She has taught art in the Columbus County schools and at Southeastern Community College. Her works are on exhibit at various locations throughout Southeastern North Carolina.

Goods Taken From Store

A breaking and entering at the Oasis Food Mart in Calabash resulted in the theft of approximately $400 in food and other merchandise sometime early Monday morning, the Brunswick County Sheriff's Department reported.

According to Sheriff John Carr Davis, a store employee arriving at work early Monday morning discovered the merchandise was missing and called the sheriff's department.

Apparently, an alarm at the store did not sound, so neither the sheriff's department nor a private security company was notified of trouble at the store sometime early Monday.

The store is located one mile north of Calabash at the intersection of N.C. 179 and Clariday Road.
