Hundreds Claim Surplus Food

While Brunswick County Social Services Department staff closed down hurricane shelters and ran the office Friday, volunteers conducted the agency's first "cheese day" in more than a year at the public assembly building. Director Jamie Orrock said 95 food stamp households were served within the first hour, receiving items such as butter, cheese, rice, cornmeal, flour, nonfat dry milk and honey. Above, Lewis Ross of Boiling Spring Lakes breaks into a bag of rice for waiting co-volunteer Ruby Davis.

Tech Denies Negligence In 1983 Death Of Student

In answer to a wrongful death suit filed against it in March, Brunswick Technical College is denying any negligence on the part of the college or its employees in the death of a man 33 days after he struck his head on the floor during a defensive tactics class in 1983.

It asks that the case be dismissed. Winifred A. Kilby, widow and administratrix of the estate of Robert E. Kilby, filed suit March 27 in New Hanover County seeking more than $829,000 in damages for Kilby's death, citing negligence on the part of the defendants. The suit lists as defendants the college; its board of trustees; Joseph Carter, president; Geraldine Shaver, extension program coordinator; and Tony M. Williams, instructor for the class.

Kilby was thrown and struck his head on a concrete floor during a Nov. 1 class exercise. He was subsequently hospitalized for more than 32 days until his death on Dec. 3, 1983.

The college argues in its answer that if there was any negligence on the part of one or more defendants—which it denies—that Kilby was guilty of contributory negligence because he allegedly enrolled in the course "when he knew or should have known he was not competent or capable of handling such," and assumed any inherent risk associated with the course.

"That he knew and the defendants did not know he had previously had an operation of his head and brain, had pericardiac problems, had calcified coronary arteriosclerosis, had bilateral chronic pulmonary emphysema, had chronic pancreatitis, had fatty metamorphosis of the liver and had chronic passive congestion of the liver," it adds. "He further knew and the defendants did not know that with these problems he should not have entered into the activity he purposely and voluntarily engaged in when he suffered his injury."

The college furthermore answers that Kilby "moved in a dangerous way when he knew he was overweight and lacked the necessary coordination for the movement he was making," that he failed to stay on the safety mat provided, did not follow instructions as to how to conduct the exercise, and did not advise the defendants of any limitations in his physical condition or capability to perform the activities included in the course.

Mrs. Kilby is seeking reimbursement for medical expenses of $28,863.24; funeral expenses of $667.20; compensation for Kilby's pain and suffering of $200,000; and $600,000 for "the present monetary value of the decedent" to his next of kin.

The college is represented in the action by John F. Crossley of Wilmington; the plaintiff is represented by Thomas J. Morgan, also of Wilmington.

Celebrate Our Holden Beach Grand Opening And Register To Win One Day's Interest On A Million Dollars.

We're just as excited about opening our new NCNB Holden Beach Office as we were when we opened our Calabash Office. That's why we're celebrating our Holden Beach Grand Opening, from September 30 to October 4, with another Millionaire Sweepstakes."

If you've ever wondered what it's like to be a millionaire, be sure to register for our special grand prize. We'll be giving away the amount of interest you could earn on a million dollars for one day. Our Grand Prize Winner will receive an amount that's based on an interest rate of 10%, compounded daily for a year.

And, that's not all. We'll also be giving away plaid stadium blankets to ten other lucky winners. We haven't forgotten the food either. From September 30 to October 4, we'll be serving refreshments and handing out prizes every day.

Opening our Holden Beach Office makes us feel like a million bucks. Come celebrate with us, register to win, and let us treat you like a millionaire.
