Many Relatives, Visitors Attend Reaves Reunion

BY BARBARA T. HEWETT

The Fourth of July week marking our nation's birthday was said by some Brunswick Countians to have been the best ever. As for me, the portion of the week I experienced in my own county was just that.

When arriving at the home of Aunt Willie and Uncle Roosevelt, I was greeted by their daughter, Vernice, who came in for the Reaves' family reunion. She had looked forward all year to being back in the county. She lives and teaches in Pasadena, Maryland.

We discussed all that went on at the N.C. Writing Project in Wilmington, which I am attending.

It was learned during the Reaves' reunion that Jhonnie Lee Reaves Jackson is being sent by the U.S.

Department that deals with human resources to work in Africa, Monrovia and Liberia for the next two years. She will have a leave during the month of July next year, which will allow her to give us first-hand information about the experiences there.

It was announced that Wayne Vaught, son of Barbara and Clayton Vaught, will say his vows to Stacy Renee Crumpler Sunday, Aug. 4 at Rt. 2, Fayetteville, the home of Mr. and Mrs. Lacy Crumpler Jr.

There were many relatives who came from miles to say hello at the Reaves' reunion. The visiting relatives were too numerous to mention by name.

Other Comings And Goings

Home after visiting in New York are Eugene Hewett and his granddaughter, Faneidra. She experienced her first flight on Piedmont Airlines.

Mrs. Lumina Stanley has returned from Jamaica, New York, where she visited her brothers. It was delightful to see her Saturday.

Where Can A Widow Get Financial Advice?

BY DICKY POWELL
BRUNSWICK FUNERAL SERVICE

If your deceased husband did not appoint a bank trust officer or attorney to handle the affairs of his estate, it would be wise to seek legal advice. Several financial decisions must be made immediately following a husband's death. These should be accomplished with the advice of an experienced banker or attorney.

Certain aspects of the estate will be decided for you by the law, whether or not you have a will. If there is a will, you may still seek professional advice while pondering these first decisions.

We may be able to provide you with additional sources of help and information. Please feel free to call on us.
