BTC Audit Shows No Major Deficiencies

A report on the audit of Brunswick Technical College for the year that ended June 30 shows no significant deficiencies in internal accounting controls, compliance or accounting records, according to State Auditor Ed Renfrow.

The auditor attributed deficits in two fund balances to a change in accounting procedures. Current revenues included proprietary funds of $65,231, restricted funds of $71,661 and unexpended plant funds of $106,248, in addition to $138,720 in plant improvements. General unrestricted revenues totaled $2.022 million for the year, with general fund expenses of $2.04 million, for a net decrease in funds of $16,553. That left a negative fund equity balance of $2,522.68. With expenditures of $146,845, the unexpended plant fund also showed a deficit of $13,520.51 for the year.

These deficits resulted from the school's conversion from the cash basis of accounting to the accrual basis of accounting at year end, the auditor noted. "The deficit balances resulted primarily from the recording of liabilities at year end which will be paid from funds provided in the subsequent year." Balance sheets show fixed assets at year's end of $2.05 million. For the year, the college bookstore showed a net operating income of $7,253. The college financial aid office received $7,779 U.S. Department of Education funds for the work-study program and $60,179 in Pell Grants. BTC also received a $2,018 grant from the N.C. Alternative Energy Corp. for a series of solar heating workshops.

Divided as to source, the school received $1,838,599 in state current operating funds and $179,528 from the county. In its plant fund, BTC received $74,248 from the state and $32,000 from the county.

Ocean Isle POA Discusses Directors

Members of the Ocean Isle Beach Property Owners Association elected five new directors Saturday and discussed the pros and cons of changing the make-up of their board of directors.

Elected as board members Saturday were residents Pat Hostetler and Dr. Lowell McClary and non-residents Stuart Ingram, Allen Jolly and MacLeod Fowler. They were presented by the nominating committee led by Winfred Ervin.

Later in the day, the board elected Jolly its president; Betty Watt, vice president; Pat O'Neil, treasurer; and appointed a secretary from outside the board's membership—Margaret Willard.

As composed, the board presently consists of six non-resident property owners and four residents, each serving a two-year staggered term. When written, the bylaws were intended to assure a balanced representation of resident and non-resident property owners and all areas of the island, and to prevent cliques, according to minutes prepared by Anne Knight.

Board members said they would consider Saturday's open discussion in their deliberation of the matter. Of the organization's 565 members, 251 sent proxies to Saturday's meeting and another 45 attended. Several members had questions for Mayor LaDane Bullington.

Work on the town park has been delayed until the sewer system is installed, Mayor LaDane Bullington said in answer to a question from Sondra Sue Jennings. She said the park is planned as part of a town hall complex and suggested the association might create a capital reserve fund to assist with the complex.

In answer to other questions, she agreed with Betty Harkey that trash removal was a problem, but not one beyond a solution, and said sidewalks for the causeway are budgeted for installation once the sewer system is installed.

To John Brockington, who asked about the town's beach renourishment program, she described the installation of groins on the east end, sand fences and seeking state support for more access areas.

In other business, after purchasing a three-wheeled Honda for the strand patrol and operating expenses, the association has a cash balance of $4,199, reported Ingram. No dues increase is planned in 1986.

Christmas Camp Planned

Children should be dropped off in the parking lot next to the school's marine science building by 8 a.m. and picked up by 5:20 p.m. in the same area.

Weather-appropriate clothing

Harold Willets of Bolivia brought down this 10-point buck with a rack of mirror-perfect symmetry literally by accident—and without firing a shot. He struck the deer the night of Nov. 18 while driving on U.S. 17 south of Bolivia near the extension tree lot adjoining the Brunswick County Government Center and less than a mile from home. Willets plans to mount the trophy, said the photographer, Frank Galloway.

Winnabow VFD To Serve BBQ

Contest Cutoff Date Delayed

The deadline for entering a design in a countywide senior flag competition has been extended until Jan. 2, 1986, Brunswick County Arts Council President Ouida Hewett said.

Regardless of the format, designs should be submitted to P.O. Box 172, Bolivia, N.C. 28422 for consideration. The only requirement is that the design depict senior citizens of Brunswick County.

The winning entry will be made into a flag for display during the year and the winner will receive a complimentary dinner for two from the council.
