Margaret G. Shelton, vice chairman of the council.

It begins at 9:45 a.m. in the public assembly building and concludes at 12 noon.

Two associates of the Brunswick Hospital will be the featured speakers. Marlene Howlett, R.N., director of nursing, will discuss stress management, while Elizabeth Bauerschmidt, education coordinator, will talk about cancer.

The workshop coincides with both National Cancer Month and Public Health Week, April 15-21.

High blood pressure, said Ms. Shelton, has been labeled "the silent killer." Often those who have it are not aware of it. The free blood pressure clinic is free and available to everyone.

Refreshments will be served at the workshop, for which there is no charge.
