Being Wrong Was Never Like This Before

BY JOHNNY CRAIG

Last week I sat in the exact same spot and with much difficulty tried to eulogize a man whom I had (and still do have) much respect for both as a person and his contributions to collegiate athletics. Little did I know the impact of eight short paragraphs would create such turmoil in his family, my personal life and with the Beacon staff as well.

It was only a matter of minutes last Wednesday after the Beacon hit the racks that a wave of phone calls began to come in to inform both myself and publisher/editor Eddie Sweatt that my report of G.E. "Ted" Mann's death was indeed not

A helpless feeling hit me immediately along with a sickly sensation right in the gut about the mistake that had been made. Jumping in the nearest hole seemed to be the most appropriate thing to do.

In effort to put to rest the report in last week's column, I am delighted to announce that Ted Mann is not dead but very much alive at his Holden Beach home.

Not since David Zuckerman (former WECT newscaster) erroneously reported the death of N.C. Senator R.C. Soles three years ago has there been this degree of mistake made. However, because of the daily broadcasts of television, Zuckerman was able to retract his statement the very next

The problem with weekly newspapers is that, right or wrong, they are the "gospel" for seven days until the next publication date rolls around. Believe me, the past seven days have certainly been very long and stressful for myself because of the mistake. I'm sure last week was no less easier for the Mann family either as is understandable.

When a source that a writer considers to be reliable winds up being not-so-reliable, (as was the case here last week), it can lead to much undue confusion and misfortune. To Mann, his family and all concerned, I offer my utmost apology for my error in last week's Sporting Scene.

Whiteville Sweeps Randleman For State Championship

Wolfpack pitchers Tommy Greene and Tommy Hammends silenced Randleman bats last week as the pair limited the Tigers to only six hits in Whiteville's two-game sweep enroute to its second state 2-A baseball championship in four years

The heralded Greene led Whiteville to a 1-0 win in the playoff opener Friday in two-hit fashion while losing pitcher Scott Lineberry gave up the game's only run in the first inning when Henry Threadgill scored after a lead-off single Hammonds went the distance in the championship game on a fourhitter in his first playoff appearance as the Wolfpack routed the host Tigers 14-2.

The sweep concluded Whiteville's season at 26-3 while Randleman finished at 22-5.

Whiteville took control early in the final game scoring three runs in the first and adding six more for a 9-0 lead in the second inning.

The Wolfpack ran out to a 12-0 lead after five innings when Randleman losing pitcher Dave McDuffie was lifted and Lineberry came in on relief after going the distance in the first

The Tigers scored two runs in the sixth inning and one in the seventh to prevent the shutout.

Chris Threadgill led the Wolfpack at the plate in the championship game with four hits.

In other state playoff action, Southern Wayne won two of three games from Ashbrook (Gastonia) to win the 4-A crown. The Saints won the opener but saw Ashbrook tie the series at one game each with a 4-1 in in the second contest. However, So, thern Wayne took a 3-1 win in the thir I and deciding contest to win the school's first state baseball title. Southern Wayne concluded the year at 27-1 while Ashbrook finished at state 2-A baseball title and was only the second high school pitcher selected in the draft. The 6-foot-5, 225-pounder finished with a 40-4 career pitching record including a state-record 248 regular-season strikeouts this year.

Greene also threw nine career nohitters including three this season with his 95 mph fastball.

While Greene took most of the predraft and post-draft publicity, North Brunswick baseball and basketball standout Dana Quince surprised everyone at becoming the Seattle

Mariners 20th round choice.

Quince recently signed a basketball grand-in-aid with Louisburg Junior College but the decision of a possible pro baseball career has added a new twist to his future.

Quince drew the atttention of pro scouts with his three-hit, 10-strikeout win over Whiteville and Greene during one of the Scorpions regular season battles with the Wolfpack.

Pro scouts stated Quince's fastball averaged 86 mph and that the 5-11, 170-pound hurler had an excellent

Quince alternated between shortstop and pitcher this season in helping lead the Scorps to a 13-10-2 record and the state 2-A quarterfinals. He was also an All-East Waccamaw Conference and All-Brunswick County selection in both basketball and baseball.

Although Quince is still negotiating his contract with the help of Scorp coach Bubba Baldwin, the recent North Brunswick graduate is reported leaning toward a career in a Mariners uniform

County Special Olympians Go For The Gold

Eighteen athletes recently represented Brunswick County in the North Carolina Special Olympics Summer Garnes, held May 24 and 25 in Charlotte, bringing home medals in softball and track and field events.

Following an opening game against Wilson County special athletes, the Brunswick County delegation joined other participants for the opening ceremony and parade of athletes on the University of North Carolina at Charlotte campus, reported Dorene Vereen, Special Olympics coordinator and coordinator of programs for special populations with the Brunswick County Department of Parks and Recreation.

Brunswick County defeated both Charlotte-Mecklenburg (9-4) and Henderson (11-7) for the gold medal in softball, in what Ms. Vereen called "a spectacular showing" from a South Brunswick Middle School foursome: Freddie Patton and Hannah Lewis, catchers; Shawn Edge, second base; Jean Johnson, shortshop and relief pitcher.

Other team members were, by school: South Brunswick High-Charles Clarida, centerfield; Shallotte Middle-Woody Hewett, pitcher; Terris Jenrette, third base; David Rhodes, short center; Leland Middle-Danny Barker, right field; and Maurice Edge, left field; and Brunswick High School-Robert Davis, first base.

Softball team head coach was Anthony Price of Shallotte Middle School. Assisting from South Brunswick High were Larry Panky at first base, Larry Galloway at third and Alandis Smith, outfield.

Athletes ran, jumped and threw for medals and ribbons in the track and field events.

Karen Kirk of Leland Middle School was head track and field coach, assisted by Mark and David Malpass' parents.

The purpose of the state games is to provide special athletes with an opportunity to meet other participants from around the state, for them to share a new experience, and to compete in the spirit of the Special Olympic oath: "Let me win, but if I cannot win, let me be brave in the at-
